Known also as "The South Eighth."

CANDLEWOOD

THE STORY OF AN ANCIENT NEIGHBORHOOD.

Why and when the name was given is largely a matter of conjecture. Pastor Higginson of Salem wrote to friends in England of the primitive way in which the earliest settlers often lighted their houses, by burning thin strips of the pitch pine trees. The suggestion is natural that this fine farming country was originally covered with a pine forest, and that it was of so clear grain and so rich in pitch, that it furnished the light for many homes. The name, Candlewood Island, was very early given to a spot in the upper river, in the present limit of Topsfield, but except a single allusion to Candlewood Street in a deed of 1812, no reference to the name occurs in any early documents. An ancient deed, drawn in 1652, speaks of a portion of this neighborhood, at least, at Mr. Joseph Marshall's, as "a place called Chebacco." The more prosaic name, The South Eighth, prevailed seventy-five years ago, but the more significant and picturesque name, Candlewood, has been common for two generations and may well be perpetuated.

Strictly speaking, the ancient neighborhood to which the name was originally applied, centered about the corner, where the Essex road and the Candlewood road divide, but for convenience sake, its bounds will be stretched and it will be taken as including the whole region east of the Old Bay road and south of the road to Argilla.

Jonathan Wade's Lot.

No. 1 on Diagram.

Beginning with the north side of the road, now called Essex Road, the whole tract from the line of division between Mr. Maynard Whittier and Mr. Samuel Gordon, to the orchard lot now owned by Mr. Wallace P. Willett seems to have belonged originally to Mr. Jonathan Wade, a substantial citizen, who owned the mills at the lower falls, and the homestead which had belonged to the eminent Rev. Nathaniel Ward. His will (proved 1669. Pro. Rec. 304: 125-6), bequeathed his land and housing and the mills to his son, Thomas. Thomas bequeathed all his landed estate to his sons, Jonathan and Thomas in equal portions (proved Oct. 3, 1696. Pro. Rec. 305: 216-7.)

Jonathan, by division with his brother, or by purchase, became the owner of this whole tract and enlarged it by the purchase of the Gravel Pit Pasture, now included in the house lots of Mr. Albert S. Brown and Mr.

Maynard Whittier, from Mr. Daniel Rogers, Dec. 20, 1727 (66: 2). He bequeathed to his wife, Jane, the use and improvement of one half of his real estate, and the use of his negro man, Dick; to his grandson, William Cogswell, "the pasture I purchased of Mr. Daniel Rogers with the common land laid out and adjoining thereto, commonly called Gravel Pit Pasture." If he should die, the will provided that it should be given to his granddaughters. The residue was bestowed upon his grandson, Dr. Nathaniel Cogswell of Rowley. The division of the ancient pasture and the eventual sale to Mr. Brown and Mr. Whittier, have been fully considered in the history of "The Old Bay Road and Samuel Appleton's Farm." ¹

In 1716, March 10, Jonathan Wade sold his brother, Thomas, 14 or 15 acres at the Windmill Hill lot (28: 265). Captain Thomas built the mansion, still known as the Col. Wade house, for his dwelling in 1727, as the family tradition has always maintained. He bequeathed to his wife, Elizabeth, one half the dwelling, his negro woman, and his silver tankard; to his daughter, Elizabeth Cogswell, "my negro girl, I account at £40," and to his son, Timothy, all his real estate. His son Thomas received £500 and his daughter Mary Wise was well remembered (proved Jan. 2, 1737. Pro. Rec. 322: 97-100). Timothy Wade left a numerous family, the widow Ruth, sons, William, John, Nathaniel and Samuel and daughters, Elizabeth Heard and Mary. The widow had the use of a third of the real estate "and my negro man, Pomp, except she finds best to sell him" (proved April 9, 1763 Pro. Rec. 340: 326). The widow, as executrix, sold 15 acres to William, Feb. 24, 1769 (131: 150) and William conveyed 11 acres 82 rods, as the deed states, though there may be an error in the figures, to Ruth, on the next day, Feb. 25, 1769 (134: 52). Thomas Wade, the son of William sold a part of the estate of his father to Nathaniel, Jan. 5, 1803 (171: 158) which he reconveyed to Thomas, Jan. 6, 1803, 3½ acres, bounded on the east by the land of Eunice, widow of William, set off as part of her thirds in her late husband's estate (171: 158). The heirs of Thomas quitclaimed to Isaac Wade, Feb. 8, 1831 (261: 217). Isaac sold to George Haskell, Oct. 26, 1831 (261: 216) and Haskell to Charles Giddings, Jan. 9, 1835 (279: 194). Their interest in the lot set off to the widow was sold by William Wade and David and Elizabeth Choate, of Essex, to Samuel Wade, April 28, 1829 (253: 49) who sold the lot, 4½ acres, to Charles Giddings, Jan. 26, 1835 (279: 194). Giddings sold the whole lot, estimated as 8 acres, to Samuel Gordon, March 8, 1859 (583: 250). Mr. Gordon built the dwelling which he still occupies. He conveyed a small lot on the eastern side of the homestead to his son, Samuel C. Gordon, upon which he built his attractive dwelling, Aug. 6, 1903 (1715: 485).

Ruth Wade, the widow of Timothy, conveyed 6 acres to Col. Nathaniel, Dec. 10, 1772 (134: 52). In the division of Col. Wade's estate, the west half of this lot was assigned to his son, William Foster Wade, the east, to his son Nathaniel, May 17, 1827 (244: 244). The heirs of Nathaniel sold to William F. Wade Jr., March 4, 1844 (344: 129). The heirs of William F. sold to their brother, Asa, six eighths of the lot, June 13, 1853 (492: 80), the heirs of Daniel Weed sold him one eighth, April 8, 1854 (499: 295) and he inherited an eighth. William F. Wade sold the other half of the original lot to Asa, March 6, 1854 (502: 104). He conveyed to Wallace P. Willett, Nov. 9, 1880 (1051: 214). Sarah E. Willett, wife of Wallace P., sold to Enoch Bailey, Sept. 12, 1892 (1355: 88). Mr. Bailey built the house and made his home here until his death. His widow, Mary M. Bailey, sold the house and the 6 acres to Albin M. Spuyt, March 30, 1903 (1702: 222).

The widow, Ruth Wade, sold another 6 acre lot to Abraham Choate, May 4, 1764 (120: 83) which was conveyed by Samuel and John Choate to Samuel Kinsman, Jan. 2, 1775 (134: 166) who then owned the farm now owned and occupied by Mr. Carl Caverly. He sold the whole farm to Asa Andrews, April 7, 1809 (186: 48). Theodore Andrews, son of Asa, sold to Increase H. Brown of Marblehead and his brother, Asa of Ipswich, Oct. 24, 1835 (286: 196). In the division of the various pieces of real estate which they owned jointly, the "Choate lot" was assigned to Asa Brown, May 2, 1840 (318: 193). He mortgaged and eventually gave title to Benjamin Hawkes (643: 19) who conveyed to Increase H. Brown, Oct. 12, 1863 (657: 181), Brown to Theodore F. Cogswell on the same date and he, to Josiah Stackpole, June 23, 1882 (1075: 77) whose heirs still own.

The Humphrey Griffin Lot.

No. 2 on Diagram.

Humphrey Griffin was the original owner apparently of a large tract owned later by Samuel Podd, then by Thomas and James Burnham. It seems to have joined the Jonathan Wade land. The lot adjoining the Choate lot on the east was included in the estate of Dr. Nathaniel Cogswell, which he had inherited, for the most part, as has been said, from his grandfather, Jonathan Wade, in 1749. Dr. Cogswell seems to have acquired this lot, not by inheritance, but by purchase from the Burnhams, who were large land owners in this vicinity, prior to the year 1769. In the deed of conveyance from the Cogswell heirs to Theodore Andrews, the lot is called "the Burnham pasture," 18 acres, Nov. 15, 1825 (243: 18). Andrews sold to Asa and Nathan Brown, April 1, 1833 (269: 89). They divided the lot, the west half falling to Nathan. He conveyed to Perley Haskell the same described in the quitclaim deed of Asa, Dec. 2, 1837, on May 1, 1838 (312: 215). It passed successively to Epes Sargent, March 30, 1839 (312: 216), Alfred Kimball, Sept. 9, 1859 (593: 214) and Wallace P. Willett, the present owner, April 11, 1860 (603: 260).

Nathan Brown quitclaimed the eastern half to Asa Brown, Dec. 2, 1837 (304: 51), Asa sold to his brother, Increase H., Oct. 28, 1862 (643: 243). He sold to their sister, Mrs. Rhoda B. Potter, April 28, 1866 (701: 230), who conveyed to Ira B. Carlisle, April 26, 1869 (770: 107). John W. Carlisle, brother of Ira, gained possession and his heirs conveyed to his widow, Nancy B., Nov. 6, 1897 (1530: 378). She included this 9 acre pasture in the sale of the farm to Lester E. Libby, Sept. 19, 1899 (1587: 137).

Alonzo B. Fellows purchased it of Libby, Jan. 29, 1900 (1601: 496) and still owns.

The Hobson lot, so called, on which the old cellar and the lilac bushes, which bloomed in the door-yard, are still seen, was undoubtedly a part of the Thomas Burnham estate. Moses Potter sold to Samuel Kinsman, $3\frac{1}{4}$ acres of upland and meadow, with a dwelling, barn and well, "reserving a way through the premises where the way formerly went for Thomas Burnham and Capt John Kinsman," April 8, 1778 (138: 167). It was owned and occupied before 1790, by Alexander Troop, who left a widow, Lucy, and son, Alexander, and minor children, Lucy, Jane, Peggy, Christian, Hannah and William (175: 117). Alexander Troop, laborer, conveyed the homestead to Daniel C. Hobson, brick maker, Sept. 7, 1801 (194: 15). The heirs of Hobson, whoever they may be, are the legal owners of the small estate to-day, but the taxes have been paid and the lot has been used as a pasture, by the owners of the adjoining lot, Thomas Low and his successors, for many years.

Old Road.

On Diagram.

A little to the east of the Hobson cellar, an old road, grass-grown and long disused, but plainly visible, leads down the slope and turns to the right toward the present Heart Break Road. This is the way reserved in Moses Potter's deed to Samuel Kinsman, "where the way formerly went to Thomas Burnham and Capt. John Kinsman," April 8, 1778. This ancient road is of especial interest, as it opened the way to a group of houses and tillage and pasture lots in the earliest times.

The first of these old settlers is Samuel Podd, to whom Humphrey Griffin, late of Ipswich, sold two parcels, a 6 acre lot "which is & hath been in the possession of sayd Samuel Pod diverse years bounded by John Brown northeast and the common west and a 10 acre lot with a piece of swamp which I the said Humphrey bought of Joseph Metcalfe" with John Lee, north, other land of Samuel Pod, west, Feb. 20, 1660. (Ips. Deeds 4: 396). On March 6, 1677, Samuel Podd conveyed to James Burnham, "a small parcel of my land about 5 rod broad between 27 & 28 rods in length," having Mr. Wade's land southwest, Mr. Nathaniel Rogers's northwest, Podd's other land northeast and southeast on the highway leading to John Brown's to the brook, and also a free passage to the common, allowing a passage $1\frac{1}{2}$ rods wide from sd Burnham's land to his house, etc. (Ips. Deeds 4: 280). In the December following, articles of agreement between Samuel and Grace Podd and James Burnham were drawn, which specified:

1. A lease to James Burnham, of the house and land, and 20 acres adjoining and all the marsh and upland in the island formerly Edward Chapman's during the life of Podd and his wife.
2. Podd is to have the use of half the barn, etc., during his life.
3. At the death of the Podd's, the title to rest with Burnham. (Ips. Deeds 4: 281).

James Burnham was the younger son of Thomas, who bought the house and 12 acres of George Giddings, on the Argilla road, June 3, 1667 (1: 217) and his purchase from Podd was the first of a long series of conveyances, of which only the most prominent can be considered. The Podd land seems to be identical, in part, with the land now owned by Mr. Carl Caverly. It extended to the Gloucester road apparently and was bounded on one side by the Jonathan Wade land, we have already considered. It also included part of the land on the east side of Heart-break road.

John Brown's Lot.

No. 3 on Diagram.

On January 9, 1684, James Burnham bought of John Brown, his land and dwelling, some 16 acres in all. A ten acre field was bounded by Podd's land south and southwest, land of Lieut. Thomas Burnham, brother of James, and other land of James north and northwest, Joseph Lee's and Samuel Podd's land east. A six acre lot was near by. (Ips. Deeds 2: 77.)

In various later conveyances allusion is often made to the great rock in the field that was Brown's. A large granite boulder has been gradually blasted away for building stone, in a field owned by the heirs of Joseph Kinsman, on the east side of the lane. As this is the only rock that can be found in the vicinity, it may safely be identified with the rock mentioned in the deeds, and locates in a general way the house and land of John Brown.

In the division of the estate of Thomas Burnham, father of James and Thomas, the homestead and adjoining lands were apportioned to Thomas, Nov. 14, 1691 (9: 161). To James, conveyance was made of "the interest he hath in his now dwelling house, which said James liveth in, with $\frac{3}{4}$ acre about it and 14 acres upland and meadow near the homestead" 1687 (9: 168). James Burnham apparently had built a new house before this date.

Mr. Burnham added other fields to his domain from year to year; a half acre of meadow from Daniel Rogers in April 10, 1691; (Ips. Deeds 5: 397) an acre "partly common" south of Podd's home lot, August 1, 1690 (Ips. Deeds 5: 329), and a two acre lot having Podd's land northwest, May 14, 1691 (Ips. Deeds 5: 380) both purchased of Samuel Rogers; 4 acres of pasture from Daniel Rogers having Captain Wade's land on the south, Feb. 13, 1693 (10: 98); a $6\frac{1}{2}$ acre pasture from Rev. John Rogers, which Thomas Burnham Jr., carpenter, had sold him, on the south of his homestead, April 10, 1693 (10: 97), and a 7 acre field from Joseph Lee, Aug. 9, 1695 (11: 39).

On Sept. 2, 1703, he conveyed to his son, Thomas, "a certain parcel of meadow upland and marsh with ye buildings, with my old house, barn and shop, with half an acre they stand on, joining to them as it is bounded by ye Common southwest, and by Mr. Wade's land westerly," his orchard bounded by Mr. Wade's land west, and a 6 acre pasture adjoining etc (24: 18). A few rods from the road, in the orchard now owned by Mr. Willett, a level spot amid the rolling hillocks, would have afforded ample room for an ancient dwelling, and I have often thought, that the old house alluded to in this deed, may have stood there.

James Burnham made a later conveyance to his son Thomas of about 40 acres and housing on Jan. 25, 1719 (37: 161). Thomas sold the same, enlarged to 61 acres to Samuel Bragg, Dec. 18, 1773 (135: 53). Bragg sold the house and 26 acres to Samuel Kinsman, May 7, 1784 (186: 47). Kinsman sold the house and 18 acres to Asa Andrews, "with the road running through the same," "also the right to pass and repass on that piece between the bridge and Josiah Burnham's barn, now fenced out as a way, also a piece of land adjoining the above, $1\frac{1}{2}$ rods wide 28 rods long, bounded on land we sold Asa about a year since, . . . reserving a way one rod wide subject to gates and bars for those who have heretofore been accustomed to pass," April 7, 1809 (186: 48). This deed has great interest from its inclusion of the small parcel which Samuel Podd conveyed to James Burnham in 1677, and the allusion to the fact that the present Heart-break road had "been fenced out as a way."

Mr. Andrews enlarged the farm by later purchases so that it contained 47 acres when his son and heir, Theodore Andrews, conveyed it to Increase and Asa Brown, Oct. 24, 1835 (286: 196). By the deed of division the farm with the exception of the Choate lot, as was mentioned, fell to Increase H. Brown. His executor sold to J. Farley Kinsman, June 2, 1873 (882: 22), who conveyed it to Dr. Sidney A. Lord, measuring 41 acres, Oct. 25, 1904 (1760: 1). He sold to Mr. Carl Caverly, the present owner.

The exact age of the house is uncertain. Its sharp roof and general architecture point to the seventeenth century. It was built probably by James Burnham, and may be the dwelling which he occupied in 1687, or the later house in which he dwelt in 1703.

On the same day that he conveyed the 40 acres and dwelling to his son, Thomas, James Burnham made similar conveyance of "the house I now live in," barn etc., the malt house and about 40 acres to his son James (37: 178). His will was presented for probate, June 27, 1729 (Pro. Rec. 319: 223). It recites that his real estate had been given to his sons already. His wife, Mary, received a privilege in the west end of the house with all personal effects, servants, money, etc. The inventory includes two negro servants, valued at £100 and a calash, £7-10.

Rev. Nathaniel Rogers's Lot.

No. 4 on Diagram.

James Burnham Jr., son of James, by purchase acquired the Rogers estate. In the indenture between John Rogers, the President of Harvard College, and his brother Samuel, by which the estate of their father, Rev. Nathaniel Rogers was divided between them, Samuel received a house and 8 acres, bounded one side by Goodman Loe and by Edward Bragg at one end, March 4, 1684 (Ips. Deeds 5: 146). This included the Willard B. Kinsman property now occupied by Miss Patch and part of the Wallace farm.

Samuel Rogers also received from his father's estate, 6 acres of upland adjoining Thomas Loe and Samuel Pod, 40 acres adjoining Mr. Wade, Mr. Saltonstall and Joseph Lee (now owned by Mr. John Galbraith) and the 40 acre Ox Pasture, near the Haffield Bridge.

The inventory of Mr. John Rogers, son of Samuel, taken Nov 21, 1694 (Pro. Rec. 303: 260) included:

"y^e mansion house and common right, barne and other outhouses, orchard and homestead about 6 acres and 5 acres of upland near Podd's," etc. and one negro servant, valued at £30.

Martha Rogers, widow of John, married Jacob Boarman. Her account of the estate included an allowance for bringing up the three children from their father's death to the time of her marriage, about six years, "besides y^e income of y^e sd estate £50-0-0" (Pro. Rec. 309: 266). A double share was given to John, the oldest child, and shares to Sarah and Martha. The widow also received a part of the estate (311: 204). Jacob Boarman and Martha, in consideration of a deed of quitclaim by James Burnham Jr. and wife, Sarah, and Matthew Perkins Jr. and wife Martha, conveyed to James and Sarah Burnham and Matthew and Martha Perkins, their interest in the house and land of "our father, Mr. Samuel Rogers," "the west end of the dwelling they now dwell in," Dec. 21, 1714 (29: 192). Jacob Boarman made a later conveyance to James Burnham Jr. of five sixths of the dwelling he then occupied, March 4, 1719 (38: 110).

James Burnham, the son of James, survived his father but a few years. The inventory of his estate was filed, May 5, 1737 (Pro. Rec. 322: 379). It revealed a goodly degree of prosperity and even luxury. His apparel was valued at £60-8-0.

about 26 acres on y^e westerly side of y^e road leading to Chebacco £282-0-0"
(now owned by Geo. A. Whipple)

Real and personal estate £5083-18-0

The estate was divided:

To the widow Hannah, was assigned one third of the real estate,

"five sixths of the house of sd deceased, that did once belong to Mr. John Rogers and about $\frac{3}{4}$ acre about it, and the 26 acres on Chebacco road."

To his daughter, Abigail, the 1st division, part of the house that was formerly Mr. James Burnham's, "over y^e stone kitchen" and various fields.

To his eldest daughter, Sarah, the 2nd division, rooms in the house of deceased "and y^e part of y^e old house that was Pods, and y^e old house where y^e widow Comer dwelt" with various lots.

To his daughter, Mary, m. Staniford, the 3d division, half the malt kiln and part of the homestead.

To his daughter Hannah, m. Kinsman, the 4th division, rooms in the dwelling of James, and about $1\frac{1}{4}$ acres on the southerly side of road to Chebacco (now included in the lot occupied by T. M. Norman, owned by William J. Cameron).

It appears from this, that Mr. Burnham occupied the Rogers house and that his father's house (about where the Wallace dwelling stands, I incline to believe), the ancient Podd dwelling and another old house, perhaps the John Brown house occupied by the widow Comer, were still standing on the farm.

The legatees conveyed their interest to Capt. John Kinsman; Thos. Staniford and his wife, Mary, daughter of Mr. Burnham on Jan. 3, 1740 (81: 197) and Mar. 16, 1758 (112: 263); Martha Dodge, widow of Barnabas, Aug. 16, 1740 (80: 120); Abigail, another daughter, on April 30, 1755 (112: 264) and March 25, 1758 (115: 159); and Rev. Nathaniel Rogers¹ on May 24, 1760 (115: 160) and March 16, 1761 (115: 158).

Thomas Low's Lot.

No. 5 on Diagram.

Mention has been made of Thomas Loe or Low as abutting on the Rogers homestead on the south and facing the ancient Lane on the west. John Low, son of Thomas, was in possession in 1690 and he conveyed the homestead and 8 acres to his brother, Thorndike, May 5, 1708 (36: 218). John was then a resident of Portsmouth, N. H. Under the will of Thorndike (proved Oct. 17, 1750. Pro. Rec. 336: 425) the real estate passed to his son, Nathaniel, and his daughter, Elizabeth, who had married her next neighbor's son, Timothy Bragg Jr., received £25. The other children were Joseph, Sarah, the widow of Abraham Martin, Deborah, the widow of Isaac Randall, Mary deceased, the wife of Nathaniel Foster Jr., Martha, unmarried, Dorothy, wife of Thos. Yorke and . . . wife of Jacob Carter. The inventory gives a house, barn and 6 acres (Pro. Rec. 338: 496).

Daniel Low, joyner, sold to Capt. John Kinsman, two-thirds of the Nathaniel Low homestead and 10 acres, April 22, 1761 (131: 75) and Sarah Foster, widow, Dr. Nathaniel Low and others, conveyed to him half a dwelling and 6 acres, March 25, 1779 (138: 166). By this purchase Captain John Kinsman came to own the original James Burnham farm, the ancient Thomas Low estate and the Samuel Rogers estate. He conveyed to his son, James, three fourths of a dwelling and land, evidently the Rogers dwelling, Oct. 18, 1760 (110: 133) and two parcels of upland, March 21, 1761 (110: 263).

After the death of James Kinsman, his widow, Mary, sold $18\frac{1}{2}$ acres with part of a barn to Captain John, Feb. 21, 1764 (113: 182). The Captain died in 1785. His will (proved March 7, 1785. Pro. Rec. 351: 356) devised to his wife Elizabeth, the improvement of a third of a dwelling and garden and to his son, Samuel, "the house I now live in" with barn and out-buildings . . . with a portion to his grand-daughter, Mary Remick. It is more than probable that his dwelling was the spacious mansion which still stands, lately owned by Mr. Aretas D. Wallace.

Samuel Kinsman sold 79 acres and buildings to Isaac Burnham, "reserving liberty to the heirs of Dr. Joshua Burnham to pass and repass as usual, likewise a way for myself from Mr. Bragg's farm with my cattle and team to the country road which leads to Chebacco," Feb. 15, 1790 (152: 96) Isaac Burnham conveyed to Josiah, March, 18 1795 (158: 290), Josiah to his brother, Aaron, 88 acres, Jan. 9, 1812 (196: 109), Aaron Burnham to John Heard, with cider mill, press, etc., Feb. 2, 1814 (201: 282). Mr. Heard also bought 6 acres of Asa Andrews, July 7, 1819 (221: 213) which Mary Remick and James of Barrington, N. H., had sold to Andrews, "being part of the estate of James Kinsman," July 9, 1819 (221: 212). Mr. Heard sold half an acre out of this 6 acre lot to Levi Brown, Sept. 4, 1826 (244: 38) and the 88 acre farm to his son, George W. Heard, April 2, 1830 (282: 162). He conveyed to Thomas Low, 83 acres, April 1, 1835 (315: 270) and his daughter, Abby S. Stone, widow of Augustine, to Aretas D. Wallace, March 27, 1901 (1636: 517). Augustine and Abby Stone had sold a two acre lot to Robert W. Bolles, Feb. 11, 1888 (1223: 462) on which he built, at once, his dwelling and other buildings.

Mr. George W. Heard sold an acre and a half to Levi Brown, who had bought a half acre from his father, March 21, 1832. He built a dwelling and other buildings. He quitclaimed to his brother, Francis, who sold to Henry S. Holmes, 2 acres and buildings, March 9, 1842 (330: 18), Holmes to Willard B. Kinsman, April 1, 1851 (456: 112), who enlarged the house, to its present form.

The ancient dwelling, now occupied by Mr. Caverly, is the one surviving link that binds this compact group of eighteenth and seventeenth century dwellings with the present. The old brick yard on the Wallace estate has been so long disused that its existence is only indicated by the levelling of the clay field. Mr. Daniel C. Hobson, the brick-maker, who bought the Troop estate in 1801, probably worked at his trade on this spot.

Edward Bragg's Farm.

No. 6 on Diagram.

The next farm, now owned by Alonzo B. Fellows, was originally part of the great farm which was granted to John Winthrop Jr, leader of the little company which settled here in March, 1633. Dep.-Gov. Samuel Symonds bought it in 1637-8 (Ips. Deeds, 1: 45) and probably gave it the name, Argilla farm, which still holds. Mr. Symonds sold to his former servant Edward Bragg, "9 acres, as it is now fenced in with a yard where there is a barn and other buildings," 28-11-1658 (Ips. Deeds 4: 39) and another 9 acre lot and $4\frac{1}{2}$ acres, April 21, 1676 (Ips. Deeds 4: 40). The administrators of the Dep.-Governor's estate sold to Bragg, 35 acres adjoining Bragg's house and barn, near the northwest corner, Feb. 8, 1679 (Ips. Deeds 4: 306). John Rogers sold to Edward Bragg and Timothy, his son, 2 acres of upland and a half acre pasture, Feb. 26, 1693 (43: 97). In his old age, Mr. Bragg conveyed to his son, Timothy, in a carefully drawn instrument, his houses and lands, 112 acres in all, the dwelling of Edward and the house Timothy had built for himself, the land he had bought of Mr. Symonds and the 40 acres of marsh and upland he had purchased from Mr. Rogers, "with all that, being about 20 acres, which Edward was possest of before he purchased the above mentioned." He bound Timothy to keep his house in repair during his own and his wife's life, care for a garden spot fenced before the door and plough an acre for his use, where he chose. Timothy was bound to provide firewood at the door, also a horse, 30 sheep, 60 bushels Indian corn, 20 bushels malt, 15 bushels rye and wheat called Messling, 4 bushels wheat, 6 barrels good cider, 10 bushels winter apples and summer apples as needful.

"He shall improve fifty rods of land yearly for flax which Timothy is to plough yearly, also if s^d Edward's now wife see good to live half a year at sd. now dwelling house after y^e decease of sd Edward sd Timothy shall carry her to meeting on Sabath and Lecture days if she desire it," June 26, 1699 (14: 12).

His will was proved Aug. 23, 1708 (Pro. Rec. 310: 78-80). It devised "to the church of Christ in Ipswich of which I am a member £3 in money to be layd out by my overseers in a piece of silver plate for y^e use of said church forever."

A codicil states that Timothy, the son, to whom he had given his whole estate, had died, and it was then given to the sons of Timothy, John, Timothy and Abiell. Division was made, to John, the east third to Timothy, the middle including the lower house, (the house of Edward his grandfather), to Abiel, the west third, including the house his father lived in, July 22, 1709 (Pro. Rec. 310: 162). John Bragg sold to James and Thomas Burnham, the sons of James, "my share of land given unto me by my grandfather, Edward Bragg, tillage and pasturing land with part of an orchard," Dec. 16, 1709 (22: 140).

John Bragg, of Scarboro, made conveyance to his brother, Timothy, of his interest in his father's and grandfather's estate, May 2, 1724 (50: 24). Ebenezer Bragg of Marlboro, and Nathaniel Bragg of Wenham quitclaimed to Timothy, Jan. 8, 1723-4 (50: 26) and Edward Bragg of Andover, May 22 1724 (50: 27). There is also record of a conveyance by Samuel Baker Jr. to Timothy Bragg Jr. of a house and 33 acres, Nov. 30, 1752 (108: 30), but it is likely that this was Timothy Bragg's dwelling which may have been mortgaged to Baker. This also came into the possession of Thomas Burnham Jr. who thus owned the whole Bragg farm. He sold 79½ acres with dwelling to Francis Brown, Feb. 16, 1781 (138: 170). It was inherited by John Burnham Brown, son of Francis, who built the present dwelling, near the highway. The cellar of the ancient house, built by Bragg, is by the side of a lane, some 800 feet north of the present location.

Thomas Burnham sold to his son, James, a cooper by trade, about 30 acres and a house, the Timothy Bragg Jr. dwelling undoubtedly, and 26 acres on the other side of the road, with 11 acres of salt marsh called Saltonstall's, Nov. 10, 1783 (142: 19).¹ James Burnham conveyed this to John Willet, his father-in-law, Jan. 19, 1793 (155: 167). John Willet's will (proved Feb. 7, 1804. Pro. Rec. 371: 325) gave to his daughter, Betsey Burnham, the improvement of the property of her late husband, James Burnham; to Betsey and Joshua Burnham, children of said Betsey, all lands conveyed to him by James Burnham; to his son, Moses, his homestead, land and buildings, about 15 acres. Betsey Burnham married Jabez Richards and conveyed to him the title in the house and 1½ acres and 3½ acres on the other side the road, Oct. 17, 1809 (189: 14). Richards mortgaged to Moses Willett in 1817 (213: 129). David Dodge, administrator or Moses Willett, quitclaimed to Oliver Appleton Jr., Dec. 24, 1823 (234: 130). Appleton sold to Nathan Brown, Jan. 6, 1824 (234: 130). He moved the house to the lot he owned on County Road, near the Common, where it still stands (the dwelling of Mr. Everett K. Brown). Mr. Brown sold the lot formerly occupied by the house to Nehemiah Brown, Jan. 13, 1826 (272: 111), and he to John B. Brown, Aug. 23, 1833 (609: 236).

Joshua Burnham sold his half interest in 28½ acres to John Burnham Brown and his sister Mary, Dec. 6, 1823 (251: 127). Mr. Brown, now the owner of the whole Bragg farm, gave or sold 15 acres to his son, John A. Brown and sold the remaining 100 acres and buildings to Ira B. Carlisle and Joseph Huckins, Aug. 2, 1860 (610: 234). John A. Brown sold 15 acres to the same on the same date (610: 233). By mutual quitclaim, they divided the farm, Mr. Huckins taking the eastern, Mr. Carlisle, the western half, Oct. 16, 1861 (634: 51). Ira B. Carlisle conveyed his title to his brother, John C. Carlisle, May 9, 1870 (798: 136), the heirs of John to the widow, Nancy B., Nov. 6, 1897 (1530: 378), she to Lester E. Libby, Sept. 19, 1899 (1587: 137) who sold to Alonzo B. Fellows, Jan. 29, 1900 (1601: 496). Mr. Huckins bought 2 acres adjoining of Mrs. Rhoda B. Potter, April 28, 1869 (770: 106). His heirs sold to William G. Horton 53 acres with the house, barn etc., which Mr. Huckins built when he purchased the farm, Feb. 26, 1889 (1243: 408).

Elisha and Benjamin Brown.

No. 7 on Diagram.

A second section of the Argilla farm included a dwelling remembered by the older folk, between Mr. Horton's and Mr. Marshall's, near the bars. Rev. Samuel Philips, John Philips of Boston and others sold to Elisha Brown, weaver, and Benjamin Brown, blacksmith, in equal halves, $\frac{1}{4}$ of the Argilla farm, 120 acres, "formerly set off to Mrs. Dorothy Emerson (since called Henschman) as her part of the Argilla farm," June 13, 1743 (84: 203). They built a dwelling, Elisha owning the west half, Benjamin the east. John Choate sold them $6\frac{1}{4}$ acres, reserving a drift way, Dec. 21, 1752 (102: 140). Elisha Brown and Lydia sold the half house in which they lived and about 14 acres to Francis Brown, March 16, 1789 (228: 128) who had bought the Thomas Burnham farm, as has been said, in 1781. This half house with a small lot of land was set off to the widow, Judith. John Burnham Brown owned $\frac{1}{2}$, Mary Brown and Charles Brown owned $\frac{1}{4}$ (185: 248). After the death of their mother, John B. Brown, Mary Brown and widow Judith Manning sold the half house to John Sweet, April 18, 1836 (291: 139), he to Asa Brown, Feb. 13, 1840 (317: 184). By various conveyances Charles and Mary quitclaimed their interest in the land to John B. Brown (540: 198, 199, 200).

Benjamin Brown, the blacksmith, owner of the east side of the dwelling, had sons, Nathaniel and Benjamin, Abner and David. In his will, he gave the front chamber, part of the orchard, etc. to his son David, and to Abner, rooms in the house and 13 acres of land (proved June 13, 1809. Pro. Rec. 378:128). Nathaniel and Benjamin had lands elsewhere as will be noted. Charles Kimball, the administrator of David, sold his interest to John A. Brown, Jan. 27, 1847 (610: 96), who sold the same to Ira B. Carlisle and Joseph Huckins, July 21, 1860 (610: 234). Abner Brown conveyed 14 acres to Ammi and William Brown, April 20, 1818 (216: 116). Hannah, the widow of Ammi, and others sold to Nathaniel Kinsman, owner of the adjoining property, Nov. 26, 1835 (287: 51). Abner bequeathed his interest in the house and land about it to his grandson, William Cook, son of John M. Cook of Salem and his daughter, Sarah, (proved Feb. 2, 1819. Pro. Rec. 394: 242). Elisha Brown sold an acre of tillage and orchard ground, half a barn, quarter of a dwelling and undivided quarter of the yard in front, "conveyed to me by deed June 16, 1828, signed by Geo. Smith, guardian of William Cook, a minor," to Asa Brown, April 2, 1835 (282: 89). His purchase of the other half the house in 1840 has been noted. The house, untenanted and falling into decay, was burned, by the touch of an incendiary it was thought. The 2 acre lot was sold to Mrs. Rhoda B. Potter, Feb. 11, 1867 (743: 198) and by her to Joseph Huckins, April 28, 1869 (770: 106). Joseph Marshall relinquished the ancient drift-way to Huckins, April 26, 1869 (770: 106). The lot was included in the sale by the Huckins heirs to William G. Horton.

John Choate Farm.

No. 8 on Diagram.

The Joseph Marshall farm was also a part of the Argilla farm. Matthew Whipple conveyed to John Philips of Boston, John Choate Esq, and Samuel Baker "my title to one half of the westerly half of Argilla Farm, about 130 acres, salt marsh and upland, being the two quarters of sd farm which the sd John Philips and others in the right of their mother, Mrs. Mary Philips and Mr. John Emerson in his own right, recovered in law some years past as it descended to them in right of Mrs. Dorothy Henchman late of Boston," Dec. 8, 1749 (95: 50).

John Choate was the sole owner in 1752 when he sold $6\frac{1}{2}$ acres to Elisha and Benjamin Brown. William and John Choate sold the lot, measuring 28 acres, to Abraham Choate, Feb. 4, 1772 (130: 44) and he, to Elisha Brown, Feb. 6, 1772 (130: 44). Elisha built a house, and on March 16, 1789, the same day on which he sold his half-dwelling in which he lived, to Francis Brown, as we have noted, he sold the newer house, the east half, and 28 acres to Nehemiah Brown (161: 13) the west half and half an acre to Joseph Brown (157: 140). Joseph lived in the house at the time, perhaps, as he mentions his residence in his deed of sale to Nehemiah, March 29, 1798 (193: 266).

Ammi Brown of Salem sold his interest to his brother, Nehemiah, " $\frac{7}{8}$ of all the real estate of our honored father, Nehemiah, the homestead and other lots, $\frac{5}{8}$ conveyed to me by Michael Brown, Nov. 28, 1820, (226: 249) $\frac{1}{8}$ by my sister, Elizabeth Brown (203: 139), $\frac{1}{8}$ I hold as heir of my father subject to the dower of our mother, Mary Brown," July 17, 1821 (248: 157).

William Brown Jr. of Salem conveyed his ninth interest to Nehemiah, Sept. 7, 1826 (248: 157). Nehemiah Brown sold the house and 29 acres to Nathaniel Kinsman, April 10, 1828 (248: 175) and Hannah, the widow of Ammi Brown and other heirs sold him the 14 acre lot adjoining, already described, Nov. 26, 1835 (287: 51). Joanna Kinsman, daughter of Nathaniel, sold her half interest to Joseph Marshall and Abby, sister of Joanna, April 5, 1866 (874: 184). Mr. Marshall bought a half acre piece of Joseph Huckins, April 6, 1869 (874: 185). The old house, which had weathered a century, was removed by Mr. Marshall to a new site, east of its original location, and the large new buildings were erected on the old spot.

Dea. Matthew Whipple Lot.

No. 9 on Diagram.

Elisha and Benjamin Brown, we have noted, bought a lot in 1743 from the Henchman heirs on which they built their house. On March 4, 1763, they bought of Matthew Whipple, 30 acres of upland, in equal shares, adjoining the lot we have just traced (112: 121). Benjamin had the west half and he gave this to his son, David (June 13, 1809. Pro. Rec. 378 128). David Brown utilized his small property by a public bequest. After bestowing the rooms in the dwelling which were bequeathed him by his father, he proceeds,

"The rest and residue of all my estate . . . I give, devise and bequeath for the purpose of supporting a school for the small children in the school district, where I now live, in the summer season and I do order and direct that the improvement of the aforesaid property be expended for the above purpose, and that the property aforesaid be under the sole care and direction of my executor, hereafter named and the two oldest selectmen of the town of Ipswich . . . and if the improvement of the above interest shall be more than sufficient for a common school, what remains to go toward supporting a school in the winter season and so to continue as above, annually and forever (proved June 4, 1822. Pro. Rec. 399: 502).

A small lot, opposite the Geo. A. Whipple house, on the Candlewood road, and this 15 acre lot were included in the bequest. At a Probate Court, April 5, 1870, the trustees were authorized to sell the real estate (Pro. Rec. 426: 447). Mr. Joseph Marshall bought the larger lot, adjoining his own land, measuring 16 acres 24 rods, May 25, 1870 (874: 185) and removed the old house to a place on this lot. The interest from the fund thus provided is now used in providing transportation for the children of the neighborhood to the schools in the center of the Town.

The other half of the Deacon's Pasture as it is still called, as Matthew Whipple was a Deacon in the Hamilton church, was assigned to Elisha Brown. He sold this lot to his sons, on the same March 16, 1789, when he divided all his belongings, a half to Joseph (157: 140), a quarter to Nehemiah (161: 13), and a quarter to Francis (228: 128). Joseph sold to his son, Joseph Jr. the 8 acres he had bought of his father and about 3 acres, he had bought of the heirs of his brother Francis, Aug. 1, 1806 (191: 259). He bought the interest of Nehemiah, April 9, 1828 (249: 211). His sons, Gardiner A. and Joseph P. inherited and the heirs of Joseph P. quitclaimed to Gardiner, Oct. 12, 1858 (578: 99), whose heirs still own.

Rev. Nathaniel Rogers's Lot.

No. 10 on Diagram.

The small tract, on which the house of Mr. Charles G. Brown stands, was originally owned by Rev. Nathaniel Rogers, then by his son Samuel, apparently, by James Burnham, and by Capt. John Kinsman. He sold a 3½ acre pasture lot to his son, John Jr., July 24, 1759 (109: 56). John Jr. built a house and sold or mortgaged house and lot to his brother, Samuel, March 1, 1783 (140: 129). Samuel reconveyed to John Jr. in 1784 (142: 172) and John Jr. then sold to Moses Kinsman, May 7, 1784 (142: 173). Moses Kinsman was succeeded by his son Moses, who built the present dwelling. His widow, Jane Kinsman, sold to Alfred Smith, April 27, 1865 (683: 194), he to William S. Todd of Gloucester, Nov. 10, 1868 (759: 259), who conveyed to Gardiner A. Brown, April 5, 1877 (974: 173). The farm included beside the house lot, land on the east side of the North Gate Road, 6½ acres at Peto Point, the Woodbury marsh, 12 acres, etc.

Philemon Dane's Lot.

No. 11 on Diagram.

Returning now to Parting Paths and the Inner Common of the South Eighth¹, the Crumpton lot on the corner has been traced already.² Philemon Dane by virtue of one old right, owned the lot adjoining Crumpton's in 1733, which he sold to Joseph Appleton, May 1, 1742 (104: 77) who owned the lot adjoining, fronting on the Bay Road. Joseph Appleton, son of the above, sold his holdings to Alexander Troop, trader, whose dwelling was on the opposite side of the road, as has been already observed,³ Sept. 27, 1787 (148: 114). Troop sold to the Farley brothers, John and Thomas, the tanners, Sept. 7, 1801 (175: 117) and the Farleys to Amos Jones, Feb. 17, 1820 (223: 160) Daniel Ross, the Revolutionary soldier, succeeded and conveyed to Thomas Wade, May 22, 1824. The executor of Mr. Wade sold to Symmes and Richard Potter, Sept. 18, 1838 (308: 91).

Richard Potter sold his interest in the 8 acre lot, to Ebenezer Fall, April 20, 1844 (344: 130) and Fall conveyed to Capt. Symmes Potter, Sept. 10, 1845 (358: 266). He bequeathed to his sister, Mrs. Julia P. Willett, 1859 (Pro. Rec. 420: 46) and her son, Wallace P. Willett, inherited and still owns.

Ward's Meadow.

No. 12 on Diagram.

The next lot in the ancient Inner Common of the South Eighth was the largest of all, containing about 50 acres. It was known as Ward's meadow, and is so called in the inventory of Jonathan Wade in 1749 (Pro. Rec. 330; 435). Jonathan Wade, the first of the name, bought the house-lot of Rev. Nathaniel Ward and the commonage went with the homestead. It may have been granted to Mr. Ward though no record remains and continued in the Wade family to the date mentioned above. The question of these early grants in the Inner Common will be considered a little later in connection with John Tuttle's grant.

Jonathan Wade bequeathed the residue of his estate, which included this spacious meadow, to his grandson, Dr. Nathaniel Cogswell (proved Jan. 17, 1749. Pro. Rec. 329: 133). Northend Cogswell and other heirs sold it to James Brown "commonly called Ward's Meadow Pasture," Nov. 15, 1825 (240: 167). His heirs sold to George W. Brown, May 1, 1852

The Inner Common of the South Eighth has been fully described in The History of the Old Bay Road, No. XV of the Publications. It was a great pasture, held in common until about 1726, when it was divided, usually into small lots of about 8 acres.

(463: 118). He conveyed to Asa Wade, 38½ acres and a barn, April 21, 1862 (637: 1), and he sold in turn to Mary Quincy Kinsman, wife of Willard F. Kinsman, who still owns, March 30, 1881 (1055: 292).

James Burnham's Lot.

No. 13 on Diagram.

The lot on the east side of Ward's meadow seems to be the one described in the deed of James Burnham to Jonathan Wade, 6½ acres, Feb. 28, 1728-9 (77: 172). Jonathan Wade sold to Joseph Manning, 5 acres, 124 poles, part of the land I purchased of Mr. James Burnham and Mr. Timothy Wade in the South eighth, July 2, 1741 (88: 131). It was bounded south by the Hamlet road, so called i. e., Lakeman's Lane, and west "by the land of Jonathan Wade, to ye ditch in Ward's meadow so called and by the south side of the ditch down to Chebacco road." Its later history is given in connection with Joseph Abbe's lot.

Samuel Ayers's Lot.

No. 14 on Diagram.

The next lot was sold by Samuel Aiers and others to Joseph Fellows, about 9 acres "laid out to me in part with the heirs of Nathaniel Fuller," March 8, 1738 (88: 142). Nathaniel Fuller sold Joseph Manning ⅔ of an old right descending to Nathaniel, from his father, Nathaniel, being originally Haskell's right, lying in common with an old right, laid out to Samuel Ayers, Jan. 15, 1739 (80: 82). Dr. Manning conveyed to Joseph Fellows, whose land abutted on the south, in consideration of 1 acre 34 rods and £5, 1 acre 94 rods of upland I bought of Nathaniel Fuller, joining near to Proctor's brook, so called, June 27, 1740 (88: 142). Joseph Fellows conveyed to Joseph Manning his interest in the north end of the Ayers lot, June 27, 1740 (88: 132), and it was merged in Dr. Manning's large tract.

Joseph Abbe's Lot.

No. 15 on Diagram.

Dr. Joseph Manning purchased a third lot, one of the old lots, of Joseph Abbe, 10 acres which was bounded south west "by the way laid out from the saw mill to Bragg's hill, through said Inner Common," March 26, 1743 (87: 254).

Lakeman's Lane is the way referred to, which extended originally to the saw mill.¹ The Bragg house cellar is still visible in the rear of Alonzo B. Fellow's residence. The old road may have traversed the low hill on which the old house stood to avoid the swamp, over which a causeway may have been built later.

Dr. John Manning inherited these three lots from his father, Dr. Joseph, and sold the 24 acres, comprised in them to Abraham Brown, May 12, 1806(179: 50), who conveyed to Asa and John Dudley Andrews, March 31, 1815(208: 16), and they to Col. Nathaniel Wade, April 17, 1817 (215: 10). His heirs divided the estate, May 17, 1827 (Pro. Rec. 244: 243). William Foster Wade received the west half of this spacious pasture and Nathaniel Wade, the east. Joseph H. Wade and other heirs of William F. sold to Ira Worcester, March 13, 1844 (377: 256). His widow, Ruth G. sold to Willard B. Kinsman, the same which her husband had bought except a small corner of meadow sold to Asa Wade, July 12, 1876 (960: 110). Willard B. sold this to Mary Q. Kinsman, his daughter-in-law, May 10, 1883(1055: 83), Willard F. and Mary Q. conveying to Willard B. the Birch pasture on Lakeman's lane. Nathaniel Wade's portion was sold by his executor, his son Francis H. Wade, to Willard B. Kinsman, April 17, 1845 (357: 68). He sold to Mary A. Quincy, who became the wife of Willard B. Kinsman Jr., 24 acres, March 29, 1876 (951: 72). This included the 12 acre lot, bought of the executor of Nathaniel Wade in 1845, an 8 acre lot, purchased of Elisha Brown in 1848 and 3½ acres bought of Jacob B. Tenney Jr. in 1869.¹ On the eastern side of this lot the attractive farm buildings were built. Mention has already been made of the purchase by Mrs. Kinsman of the 12 acre lot, originally owned by Col. Nathaniel Wade in 1883 and the Ward's meadow pasture in 1881. These lots compose the present spacious farm.

Robert Calef's Lot.

No. 16 on Diagram.

Robert Calef owned an 8 acre lot, which was sold by his son, John, to John Kinsman, May 26, 1748 (93: 147) and by Kinsman to Benjamin Brown 3d and Nathaniel Brown, March 31, 1773 (132 : 152). Benjamin Brown, Parker Brown and other heirs sold their interest to Sarah, their sister, July 16, 1817 (281: 235), Sarah to Elisha Brown, July 7, 1835 (281: 236) and Elisha to Willard B. Kinsman, July 3, 1848 (411: 66).

Beyond this point the original ownerships and earlier transfers are very difficult to determine and the titles to some are very complicated. An attempt will be made, however, to trace the pedigrees.

Samuel Howard's Lot.

No. 17 on Diagram.

John Brown 3d was the owner of the next lot. Samuel Howard sold to John Brown 3d, carpenter, and Joseph Brown Jr., cordwainer, his right in a ten acre lot, set out to Capt. Ringe, Lt. Simon Wood and others, 9 acres on the south side of the Hamlet road and 1 acre on the north side, Nov. 21, 1737 (86: 314).

Philemon Dane and Simon Wood sold to John Brown 3d their proportionable part of two old rights in the South Pasture, 18 acres, May 26, 1742 (88: 59). John Brown Jr. sold a small lot, an acre and a half or two acres, which he had bought of Benjamin Fellows, Oct. 12, 1742 (87: 211) to his son, John Brown 3d, with a house, Jan. 20, 1745 (89: 2). The will and inventory of John Brown 3d were filed June 9, 1746 (Pro. Rec. 327: 59). Two acres and all the buildings thereon and the remainder of the homestead on both sides the road were devised; to the widow $\frac{1}{3}$ the house and $3\frac{1}{4}$ acres with 7 acres of pasture on the south side of the road; to Samuel, the son, $\frac{2}{3}$ of the house and 4 acres about it and 14 acres of pasture. Thomas Boardman sold to Benjamin Brown, his interest in the house and 14 acres, April 6, 1761 (109: 257) and he made a further conveyance of the interest which Samuel Brown conveyed to him on Dec. 19, 1758, to Benjamin, May 23, 1762 (113: 132). Benjamin Brown, it will be remembered, owned and occupied the east half of the house of which his brother, Elisha was joint owner,¹ and this house and land was left to his sons, Benjamin and Nathaniel. They bought the 8 acre lot on the west, we have noticed, March 31, 1773, and on the same date, they bought of John Kinsman the triangular lot, at the junction of the road to Essex and Lakeman's Lane (132: 152). This was owned by James Burnham and was acquired by Captain Kinsman, in his purchase from the heirs. They bought another 8 acre lot of Samuel Kinsman, east of their father's, March 20, 1783 (215: 188). On the death of their father, they became owners as well of the house where they dwelt and land about it and 14 acres of land on the south side of the lane (will proved April 3, 1797. Pro. Rec. 365: 97; land set off June 13, 1809. Pro. Rec. 378: 128). A large clump of lilacs near the line of Lakeman's Lane marks the location of the dwelling. The inventory of Benjamin (filed June 8, 1816. Pro. Rec. 389: 540) records about 20 acres, held in common with Nathaniel and the half dwelling. The heirs, Benjamin, Parker and others quitclaimed to Sarah Brown, their sister, the east end of the dwelling and $1\frac{1}{4}$ acres of land about it and land on the south side of the lane opposite the house, held in common with Nathaniel, etc., as well as the 8 acres, which was mentioned in connection with the lot just described, July 16, 1817 (281: 235). All the heirs, Benjamin, Parker, Sarah and Martha, widow of Elisha Brown, had quitclaimed to Nathaniel, their interest in 7 acres 30 poles with half the dwelling, 12 poles with part of the barn, an 18 pole lot and the $15\frac{1}{2}$ acres pasture, July 10, 1817 (262: 134). Nathaniel Brown bequeathed a third of all his estate to his son, David, a third to Lucy, daughter of his deceased son, Nathaniel, and the remainder to the four children of his deceased daughter, Susanna Lakeman, William, Abigail, Susanna and Laura Ann (will proved June 1: 1830. Pro. Rec. 407: 415.) This 8 acre lot with half a dwelling was sold by George Haskell to Increase H. and Asa Brown, "the homestead of Nathaniel Brown," Nov. 6, 1835 (285: 242). The "Nat lot" 8 acres was included in the conveyance by Asa Brown to Mrs. Rhoda B. Potter, Feb. 11, 1867 (743: 198). Three acres were sold to Francis Brown and the remainder, $5\frac{1}{2}$ acres, were sold by Mrs. Potter to Jacob B. Tenney, April 29, 1869 (771: 222). Mr. Tenney sold $3\frac{1}{2}$ acres to Willard B. Kinsman, owner of the adjoining lot, reserving the remainder, April 29, 1869 (771: 270). The east end of the dwelling with $1\frac{1}{2}$ acres was conveyed by Sarah to Elisha Brown, July 7, 1835 (281: 236). Elisha sold to Francis Brown, $1\frac{1}{2}$ acre "beginning at the southwest corner by the road, straight through the land where a house stood," May 1, 1849 (435: 279). The house had disappeared and it was evidently torn down by Elisha and the new house built on the knoll near by.

The 18 rod lot which was quitclaimed to Nathaniel, in the apex of the triangle, was also acquired by Francis. Lucia P. Brown and others sold $\frac{1}{8}$ June 15, 1831 (261: 21), and Charles Kimball for Caroline Brown and others sold $\frac{1}{8}$ June 23, 1831 (261: 21), and on the same date, the same parties sold the 15 acres to Levi and Francis Brown (261: 21).¹

Francis Brown sold the house and 3 acres of land and the 14 acre pasture to John Marshall, Feb. 21, 1863 (651: 81), Marshall to Jacob B. Tenney April 7, 1869 (771: 221). Tenney bought the adjoining lot, as was mentioned. He sold $3\frac{1}{2}$ acres to Willard B. Kinsman, April 29, 1869 (771: 270) and the house with 5 acres and the pasture to Albert Sturtevant, April 30, 1878 (998: 1). Ada L. Sturtevant, administratrix of Albert, sold to Albert S. Garland, April 27, 1881 (1057: 38), who sold to T. M. Norman, July 30, 1894 (1419: 469) and he to W. J. Cameron, April 5, 1901 (1637: 396).

Thomas Perrin's Lot.

No. 18 on Diagram.

Thomas Perrin owned a lot in the South Eighth, which he sold to John Brown Jr. and James Burnham, 15 acres, Nov. 26, 1729 (53: 217). Captain John Kinsman, as the heir or purchaser of the James Burnham land, came into possession. His heir, Samuel, sold 3 acres to Benjamin Brown Jr., tailor, Oct. 9, 1797 (168: 33). On this low and unfit spot near the Goose Pond, Mr. Brown built a home and reared a large family. His widow, Hannah, and the children, Edmund Brown of Lynn, blacksmith, Levi of Ipswich, cordwainer, Perley of Manchester, cabinet maker, John Brown Jr. of Ipswich, cordwainer, conveyed to Francis, another son, their interest in 17 acres, exclusive of about an acre and dwelling, barn etc., which were by deed of gift in the life time of Benjamin, conveyed to Hannah and Francis, in two equal moieties, April, 1838 (329: 295). John P. Lakeman, guardian of his children, conveyed $\frac{1}{2}$ interest in 17 acres to Francis Brown, the estate of their grandfather, Benjamin Brown, Sept. 18, 1838 (329: 295). He conveyed to Francis their interest in the estate of their grandmother, Feb. 20, 1840 (329: 296).

Samuel Kinsman sold 15 acres, bounding the 3 acres sold to Benjamin Brown Jr., on the east and south to Josiah Burnham, Sept. 5, 1803 (191: 278). This was sold successively to John How Boardman, March 13, 1811 (191: 280); John Heard, Feb. 2, 1814 (201: 284); Geo. W. Heard, April 2, 1830 (282: 162); Thomas Low, April 1, 1835 (315: 270); John C.

¹Francis Brown sold an 8 acre pasture on Lakeman's Lane to Henry S. Holmes, Mar. 9, 1842 (330: 18)

Carlisle, March 5, 1880 (1056: 260); Gustavus Kinsman, June 28, 1900 (1613:127).

Notice should be taken of a grant to Mr. John Tuttle, at the very beginning of the settlement of the Town of "one hundred and fiftie acres about sixteene whereof are meadow having Mr. Winthrop East the Mile River West Mr. Faune John Perkins and Sergeant Howlett South and from the South part of Sergt. Howletts upland by a line to the East part of a great swamp to the River bounded on the North by great oaks marked neere the River and so to a marked tree neere to Mr Winthrop's farm."

"Memorandum, there is reserved an highway of foure rodd broad throu this farm to the Common to be layd out where the Towne shall appoint." (Town Record).

This great tract bounded by a line from the farm of Mr. Alonzo B. Fellows to Mile River, and extending to the farm of the late Gardiner A. Brown and others, much more than the 116 acres granted, was never occupied by Mr. Tuttle. It is interesting to note, however, that some large grants were made to individuals in this section of the common lands, which came to be known as the Inner Common of the South Eighth. The fifty acre Ward's meadow may have been granted to Rev. Nathaniel Ward. Mr. Saltonstall had a forty acre grant on Mile River and Thomas Firman a similar one. The highway was laid out and reserved for public use, but frequently there were no walls or fences and boundaries were dimly defined.

Denison Lot.

No. 19 on Diagram.

In this tract, originally assigned to John Tuttle, by request of Rev. Nathaniel Rogers, guardian to the heirs of Col. John Denison, a 10 acre lot was laid out to them, which he sold to James Burnham, Feb. 16, 1730-1 (137: 50).

John Annable's Lot.

No. 20 on Diagram.

Another lot was laid out to John Annable, which Robert Annable sold to Jonathan Wade, Jan. 10, 1728 (66: 20).

James Burnham's Lot.

No. 21 on Diagram.

Thomas Choate and Jonathan Wade, "specially appointed by the Commoners and Proprietors of y^e common lands of Ipswich at their meeting, July 9, 1730," set off the full half part of an old supernumerary right to James Burnham, about 10 acres, having land in the possession of Thomas Burnham Jr. and the widow of Thomas Burnham deceased, son of Lieut. Thomas Burnham deceased, on the east side and John Annable's land west, equal to the other half of the right belonging to Wm. Buckley deceased, Sept. 28, 1730 (55: 250).

William Buckley Lot.

No. 22 on Diagram.

The other half of this Buckley right is undoubtedly identical with the lot which John Higginson of Salem sold to William Brown,

"one half an old right about 9 acres in Brown's Pasture, otherwise Browns, Kinsmans and Choates, which was this day by Commoners laid out in part satisfaction of a common right belonging to the heirs of William Buckley dec'd by virtue of his draught the fourteenth of February, 1664," March 4, 1729 (55: 76).

Part of the land included in these grants, is contained in the meadow or pasture land, which Thomas Burnham sold to Francis Brown. Thomas Meady had his dwelling on a small lot opposite the gravel pit where some fruit trees still grow. His homestead is alluded to as early as 1808, but no trace of his title can be found. The 6 acre lot was inherited by John B. Brown and acquired in part by purchase and was included in the sale of the farm to Carlisle and Huckins, Aug. 2, 1860 (610: 233) and in the sale by Huckins's heirs to William G. Horton, a half interest in 8 acres, Feb. 26, 1889 (1243: 408).

The estate of James Burnham included 26 acres on the south side of the road, which came eventually, I presume, to Capt. John Kinsman and was sold by himself and his son Samuel as has been stated.

Thomas Burnham's Lot. ¹

No. 23 on Diagram.

Thomas Burnham 4th owned at his death 12 acres, tillage and pasture, called Brown's lot, which maybe identified with the half right sold to William Brown in 1729. His estate included as well 17 acres and the buildings and 17 acres pasture land by Bragg's hill, so called (will proved May 8, 1730. Pro. Rec. 319: 149-51). It would seem that he was living then upon part of the Bragg farm, which fell to his son, Thomas, and was sold by Thomas to his son James Burnham, a cooper, Nov. 10, 1783 (142: 19). This deed conveyed 26 acres on the south side of the road. James Burnham conveyed this to John Willet, Jan. 19, 1793 (155: 167) having previously conveyed 4 acres of fresh meadow bounded on the west by a row of willow trees, July 28, 1787 (155: 200).

This row of trees or the later offshoots from the ancient stock still remains. John Willet directed in his will that his daughter, Betsey Burnham, should have the improvement of her late husband's property and that his grandchildren, Betsey and Joshua Burnham, children of Betsey, should have all the lands conveyed by their father (proved Feb. 7: 1804. Pro. Rec. 371: 325).

Betsey Burnham became the wife of Jabez Richards and the portion assigned was set off to her, Oct. 7, 1806 (Pro. Rec. 374: 285). She conveyed this fresh meadow to Richards, Oct. 17, 1809 (189: 14). Executions were granted against Richards and the 4 acre meadow was apportioned to Daniel Cogswell, July 23, 1819 (Exec. No. 3: 156) and to Langley Brown March 2, 1821 (Exec. No. 3: 289). William Cogswell and others, heirs of Daniel, sold to Hervey Whipple, March 24, 1866 (923: 46).

During his ownership of the 26 acre lot, James Burnham had sold a half acre to Elisha Brown, which he used as a brickyard, and 2 acres to Nehemiah Brown, Sept. 17, 1792 (155: 166). After John Willet's death his heirs sold to Joseph Brown. Moses, son of John Willet, sold him 10 acres, abutting on Daniel Brown's brickyard and Joshua Burnham sold him the remainder, 14 acres, bounded south by "Candlewood St. so called," reserving the land on which the district school now stands.¹ Both deeds were drawn on April 1, 1812 (198: 264). Mr. Brown built the house, as a dwelling for his son, James, probably that same year, and sold him the house and 3 acres, Dec. 23, 1817. The whole property eventually came to him. D. F. Brown and the other heirs sold their interest to Hervey Whipple, who had married Martha P., daughter of James Brown, July 3, 1852 (463: 116). His son, George Albert, inherited and still occupies. He bought the old brickyard which was sold by James Burnham to Elisha Brown.

John Fawn's Lot.

No. 24 on Diagram.

Beyond the Candlewood road, John Fawn, one of the earliest settlers, who owned the property and built the oldest part of the house, now owned by the Ipswich Historical Society, received a grant of some 25 acres. John Webster of Newbury sold to Robert Kinsman, "that farm which John Webster his father bought of the assignees of John Fane as by a bill of sale under their hands 25 acres at a place called Chebacco," having the land of Thomas Bishop southwest, a creek, southeast, Samuel Symonds and Nathaniel Rogers north, William Story northwest, Nov. 10, 1652 (Ips. Deeds 1: 182). William Story is not mentioned in the grant to John Tuttle as an abuttor and probably bought part of the John Fawn land, which was acquired by Robert Kinsman.

Mr. Kinsman played a famous part in the resistance to Gov. Andros in 1687,² and was one of that noted group which suffered so severely for their patriotic action. He was appointed Quartermaster in 1684 and had seen active service in the Narragansett campaign. He had a seat appointed to him "at the table" in the meeting house in 1700. As he was but twenty-three years old, when he purchased the farm, it is probable that at this time he married Mary Boreman, though the date of the marriage is not known. No mention of buildings on the farm is made in the deed of sale and the young couple may have established their home in a new house, planned and built to their mind. Here they spent their lives. Five daughters and four sons were born here and here the Quartermaster died, Feb. 19, 1712 at the age of eighty three. He conveyed to his son, Joseph, "his now dwelling house," and the 14 acre home lot, bounded on one end by the Common, on another by the highway to Chebacco and 20 acres of pasture land adjoining, March 21, 1698 (13: 128). He was a glazier by trade and in his will he bequeathed to his sons, Joseph and Robert, "all my Glazeing Tools, Husbandry and Carpenter Tools, of all sorts." He further specified,

"I give to my daughter, Sarah Perkins, who stayed longest with me, my Bed in ye great chamber, with all ye furniture belonging to it."

"I give to my Daughter, Unice Burnam, my chest of draws."

"I give to my five daughters, Mary, Sarah, Joanna, Margaret & Unice, all my moveable estate of household goods . . . and all my quick stock of all sorts & kinds whatsoever, as cattle, sheep & horse kind . . . also my crane, tramells & hooks."

Item, I give unto my maid, Eliz^a Dingey, five good sheep if shee abide with mee till my decease, otherwise I give but three good sheep."

(Proved March 12, 1712. Pro. Rec. 310: 520-1.)

Joseph Kinsman was twenty-five years old when his father conveyed the farm to him and as his first child was born two years later, it is probable that he brought home his bride, Susanna Dutch, about the time the conveyance was made. She died on Nov. 9th, 1734, at the age of 60 years, and he married Sarah Peabody of Boxford, April 27, 1736. By his first marriage, there were eleven children, six daughters and five sons, all of whom grew to mature age and all were married, save Joseph, who died at the age of 23 years.

He died in the old homestead, no doubt, and by his will (proved May 25, 1741. Pro. Rec. 24: 232) he divided his estate:

"I give and bequeath to John Kinsman, my son, all ye land whereon the house and barn now standeth, with ye house and barn that's now in his possession,¹ with all ye land that I bought of my brother Robert Kinsman. That is to be understood, his homestead with all ye common rights adjoining to it, that did belong to a south eaight so called and also a nine accor right lying in a pastor called Browns & Kinsmans pastor. The which right also belonged to a south eaight, and hes to enjoy ye same according to ye quiteclamies that wee^v alredy given to each other, and also all my righte and interst that I have in Wilderness hill pastor so called . . ."

To his sons, Pelatiah and Benjamin, he gave his "now dwelling house," his barns and lands, in equal division. To his son Nathaniel, he gave £250 in money. His household goods and £5 in money were given to his daughters, Susannah How, Eunice and Sarah Wells, Elizabeth Brown, Hannah Wallis and Martha Dennis.

Palatiah Kinsman bought his brother's interest and sold the old homestead and 38½ acres adjoining to John Wainwright, March 18, 1754 (101: 79), and the pasture land to his brother John. In the previous year, Feb. 1, 1753 (101: 28) he had bought the Col. Wainwright farm in Argilla and he probably removed to that neighborhood. His descendants still retain the Argilla farm. Col. Wainwright sold 17 acres on the east side of the farm to John Kinsman, Oct. 11, 1754 (101: 62). John Wise, the guardian of John Wainwright, the insane son of Col. John, who had inherited from his father, sold 12 acres to Isaac Procter, leaving the highway 2½ rods wide, Sept. 9, 1755 (103: 111) and 10 acres more to the same, bounded northwest by another way from Ipswich to Chebacco, Dec. 30, 1757 (108: 271). This completed the sale of the homestead and as no mention is made of the buildings, we may presume that they had disappeared. An old well is remembered by the older people, near a pair of bars, very near the road, a few rods from the corner of the Essex and Candlewood roads, which may indicate the approximate location of the ancient farm house.

Isaac Procter sold 22 acres to Elisha Brown, March 16, 1768 (125: 105). He sold an acre and a half on the corner to Nehemiah Brown, March 16, 1789 (161: 13), which the heirs of Nehemiah sold to Nehemiah, the son, July 17, 1821 (248: 157), he to James Brown, with 20 young fruit trees thereon standing and bearing, April 5, 1833 (270: 49), and the heirs of James to Hervey Whipple, July 3, 1852 (463: 116). His son, George Albert Whipple, inherited and still owns.

A larger lot, 8½ acres with a barn, was sold by Elisha to his son Joseph, March 16, 1789, the day on which he disposed of all his property, as we have remarked before¹ (157: 140). Joseph conveyed this to his son, Joseph Jr., Aug. 1, 1806 (191: 259) and it was inherited by Gardiner A. Brown, his son, whose heirs are still in possession. Elisha had sold 12½ acres on the south side of these lots to his son Benjamin, April 20, 1768 (158: 128). Benjamin bequeathed 2¾ acres on the Candlewood road to his son David and the remainder to Benjamin and Nathaniel (proved June 13, 1809. Pro. Rec. 365: 97). David included this in his bequest to the school district and when the Trustees sold the land, Mr. George A. Whipple bought this lot, triangular in shape.

Thomas Manning, the executor of Nathaniel Brown, sold 4½ acres to Elisha Brown, June 22, 1831 (286: 209). Benjamin Brown conveyed his half interest in the remainder to Thomas Brown, July 15, 1809 (194: 176). Both these lots are improved by E. Newton Brown, one of the heirs of Elisha.

John Kinsman and Samuel, heirs of Capt. John, sold 47 acres of upland and salt-marsh, opposite the dwelling of John Jr., extending to Half-field's Creek to Elisha Brown Jr. and Joseph Brown, April 24, 1783 (144: 85). Some division of the land was made, I presume, as in Elisha Brown's will, about 32 acres is distributed. He gave 7 acres to Daniel and Elisha, 20 acres upland and marsh to Daniel, and the Old Field, containing about 5 acres to the widow (proved May 1, 1809. Pro. Rec. 377: 530).

Daniel sold the 20 acre lot to Theodore Andrews, Jan. 5, 1842 (328: 251) and he, to Joseph Brown, Jan. 31, 1842 (329: 154). It has descended to Gardiner A. Brown and his heirs. The 7 acre lot and the Old Field are still improved by the heirs of Elisha.

John Perkins Sr. and Thomas Howlett's lots.

Nos. 25 and 26 on Diagram.

The Candlewood road, leading toward Hamilton, affords an interesting study. Farms were granted on the east side of the road at the settlement of the Town. John Fawn, as we have seen, received 30 acres or more on the corner of the Chebacco road.¹

"There was Granted to Thomas Howlett thirtie acres of upland and ten of meadow at the head of Chebacko creeke the meadow lying on both sides the Creeke and the upland on the West side of the meadow." (Town Records.)

"Granted to John Perkins Sen^r thirtie acres of upland and ten of meadow lying towards the head of Chebocky creeke havinge Thomas Howlett's Land on the Southwest." (Town Records.)

"Memorand, that John Perkins the Elder hath sould unto Thomas Howlett a psell of Land of forty acres more or less medow and upland lying at Cheboeye Granted unto the sayde John Perkins in the year 1636 bounded on the Northeast by a pcell of Land formerly granted unto Mr. Faune now in the possession of John Webster and partly also on the same syde by the Land of Richard Haffield on the Southwest by a pcell of Land granted unto the sayde Thomas Howlett at the Northwest end thereof butting upon a highway leading to Chebacky at the southeast upon the common." Howlett gave in exchange two lots at the east end of the Town and £7 10s. "Entered the 23d day of the second month, 1638" (Town Records).

Mr. Howlett was now the proprietor of 80 acres, more or less, and it was probably considerably more as the same tract was reckoned at 100 acres, when Thomas Bishop gave deed of it. He was in possession of the farm as early as 1652. There is no trace of any buildings on the land when John Perkins sold to Howlett but one or both of these parties may have built on the lots, as the executor of Thomas Bishop conveyed to the administrator of Rev. Jonathan Mitchell of Cambridge, who held a mortgage, a farm of 100 acres, bounded south and west by common land, southeast by John Choate's land with two dwellings, two barns, etc., Dec. 13, 1677 (Ips. Deeds 4: 115).

Sarah Bishop of Weathersfield, widow of John, son of Thomas Bishop, certified that by his will, Feb. 6, 1670, Thomas bequeathed the farm to his sons, John and Thomas, and that an execution was levied by Mrs. Margaret Mitchell, who sold the farm to Francis Wainwright (Ips, Deeds 4: 449). Sarah conveyed her title to Anthony Checkley, Aug. 30, 1683 (Ips. Deeds 5:59). Thomas Bishop made similar conveyance, Jan.

20, 1684 (Ips. Deeds 5: 68). Anthony Checkly and Thomas Bishop, late of Barbadoes, sold the farm in two lots, one of 66 acres with house, barn etc. to John Brown, and 36 acres with house and barn to Sergeant John Choate, bounded by Choate's own land partly on the south, Jan. 1, 1684 (Ips. Deeds 5: 57). Brown's title was contested by Bishop, and the 19 papers in the case, Bishop vs. Brown cover many pages in the old Court files. The Indenture by Francis Wainwright, leasing the farm to John Brown, April 8, 1682, is beautifully engrossed on parchment. (Vol. 40, leaf 140).

John Brown conveyed his farm to his sons, James and William. To James, he gave "one full third and another third except what I have given to my son William with 6 acres now given him, with my mansion, having Corporal Joseph Kinsman north and east," July 9, 1721 (39: 54). In the division, James received 39 acres 56 rods, March 14, 1727/8 (50: 176), and William, 27 acres 13 rods, south of James.

In 1736, this range of farms, Joseph Kinsman's, James and William Brown's and Samuel Choate's, whose farm was south of William Brown's, was enlarged by a singular instrument. The document begins,

"Joseph Kinsman, James Brown, William Brown and Mr. Samuel Choate are the owners of a division of land known by the name of Kinsman's, Brown's and Choate's division in the South Eighth, the interest of ye sd Kinsman being one old right and half an old right, James Brown one old right 3 new rights etc. . . . and whereas they have chosen us the subscribers to set out to each of them according to their several proportionable parts,

We have set to Joseph Kinsman, about 7 acres 5 rods etc." This pasture measured $59\frac{3}{4}$ rods on the way leading to Chebacco pond (the Candlewood road) beginning at the corner of the way to Chebacco, the Essex road.

To James Brown, this committee set 6 acres 75 rods adjoining his homestead, measuring 53 rods on the highway, from the lot appointed to Kinsman; to William Brown, 3 acres 2 rods, having $30\frac{1}{2}$ rods frontage; and to Samuel Choate, a lot, $42\frac{1}{4}$ rods on the road, 9 acres 133 rods, reserving a highway through the same to Chebacco (the present Choate Street).

The report was filed by the Committee, Francis Sayer, Thorndike Low, David Low and William Giddinge, Dec. 29, 1736 (84: 37). This may explain why the Gardiner A. Brown buildings are set so far from the road. They occupy the same site as the original, and the ancient buildings of the Joseph Kinsman and the William Brown farms are known to have been set about a similar distance. The front land was a common pasture and each house was approached by a lane. One deed contains an allusion to the Brown, Choate and Kinsman pasture, as including a part at least of the Geo. A. Whipple lot on the west side of the highway. It may be that the pasture lay wholly on the west side of the original thoroughfare and that after these pastures were annexed to the three farms, the highway was changed to its present location.

James Brown acquired a goodly estate which included houses and lands on North Main Street, as well as the farm. His inventory (filed June 29, 1741) contains interesting items

He bequeathed all his real estate on the south side the river to his son James, except a 6 acre lot in Lee's meadow; to his son Jonathan, all real estate on the north side the river and this 6 acres; to his son Francis, £600 passable money at the age of 21; a portion to his four daughters, Lucy, Eunice, Elizabeth and Sarah. His wife, Sarah, is to be executrix until James is twenty-one, when he shall be (proved June 1, 1741. Pro. Rec. 324:576).

James, the heir of the farm, died and Jonathan also, leaving a widow, Elizabeth, who married Samuel Sawyer. A family feud arose over the distribution of the estate and Mr. Sawyer cleared himself of any part or lot in the matter. He and his wife, Elizabeth, "to end all disputes between us and the surviving children of our Honored Father-in-Law, Mr. James Brown, shopkeeper, deceased, namely Eunice Brown and Sarah Brown, singlewomen, Elizabeth Perkins, wife of Robert Perkins, relating to the real estate of said James respecting the Title and Descent thereof on ye decease of James Brown, a minor and grandson to the said James and only son of Jonathan Brown (by the said Eliz. Sawyer) her former husband," in consideration of their relinquishing their right in certain part, quitclaim to Eunice, Sarah and Elizabeth their interest in the farm and the outlying pastures, March 12, 1760 (111:94). Susanna and Elizabeth Sawyer, daughters of Samuel and Elizabeth, gave a similar quitclaim, Jan. 8, 1783 (159:13).

Capt. Robert Perkins, who had married Elizabeth Brown, July 19, 1753, occupied the farm apparently and his daughter, Elizabeth, became the wife of Joseph Brown, son of Elisha, Dec. 3, 1779. They began their housekeeping probably in the west half of the old Joseph Marshall house, as we have said,¹ but Joseph bought the interest of the heirs, James Perkins of Nobleborough, John Perkins of Dresden, Robert Perkins of Woolwich, Sarah Perkins of Ipswich, $\frac{1}{4}$ of the estate, Oct. 31, 1797 (167: 265). He built the present dwelling and occupied it until his death. He made conveyance of the west half of the dwelling and 4 acres, north of the way to the house, to his son Joseph Jr., April 18, 1839 (312: 287). Joseph Jr. inherited the estate and enlarged it by the purchase of 15 acres adjoining the farm on the south, from the original William Brown estate, Jan. 31, 1842 (329: 154). His sons, Joseph P. and Gardiner A. Brown, succeeded to the ownership and the latter acquired a complete title by purchase from the heirs of his brother, Oct. 12, 1858 (578: 98, 99). He bequeathed it to his son, A. Story Brown.

William Brown, son of John, bought 8 acres of upland of Samuel Choate, son of John Choate, March 29, 1707 (20: 202). He was a weaver by trade and had already built a house for himself on his father's land. On April 18, 1707, John Brown Sen., farmer, conveyed to William, "for his encouragement and towards his settlement . . . two acres of my land, being part of my farm, whereon y^e dwelling house of y^e sd son now stands" (28: 19). In the division of his father's estate, 27 acres 13 rods were laid out to him and 1 acre 10 rods in Gould's pasture to make his full portion, March 14, 1727/8 (50: 176). His farm comprised therefore some 37 acres, with other land on the west side of the highway, which will be considered later.

In the division of his estate, he gave to his son, William, the land on the other side the road and also "as long as he shall keep a blacksmith shop thereon a piece of land where his shop stands, south on ye yard fence before the shop, west on the highway, north on ye lane that leads up to my dwelling house." The remainder of his estate was given to Stephen and Elisha. His son, Thomas, received money, Benjamin, his right in Ipswich Canada. The children of Nehemiah and his daughter, Dorothy Burnham, were remembered (will proved April 2, 1753. Pro. Rec. 331: 243). A negro boy was valued at £20 among his goods and chattels and 2 horses at 15-10-0 (331: 296).

Elisha Brown quitclaimed his interest in his father's homestead, the dwelling and southern part of the land, to Stephen, Feb. 22, 1754, (117: 95) and June 26, 1762 (117: 96), and sold his half of 15 acres upland and marsh to his son, Elisha Jr., Feb. 6, 1772 (292: 77).

The widow of Elisha Jr. received this lot under his will (proved July 1, 1799. Pro. Rec. 367: 19) (division Pro. Rec. 377: 530). In the division of her estate, it fell to Daniel, June 26, 1821 (Pro. Rec. 399: 500), who sold to Theodore Andrews, Jan. 5, 1842 (328: 251) and he, to Joseph Brown, Jan. 31, 1842 (329: 154). The lot was called "the Close" and did not include an acre and a half in one corner which is still owned by the heirs of Elisha. The engine house stands on this small lot.

Stephen Brown sold a small lot, $1\frac{1}{4}$ acres, to Timothy Tibbets, a bricklayer, "beginning at the corner of the lane that leads to the house," measuring 16 rods on the road, prior to 1800 (239: 16) and the remainder of the land that came to him from his father, 13 acres, to Josiah Brown, April 14, 1807 (180: 123). No mention of the old William Brown dwelling is made and it had probably disappeared. Timothy Tibbets sold the $1\frac{1}{4}$ acres he had bought of Stephen Brown to Ephraim Brown, Jan. 2, 1800 (239: 16) and, he, to Josiah, April 12, 1825 (238: 75). The whole lot was inherited by his son, Manasseh Brown Jr., whose heirs still own. Eliza Brown, executrix of James Brown, of Adams Co., Illinois, who died on May 15th, 1864, conveyed to Manasseh Jr. all the right James had in several parcels (recorded Pro. Rec. 119: 35), Dec. 4, 1865 (693: 265).

John Choate, we have observed,¹ bought 36 acres with a house and barn of Anthony Checkley and Thomas Bishop, Jan. 1, 1684. He had previously bought a house and land, "earable and meadow," 12 acres, of Thomas Willson, July 8, 1665 (Ips. Deeds 3: 17). He conveyed to his son John Jr. "a parcel of upland on which the dwelling house of sd Choate Jun. now stands," bounded by his own land toward the north west, May 1, 1692 (Ips. Deeds 5: 505).

His son, Samuel Choate, received or bought the remainder of the John Choate property, with the dwelling bought from Bishop. He sold 8 acres, before mentioned, to William Brown, his next neighbor, Mar. 29, 1707 (20: 202). Samuel Choate sold 43 acres with the house and barn to Thomas Boardman, reserving a road that is laid out through said premises leading to Chebacco, April 16, 1762 (110: 134). Boardman sold 40 acres with one old building, bounded south by the road that leads to Ebenezer Choate's to William Brown, April 13, 1772 (130: 159). William Brown conveyed his homestead on the corner of Fellows Lane to his son, James, and 25 acres of the Choate land, June 15, 1786 (145: 185) and the remaining 15 acres, July 1, 1786 (145: 200). It was included in the gift by will to Josiah, son of James (proved Feb. 7, 1826. Pro. Rec. 405: 224) and by similar conveyance to Manasseh Jr., whose heirs still own.

Gould's Pasture.

No. 27 on Diagram.

The great tract of land, now owned by E. Newton Brown, William G. Horton, Frederick G. Cross, John W. Mansfield, A. Story Brown, Geo. A. Whipple and the heirs of William H. Kinsman, extending from Choate Road to Red Root or Red Wood Hill, was included in the early part of the eighteenth century in two great pastures, known as Gould's Pasture and Wilderness Hill Pasture.

Gould's Pasture extended from Choate Road to the lot now owned by John W. Mansfield. Henry Gould improved a small lot here in 1728, as appears from the deed of Simon Wood, Thomas Wade and Jonathan Fellows, the Committee of Proprietors to James Brown of "half a certain piece of common land in the South 8th, now in possession of Henry Goold, $1\frac{1}{4}$ acres, as the fence now stands," May 8, 1728 (50: 175) and the deed of the same to Sarah and Hannah Goole, of half a lot then in possession of Henry Gould, "Gould to have improvement during his life, May 8, 1728 (50: 197). But he seems to have had no title to any portion and the whole pasture was included in the Common land.

In the deed of division of Kinsman's, Brown's and Choate's division in the South 8th, previously mentioned, the Committee proceeded to assign to each a lot in Gould's Pasture. To James Brown, they allotted 37 acres 48 rods, abutting on the way now known as Choate St. or Choate Road, reserving this way and Gould's lot of land, and on the way to Chebacco Pond, the present Candlewood road. This is almost identical with the lot owned and occupied by E. Newton Brown. To William Brown, brother of James, they assigned 14 acres 49 rods.

In the inventory of James Brown, the Gould's Pasture lot is mentioned, containing 27 acres, June 29, 1741 (Pro. Rec. 324: 576). A ten acre lot had apparently been sold, which is undoubtedly the lot which Thomas Boardman sold to Timothy Thornton and Robert Perkins, sons-in-law and heirs of James Brown, on the corner of Choate Road and Candlewood Road, Feb. 5, 1772 (130: 69, 131: 49).

In the following year, Thornton petitioned for a division of the Gould's pasture lot, which included about 38 acres, joining the lot already owned by Thornton and Perkins, "excepting about an acre and a quarter in the center thereof, encompassed, belonging to said Robert Perkins," Feb. 8, 1773 (131: 213). Perkins conveyed this small lot to Thornton, Feb. 11, 1773 (131: 50). In further settlement of the family dispute, previously alluded to,¹ Susanna and Elizabeth Sawyer, quitclaimed to Robert and Elizabeth Perkins and Timothy and Eunice Thornton, any interest they had in the 27 acres Gould's pasture, Jan. 8, 1783 (159: 13). Thornton evidently became sole owner of the whole tract. Prior to 1796, he sold a lot, presumably about 2 acres, to Elisha Brown. Mr. Brown erected a house and barn, which were occupied by his son, Ephraim. In his will, he bequeathed to Ephraim, "all the land I purchased of Mr. Thornton, with the buildings" (proved July 1, 1799. Pro. Rec. 367: 19).

On June 10, 1796, Thomas Gilbert Thornton of Pepperelboro, and James Brown Thornton of Ipswich, mariner, sold to Joseph and John How Boardman, 35 acres in Gould's pasture (163: 123). Joseph's interest was conveyed to Ephraim Brown, and by mutual agreement, John How Boardman received 20 acres, the southern part, and Brown, 17 acres on the north side of the lot, May 25, 1797 (239: 16). Ephraim Brown also became owner of the 9 acre lot, assigned to Joseph Kinsman, in Gould's pasture in 1736, which Kinsman sold to William Brown Jr., blacksmith, May 8, 1742 (84: 134). He sold 30 acres with the buildings, to Josiah Brown and Winthrop Boardman, April 12, 1825 (238: 97). The widow, Elizabeth Boardman, conveyed her half interest to Manasseh Brown Jr., July 7, 1845 (362: 243) and Josiah, father of Manasseh, conveyed his interest to him, Dec. 18, 1854 (506: 200). Manasseh Brown Jr., sold to E. Newton Brown, the present owner, Dec. 21, 1867 (850: 216).

John How Boardman sold his lot, said to contain 17 acres, to Winthrop Boardman, March 9, 1820 (223: 252). Ephraim Brown acquired it and it was later owned by Asa Brown, who held it in 1854. Joseph Kinsman owned it and his heirs, Lucy Cogswell of Essex and Aaron Cogswell, Joseph Kinsman, Asa Kinsman, John Brown and his wife, Eunice K., in her own right, sold to Obadiah and Joshua Lamson 22 acres, 30 rods, April 28, 1864 (666: 77). The Lamsons sold to Thomas P. Pingree, March 3, 1869 (770: 7), who sold to Joseph Huckins, May 1, 1876 (1012: 273). The Huckinsheirs sold to William G. Horton, Feb. 26, 1889 (1243: 408).

William Brown, son of James, received 14 acres 49 rods in Gould's pasture, in the division of the common land, Dec. 29, 1736 (84: 37). He bequeathed the bulk of his real estate to his sons, Stephen and Elisha (proved April 2, 1753. Pro. Rec. 331: 243). But no mention of Gould's pasture occurs in the inventory (Pro. Rec. 331: 296), and he may have conveyed this lot to Elisha before his death. Elisha conveyed this lot to his brother, Stephen, Feb. 22, 1754 (117: 95). Stephen Brown sold the lot in two parts, one of 5 acres abutting on Candlewood road, to Samuel and Benjamin Patch, on Jan. 15, 1790 (151: 99) and the remainder, 9½ acres, to Nathan Fellows, "with liberty of a way one rod wide on the south side of land I sold to Samuel and Benjamin Patch," Jan. 15, 1790 (150: 248). John Patch sold this lot to Joshua Lamson, Feb. 7, 1842 (329: 192), Lamson to William H. Kinsman, land and building, Feb. 24, 1869 (766: 259). It was sold to Jacob Scanks, April 1, 1870 (793: 231), to William H. Kinsman, June 14, 1878 (1000: 241), to Eben Perkins, June 26, 1878 (1000: 242), and to Frederick G. Cross, the present owner, Sept. 23, 1887 (1205: 472). The 9 acre lot in the rear, was owned later by William H. Kinsman, who sold to Thomas P. Pingree, June 6, 1868 (749: 52), and was included in the later sales, already mentioned, to Huckins and Horton.

The Wilderness Hill Pasture.

No. 28 on Diagram.

The great pasture, called the Wilderness Hill pasture, on the slope of the noble hill, which was called by that name from the earliest times, was divided into lots, but no record of the division remains. The first in this series was owned by Elisha Brown, son of William, a 19 acre lot (inventory, 1799 Pro. Rec. 367: 225). The inventory of his son, Elisha Jr., mentions 21 acres on the hills, May 26, 1808 (Pro. Rec. 376: 456). This pasture, now said to contain 23½ acres, was sold to Ephraim and Daniel Brown, (380: 166). Daniel acquired Ephraim's interest and sold to Theodore Andrews, Jan. 5, 1842 (328: 251) who sold to Elisha Brown, Jan. 31, 1842 (329: 126). William T. Cross of Salem became the owner and sold to Joseph Rowell, Nov. 1, 1850 (436: 65). Rowell sold the land with a barn to William H. Kinsman, March 13, 1854 (491: 137). Mr. Kinsman built the house and sold to William T. Cross, April 28, 1856 (530: 117). His son, Frederick G. Cross, sold to John W. Mansfield, April 7, 1888 (1219: 455) and Mr. Mansfield still owns and occupies.

James Brown's inventory (Pro. Rec. 324: 576. June 1, 1741) contains the items, "23 acres Wilderness Hill on Chebacco side, 20 acres Wilderness Hill South 8th." Susanna and Elizabeth Sawyer quitclaimed their interest in these lots to the other heirs, Jan. 8, 1783 (159: 13). The heirs of Robert Perkins, who sold their interest in the farm to Joseph Brown, included $\frac{2}{3}$ of 22 acres on Wilderness Hill, Oct. 31, 1797 (167 265). Joseph Brown Jr. inherited, and his son, Gardiner A., bought the interest of the heirs of his brother, Joseph P. in 28 acres, the Hill pasture, bounded north by William Cross, east, land late of Ephraim Brown and Elizabeth Boardman, south by Hervey Whipple, west, by the highway, and about 12 acres near the Hill pasture, bounded west by the road, east, by Isaac Knowlton, south by William H. Kinsman, Oct. 12, 1858 (578: 99). The heirs of Gardiner A. Brown still own the larger lot, but he sold the $12\frac{1}{2}$ acre pasture to William Henry Kinsman, May 5, 1859 (594: 100). Mr. Kinsman owned large tracts on the hills adjoining, some of which had been in possession of the family for generations.

Fuller's Pasture.

No. 29 on Diagram.

On the west side of the Candlewood road, the George A. Whipple farm has been traced already in the narrative of the old Chebacco road.¹

Sergeant William Brown and Lieut. Joseph Kinsman bought about 10 acres of William, John, Ebenezer and Jacob Fuller, May 21, 1733 (70: 130). They had bought previously of James Fuller, about 10 acres, south of the above mentioned purchase, "at a place known as Fuller's Pasture in the Inner Common," April 4, 1732 (66: 32). Mr. Kinsman disposed of his interest, as all subsequent conveyances are in the William Brown line. Elisha and Stephen, sons of William, inherited the residue of the estate, including this lot which is called Link-horn or Lincoln Hill in the inventory and a half acre in Lincoln or Link-horn swamp (will proved April 2, 1753, Pro. Rec. 331: 243) and Elisha probably built the house and buildings, the last traces of which disappeared only a few years since. The cellar still remains.

Elisha Brown Jr. bought a half acre of James Burnham, Dec. 17, 1791 (151: 166) on which he established a brickyard. In his will, he is styled "Gentleman," and his inventory mentions a blue coat, waist coat and breeches, \$9.50, a hat and wig, \$4, a fustian suit, \$4, loom and weaving harness, \$5, 2 wheels, \$1. His estate included the homestead, 14 acres and buildings and the brickyard, 13 acres upland and marsh with a barn, 19 acres in Wilderness Hill, 5 acres with a house and $\frac{3}{4}$ barn (the T. M. Norman place) and the land he had purchased of Mr. Thornton. The Thornton property, he gave to his son Ephraim; to the widow, the 14 acre lot, (called 13 acres in inventory) the Old Field, 5 acres, the orchard, $\frac{1}{2}$ acre, near the house, and the east end of the dwelling; to Daniel, the brick yard, 20 acres on the Gloucester road, known as Kinsman's land, the west end of house and 7 acres on the north side of the lot. Daniel and Elisha received the 23 acre pasture in common (proved July 1, 1799. Pro. Rec. 367: 19). Benjamin also occupied part of the house.

His son, Elisha, (Capt. Elisha) died a few years after and there was set off to his widow, Martha, his interest in the dwelling and land south of the house, May 1, 1809 (Pro. Rec. 377: 534-5). The disposition of several of the lots has been traced already. The homestead has continued in the ownership of the heirs. Winthrop Low of Essex quitclaimed to Charlotte, wife of Elisha Brown, son of Capt. Elisha, interest in 7 acres on the north side of the lot, half the house and the half acre, called the clay pit, the old brick-kiln, June 20, 1851 (446: 285). Eliza Brown conveyed to E. Newton Brown, her right in the homestead and lands, March 8, 1871 (850: 216).

William Brown Jr., the blacksmith,¹ bought 7 acres in the Fuller Pasture of Nathaniel Fuller, March 28, 1732 (65: 264), on which he built a dwelling. His father had received 3 acres in the division of the Brown, Kinsman and Choate pasture already quoted, on the corner "of the lane leading to Joseph Fellows," and the way to Chebacco Pond, Dec. 29, 1736 (84: 37). He conveyed to his son William Jr., "2 acres 30 rods upland, adjoining my said son's dwelling," measuring 10 rods on the road to Chebacco Pond and 17 rods 2 ft. on the Lane, March 3, 1736-7 (84: 127).

The house must have been quite a little north of the present Manasseh Brown homestead. Benjamin Kinsman, son of Joseph Kinsman, sold to Brown, the 5 acres on the lane adjoining his property, which had been assigned to his father in the division of the Brown, Kinsman, and Choate pasture, May 25, 1742 (84: 135).

William Brown Sen., bequeathed to his son, about $\frac{3}{4}$ of an acre, which still remained in his possession, with a reserve of privilege of crossing the land for watering, in his will abovesaid, quoted, April 2, 1753 (Pro. 331: 243). William Brown Jr. conveyed to his son, James, his homestead and 16 acres and 25 acres on the east side of the Candlewood road, June 15, 1786 (145: 185) and 15 acres adjoining the latter lot, July 1, 1786 (145: 200). James Brown conveyed to his son, Josiah, all his real estate, Feb. 7, 1826 (405: 224) which was inherited by his son, Manasseh Brown Jr. Eliza Brown, executrix of James, brother of Manasseh, conveyed to Manasseh all his right in various lots, Dec. 4, 1865 (693: 265). The present dwelling was built early in the last century, probably by James Brown.

John Andrews's Farm.

No. 30 on Diagram.

John Andrews was the first owner of the farm, now owned in the main by Mr. Benjamin R. Horton. Andrews sold to William Fellows, "my farm on the south side the river bounded with the brook called Mile Brook towards the west the lot of Mr. Saltonstall called the forty acres toward the northwest upon the Common toward the northeast and southeast upon land of John Fuller toward the South in part and on a swamp called Walkers

Swamp toward the south in part with all houses barns etc., Feb. 7, 1659 (Ips. Deeds 1: 236). Mr. Fellows gave a deed to Richard Jacobs, whose house was on the south side of Mile River, of an acre, which Jacobs had bought of John Andrews, the former owner of the farm, in the southwest corner of the farm, abutting on the river, Walker's Swamp and William Fellows's land, 1665 (Ips. Deeds 4: 242).

The will of William Fellows provided for his widow, "a quarter acre of good land yearly to sow flax on," and directed "my son, Isaac, shall have the marsh at Hog Island beside what I have given him already," and that his sons, Ephraim, Samuel and Joseph should have the other half of the farm with the buildings and stock (proved March 27, 1677, filed in Pro. Office in Salem). The inventory mentions 38 acres of upland at home, "foure rod of ground on the meting house hill where y^e old house stood" (near the Methodist Meeting House).

A quitclaim agreement was made, which confirmed Isaac in the possession of his portion and Ephraim in the possession of land and the buildings on the corner of the two ways, and 8 acres by Mile Brook, March 30, 1702 (Pro. Rec. 308: 24-6).

The parts assigned to Samuel and Joseph will be considered in our survey of Fellows's Lane. Ephraim Fellows sold to Robert Kinsman Jr. The line was "north as the fence runs (i. e., on Candlewood road) till you come to a square with the back of the old dwelling house sd Ephraim now lives in, also the work house standing below said dwelling house," May 30, 1704 (16: 145). This locates the Andrews-Fellows house on the line of Fellows Lane and probably on the open common, which was made when the New Road, so called, was laid out through the Horton farm. It faced the south, and the rear side or leanto abutted on the lane. No mention of this property is made in Quartermaster Kinsman's will, and he had probably conveyed it to his son, Joseph, whose son, Pelatiah, sold to his brother, Benjamin, 23 acres, March 8, 1741 (84: 66). No mention is made of the old dwelling and it had probably been destroyed.

Isaac Fellows, son of William, conveyed to his son, Jonathan, "my farm, lately in the tenure and occupation of William Durgey, excepting 5 acres," about 50 acres, dwelling etc., reserving the use of the premises during his life, March 31, 1705 (18: 214). Jonathan sold to Benjamin Kinsman, April 28, 1742 (82: 103). Kinsman sold both farms, the Isaac Fellows 50 acres and the 18 acres¹ he had purchased of Palatiah, Kinsman, with all the buildings, to Capt. John Boardman, Dec. 21, 1747 (90: 207). Captain Boardman devised to his son Thomas, "all the residue of the real estate I bought of Benjamin Kinsman, that I have not given him before," a further portion to his son, John, and shares to his daughters, Abigail Prime, Sarah and Mary (proved Oct. 13, 1760. Pro. Rec. 337: 352).

The Boardmans or Boarmans were originally located on East St. and by the Labor-in-vain Creek, but they were now well established in this neighborhood. Thomas Boardman was succeeded by his son, Thomas, who conveyed to his sons, Joseph and John How Boardman, "my interest in all real estate, whereof my honored father, Thomas Bordman, Gent. died seized of, excepting that part set off to my honored mother, Elizabeth as her dower," May 28, 1779 (205: 76). John How Boardman conveyed to Winthrop Boardman the homestead of John H. and Joseph, March 9, 1820 (223: 252) and Elizabeth, the widow of Winthrop, sold to Joseph Horton, about 90 acres and buildings, March 26, 1846 (365: 127). His son, Benjamin R. Horton inherited. The house was built either by Capt. John, the first, or Thomas, we may presume.

John Fuller's Farm.

No. 31 on Diagram.

John Fuller owned the next farm to the south in 1659. But Robert Kinsman Sen., the Quartermaster, conveyed to his grandsons, Stephen and Thomas, sons of Thomas deceased, in consideration that Thomas pay to his eldest sister, Elizabeth £20 at or before 3 years have expired after he is 21, and Thomas pay to the youngest sister, Mary, £20 on same terms, a house and 24 acres bounded north and west by Isaac Fellows, southeast by the Common, south by land Thomas above sd bought of Town of Ipswich, to be equally divided when they become of age, April 15, 1701 (14: 117). Thomas, the son of Robert, had acquired the lot alluded to a few years before.

"The Committee impowered to look after Incroachments and to sell land for y^e payment of y^e Town debt have for to Reimburse money payd to Mr. John Rogers for part of his hundred acres of land sold unto Thomas Kinsman of Ipswich for his conveniency for y^e setting up his fence on better ground an angle of land adjoining to his land near Walkers Swamp Island so called bordering all ye way upon his own land in all about two acres and a half, etc."

Walker's Swamp Island.

No. 32 on Diagram.

Stephen Kinsman gradually acquired a large tract in what was called Walker's Swamp, or Walker's Swamp Island, which had been apportioned on the basis of old and new rights as the larger Inner Common of the South Eighth. He bought of Abraham Fitts, $\frac{1}{2}$ of No. 4, May 7, 1730 (56: 276) and $\frac{1}{2}$ and $\frac{1}{2}$ of No. 4, Nov. 22, 1731 (67: 256); of Jacob Perkins, $\frac{1}{2}$ of No. 2 laid out to Jacob and his brother, John, 8 acres, April 12, 1733 (67: 257); of Moses Wells, $\frac{1}{2}$ of No. 3, 9 acres, Jan. 18, 1734 (75: 31); of Nathaniel Wells, $\frac{1}{2}$ an old lot, 9 acres, "reserving the privilege of a winter way across the premises as it was voted by the proprietors," Jan. 18, 1734: (75: 32); of Abraham Tilton, $\frac{1}{4}$ of an old right, 4 acres, Oct. 25, 1740 (81: 91); of Thomas Staniford, $\frac{1}{8}$ of 16 acres, July 4, 1741 (85: 68) and of Daniel Staniford, $\frac{1}{8}$ of an old lot, $2\frac{3}{4}$ acres, Oct. 27, 1749 (96: 14).

His dwelling was on the original farm, but he had built a house on Walker's Island which was occupied probably by his son, Jeremiah. He bequeathed to his wife, Lydia, the parlor end of his dwelling and garden, on the foreside of his mansion house; to his son, Stephen, "that part of the dwelling he now lives in, with the old barn and shop, with all my looms and weaving tackling, etc.;" to Jeremiah, "all my lands in Walker's Swamp with the dwelling house and buildings thereon" (proved Dec. 27, 1756. Pro. Rec. 334: 189). His estate was inventoried, a house, barn and 60 acres in Walker's Island, dwelling, barn, and shop and 47 acres (Pro. Rec. 334: 224). Stephen Kinsman and his wife, Elizabeth (Russell), brought up a family of twelve children and dwelt in the old homestead until 1767, when he sold his farm, 47 acres and buildings, to Samuel Patch, Oct. 23, 1767 (151: 98). John Patch Jr. inherited and built the present house about 1800, it is said. The old dwelling, which was burned, stood in the field, northwest of the later site.

John Patch Jr. sold to Joshua Lamson, Feb. 7, 1842, (329: 193) 48 acres, also 12 acres 32 rods, south of the homestead, "conveyed to me by Jeremiah Kinsman," April 6, 1819, Feb. 7, 1842 (329: 192). This lot reverted to the Kinsman ownership as Joshua Lamson sold 47 acres and buildings to William H. Kinsman, Feb. 24, 1869 (766: 259); he to Jacob Scanks, April 1, 1870 (793: 281) who sold back to W. H. Kinsman, June 14, 1878 (1000: 241). He sold again to Eben Perkins, June 26, 1878 (1000: 242), Perkins to Frederick G. Cross, 44 acres and house, Sept. 23, 1887 (1205: 472), who still occupies.

Jeremiah Kinsman was living in the house built by his father on Walker's Island in 1756. A family tradition affirms that it was erected in 1752. He died there in 1818 and bequeathed the Walker's Island farm to his sons, Jeremiah and William, in equal parts, but William was to have all the farming tools and stock (proved June 2, 1818. Pro. Rec. 393: 139). The "cottage," as the lower house is called, was probably built by Jeremiah, Kinsman or his son, William. William Kinsman bequeathed all his real estate to his son, William Jr. (proved Nov. 7, 1843. Pro. Rec. 412: 227). He had a large family, all of whom disposed of their interests to William H. Kinsman, whose daughter, Rhoda F. Kinsman, still owns and occupies.

John Brown's Farm.

No. 33 on Diagram.

The first farm we shall consider on Fellows's Lane is that of John Brown's heirs, which has descended in an unbroken family line from the original John Brown, who cleared the forest and built his house before 1660. An ancient Court document is of great interest in this connection.

presented by his son John, Sept. 13, 1677 (Ips. Deeds 4: 183).¹

In the whole area of the great Inner Common of the South Eighth, this is the first lot, which was granted to an individual and improved by the erection of a dwelling, of which record remains. John Brown Jr. bought of Col. Francis Wainwright, the 20 acres which he had bought of Samuel Ayers, brother-in-law of Samuel Fellows, March 5, 1702 (26: 101). He conveyed this lot, under the name John Brown Sen., carpenter, to his sons, John, the 3d of the name, and Nathaniel, May 26, 1714 (27: 28). He conveyed lands to his son William on April 18, 1707 (28: 19) and May 26, 1714 (27: 28). On June 2, 1721, the surviving children, heirs of their brother Nathaniel, then deceased, quitclaimed their interest in his estate to their father "to be at his free dispose to and among whom he shall think fit." (313:308). Eventually this farm came to John.

The John Ross Farm.

No. 34 on Diagram.

John Brown, son of John Jr., sold a small lot to Joseph Fellows, June 13, 1732 (67: 113) and enlarged his farm by the purchase of another adjoining, of John Ross, "a certain old lot about 20 acres in the South Eighth with dwelling," bounded south by the land of said John, and west by his land and that of the widow of James Burnam, Nov. 22, 1737 (125: 42). This is easily and surely identified with the farm known later as the Nathan Brown farm, to which entrance is gained by a way through the John Brown farm. The cellar of the ancient dwelling still remains.

In his will, John Brown, cordwainer, gave to his wife, Mary, the use of his goods; portions of his estate to his grandson, Samuel, son of John, late of Ipswich; to grandson Abel, to granddaughters, Hepzibah and Mary, and to his daughter, Sarah Brown. He gave to his daughter, Mary Lufkin, his negro child, Luie and negro woman Phillis, after his wife's decease. The residue was given to his sons, Joseph and Nathan (proved May 28, 1759. Pro. Rec. 336: 241). John Brown Jr. had conveyed to his son, John Brown 3d, 2 acres in the Inner Common, with dwelling and other buildings, Jan. 20, 1745. This lot we have already traced. It is included in the T. M. Norman land, now owned by William J. Cameron, on the road to Essex. Joseph and Nathan quitclaimed to Joseph and Benjamin Fellows their title to the west side of a tract of land called Woods or South Pasture, Oct. 12, 1742 (84: 178) and Joseph and Benjamin Fellows quitclaimed to Joseph and Nathan Brown their interest in the east side of the same, Oct. 12, 1742 (87: 211).

Joseph Brown conveyed to Nathan a half of about 18 acres of upland and meadow, May 2, 1760 (109: 155). Nathan seems to have acquired the whole of Joseph's portion and owned the original John Brown farm and the John Ross farm. He distributed his estate by a will, assigning her part to his wife, Elizabeth; rooms in the house to his daughters, Susanna and Hannah Boardman; to his sons, Jeremiah, Nathan and Abraham, each a quarter of his real estate and to his son, John, "half the dwelling I now live in (the John Brown house) half the barn and a quarter of the land" (proved June 2, 1794. Pro. Rec. 363: 235).

John and Abraham, in consideration of a deed of quittance from Nathan, quitclaimed to him, 40 acres upland and meadow in the north part of the homestead with dwelling, barn, etc., now in occupation of sd Nathan, June 11, 1794 (232: 283). Abraham Brown also conveyed to Nathan his interest in the Wainwright lot and the west half of the homestead, June 6, 1815 (206: 275).

John and Nathan died within a few years of each other. The Inventory of John (approved Apr. 14, 1817. Pro. Rec. 391: 402) included about 13 acres, and buildings, the ancestral home lot, the Hill Field or Ringe Pasture, 13 acres, the Old Field 16 acres, which he bought of Isaac Fellows, Oct. 28, 1807 (184: 1) one half of the Kinsman meadow and pastures in Redwood Hill. His widow, Hannah, asked for a division of her third and the Committee reported that they had set off to the widow, the house and 13 acres and 4 acres in Kinsman's meadow, Dec. 2, 1817 (Pro. Rec. 390: 486). Theodore Gibbs of Essex who had married Lucy Brown, daughter of John and Hannah, conveyed to Hannah, his wife's interest in the farm, June 28, 1831 (278: 193).

Nathan Brown's will (proved May 4, 1823. Pro. Rec. 401: 78) distributed his belongings to his wife, Abigail; to his sons, Nathan, Langley and Francis, $\frac{2}{3}$ of the real estate and the remaining third to Francis. Nathan and Langley sold to Francis, Feb. 4, 1823 (232: 285). Nathan conveyed to Langley the 20 acres (Wainwright) and west half of the house he had bought of Abraham, May 5, 1823 (232: 284). Francis conveyed to Langley an undivided half of his father's estate, half of all he devised him by will and half of all his mother, Abigail Brown, and brothers had conveyed to him since her decease, the homestead and buildings and the Hill Pasture about 30 acres, May 5, 1823 (233: 290). Langley and Francis sold to John P. Lakeman the Wainwright lot and west half of the house, Dec. 25, 1826 (245: 75). An execution was levied on Lakeman and his estate was sold to John Brown Jr., May 11, 1836 (289: 56). He was son of John Brown Jr. whose will was probated, April 14, 1817. His sister, Sarah, conveyed to him, styled John Brown 2d, her interest in the homestead, "with all rights of reversion in the dower of our mother Hannah, and all rights I have as heir to my sisters, Clarissa Brown, Lois Brown and Abigail Brown deceased," July 11, 1834 (277: 162). By the purchase of the John P. Lakeman interest he became owner of the whole dwelling and the original 13 acres, the Ringe Pasture, the old field, the Wainwright land and half the Kinsman meadow. His heirs still own and it is one of the few instances in which there has been no departure from the original line of descent and the same family has dwelt upon and tilled the same land from a date prior to 1664 to the present year. The original dwelling was replaced a century or more ago by the present mansion, which contains some timbers of the ancient house.

To follow the fortunes of the old John Ross or Nathan Brown farm in the midst of woods and swamps, Langley and Francis Brown sold to Oliver Appleton Jr. a farm and all buildings, Oct. 20, 1823 (236: 145); Appleton to Ebenezer Cogswell and John Dane, 54 acres and buildings, March 16, 1825 (237: 285). Mr. Cogswell sold 3 acres to Capt. Joseph Gardiner, owner of the adjoining estate, Jan. 4, 1837 (296: 294). John Dane sold to George Dane, the 30 acre field north of the ancient house lot, Oct. 19, 1842 (469: 133), Dane to Ezekiel Merrill, Jan. 8, 1853 (473: 252), he, to Alonzo B. Fellows, Oct. 22, 1857 (560: 276) and Mr. Fellows to Joseph A. Brown, son of John Brown 2d, May 3, 1883 (1107: 249).

The old house lot, in which the cellar alone remained at that time, was sold by John Dane and Ebenezer Cogswell to John Tuttle, Tristram Appleton and Humphrey Lakeman, 12 acres, reserving the cartway on the east side of the old cellar, April 16, 1835 (312: 53). Lakeman conveyed his interest to Appleton, June 13, 1836 (291: 50) and Tuttle conveyed, Feb. 28, 1839 (312: 53). Mr. Appleton sold the lot to Thomas and John Roberts, who owned the adjoining estate, April 10, 1861 (620: 297) and it was included in the subsequent sales to Samuel M. Haskell, June 11, 1890 (1283: 514) and to the mortgagees, Alphonso M. Knowlton and Frank C. Richardson, April 10, 1901 (1637: 279).

Returning now to the William Fellows farm, Samuel Fellows Sen., late of Ipswich, now of Newbury, in consideration of many and great kindnesses from his loving brother-in-law, Samuel Ayres Sen. of Newbury, "having for many years living with him & have been provided for by him as also for & in consideration of an obligation that he hath this day with his two sons Samuel Jun. and John," conveyed to Samuel Ayres Sen., "all my housing and land, upland and meadow which were given to me by my father William, $\frac{1}{3}$ of $\frac{1}{2}$ of his farm, $\frac{1}{3}$ of the building," May 23, 1701 (14: 34). Isaac Fellows and others, executors of Joseph, quitclaimed to Samuel Ayres, assignee to Samuel Fellows, a small tract, March 30, 1702 (15: 151). Samuel Ayres Sen. sold to Francis Wainwright, 20 acres upland and swamp Dec. 29, 1702 (18: 5) and Col. Wainwright sold to "farmer" John Brown, March 5, 1702 (26: 101). The subsequent history of this lot has already been traced in connection with the John Brown farm.

Joseph Fellows,² son of William,¹ as has been mentioned¹ received by the will of his father a third of a half of the farm. His brother Ephraim received in addition to the homestead, 8 acres on the present Fellows Lane, which was set off to him in the division of the property (Pro. Rec. 308: 24, 25, 26). He conveyed this to Joseph, bounded by other land of Joseph's on the northwest and the land of Ephraim and Samuel, southeast, in 1687 (Ips. Deeds 5: 578). It appears from this that Joseph's share of the William Fellows farm and this 8 acre lot, were west of the 20 acre lot, which was conveyed by his brother Samuel to Samuel Ayres and which we have identified with the 20 acre field now owned by Mr. John H. Brown. Joseph's farm, therefore, is included in the estate of Mr. James H. Proctor.

The Saltonstall Forty Acres and Thomas Firman's Farm.

Nos. 35 and 36 on Diagram.

The William Fellows farm was bounded on the northwest by the lot of Mr. Saltonstall, called the forty acres, and this lot, called the ox pasture in later deeds, was the northwest bound of Joseph's original estate. He began at once to enlarge his domain. His first purchase apparently was a three acre lot, which is alluded to as in his possession, April 18, 1681, in a deed of exchange between John Low and himself. John Low was then the owner of a tract of upland and meadow bounded by the Mile Brook, the Saltonstall pasture and the "common ground," which Thomas Firman had sold to Thomas Low and Edward Bragg, Oct. 27, 1647 (Ips. Deeds 1: 35) and which had been conveyed or bequeathed by Thomas to John, his son. The deed of exchange conveyed to Joseph Fellows, 8 acres, bounded southeast by the Saltonstall 40 acres and the 3 acres he had bought of Low, southwest by Mile Brook and northwest by Low's other land in consideration of a transfer by Fellows of an 8 acre lot, farther west (10: 7).

In 1683, April 3d, Fellows bought a lot of Nathaniel Jacobs which Jacobs describes, "all my land on the north side of Mile Brook and on ye North side of y^e bridge bounded with Mr. Saltonstall's 40 acres on the northwest running down to the brook and bridge on the southeast the land of Joseph Fellows southwest and northeast reserving the right for highway to Town through the aforesaid as he hath through Mr. Saltonstall's 40 acres, 1½ rods wide" (10: 7).

Richard Jacobs received a grant of 40 acres, more or less, of upland and meadow on the other side of Mile Brook which was recorded in the Town book, Aug. 20, 1638. In this secluded spot, he built his dwelling. The most direct way to Town lay over Mile River and through the pastures to the way now known as Fellows's Lane. He built a bridge prior to 1658 and on Dec. 6, 1658 it was "Ordered that George Giddings and Edward Bragg are appointed to lay out a highway through Mr. Saltingstalls 40 acres and a pt. of John Andrews his farm to the Bridge over the River to Richard Jacob's House a rod and a half wide." Jacobs desired full control of the land on both sides of the River, perhaps to facilitate the erection or maintainance of the approaches to the bridge which were still in good condition, when Mr. Proctor, the present owner, built the beautiful bridge which spans the River at the same point. He bought, therefore, an acre of land of Mr. Andrews, the deed of which was given by William Fellows in 1665 (Ips. Deeds 4: 242) but as Andrews sold in Feb. 7, 1659, he probably bargained for the land immediately upon the official lay-out. Richard Jacobs bequeathed his lands to his brother Nathaniel, in 1676 (Ips. Deeds 4: 86.) The purchase of this small piece gave Mr. Fellows access to this very convenient way through the Saltonstall land. Thomas Jacobs, the administrator of the Joseph Jacobs estate, sold the farm with dwelling and other buildings, to Samuel Chapman, Nov. 1, 1701¹ . . .

"leaving ye highway and causeway to ye river for equall improvement of Samuel Chapman Thomas Jacobs and the heirs of said Joseph Jacobs . . . also part of said 65 acres is granted sd Samuel Chapman for a highway on ye easterly side of the river to ye Common which is set out on y^t side ye River two rods wide opposite to an old causeway on ye westerly side of ye river which highway goes through ye land that said Jacobs purchased of William Fellows and sd Jacobs own land granted by ye Town of Ipswich allso sd Thomas confirmeth to sd Samuel Chapman the privilege of horse and foot way from ye slue through the widow Fellows land and Major Saltonstall's land to ye Common sd Thomas reserving right of horse and foot way to ye slue bridge, . . ." Nov. 1, 1701 (14: 256).

¹The heirs of William Fellows went to law with the executor of Richard Jacobs's estate to settle the title to a 3 acre lot near the bridge and another lot in Sept and Nov. 1678. In Vol. XXIX of the Court Papers twelve original documents in the case, Fellows et al. admsrs. v. Jacob Exec. of Richard Jacob, Sept., 1678 and twenty-six papers in the case, Fellows et al. in Rev. v. Jacobs Execr. of Richard Jacobs, Nov., 1678, are filed. They show that the original owner Corporal John Andrews leased the farm to John Choate and Samuel Ingalls before he sold to William Fellows, and the quitclaim of Sarah, widow of John Andrews, declares that he was resident in Lynn when he died. This was executed April 4, 1663.

Choate and Ingalls quarreled with the Jacobs's over their claim to ownership of certain lots, and cut down the bridge, and at a later period Ephraim Fellows repeated it.

Chapman sold to John Annable Sen., March 18, 1701-2 (15: 56).

Joseph Fellows bought a 9 acre lot of John Low, which may have been the same he exchanged with him, Feb., 1685 (Ips. Deeds 5: 437) and a ten acre upland lot with growing timber of John Low Sen. and Dorcas, his wife, Jan. 1, 1689 (10: 8). He had bought 30 acres altogether of the John Low land. His inventory included house, barn and homestead lot of 26 acres, and 30 acres bought of John Low which extended from the Saltonstall lot to Abraham Tilton Jr. (the Ebenezer Fall farm) 1693 (Pro. Rec. 303: 159). One item is of special interest, a pigeon net 10', suggesting the great flights of wild pigeons which Cooper describes in the Leather Stocking tales.

His wife Ruth, as the deeds reveal her, was a woman of uncommon energy. She had built an addition to the homestead, as his will specifies that the widow shall have rooms in the dwelling "the part of the house y^t said Ruth built." His son Joseph consented that his brother William should enjoy their mother's dowry. His portion was two thirds of the house, barn and 24 acre lot, 1 acre orchard and 8½ acres of upland in the 30 acres bought of John Low. William had the residue (proved June 17, 1703. Pro. Rec. 310: 22, 23). The widow bought 4 acres adjoining the estate of John Low Jr., carpenter, who had bought the residue of his father's estate, Dec. 7, 1693 (10: 5).

Joseph,³ son of Joseph,² by successive purchases, greatly enlarged the farm he had inherited. He acquired the interest of his mother and brother in the homestead apparently and made his home there. In consideration of upland and marsh received from his brother William, he conveyed to him, one acre of upland, which he had bought of the Town, "lying by ye widow Fellows house, bounded northwest on Thomas Manning's land, northeast on Town Common, south on widow Fellows land," Nov. 19, 1714 (69: 151). He bought lots in the Inner Common, which abutted on Fellows's Lane, opposite his farm, $\frac{2}{3}$ of $\frac{1}{2}$ of a New Common right in the farther division of the South Eighth of John Brown, June 11, 1724 (50: 217) and a 5 acre lot of William Hunt in the Ringe pasture, May 31, 1727 (50: 216). Four years later, he secured the great Saltonstall pasture from the heirs, May 12, 1731 (67: 121). It was always called the 40 acre lot, but the deed specifies 52 acres. It joined his homestead on the west, but seems to have extended across the way now known as Fellows's Lane. The cartway which still runs toward the River is undoubtedly the way laid out in 1658 and the Saltonstall lot may be identified with certainty by this. Another purchase from John Brown was made in 1732, June 13 (67: 113) and a 4½ acre lot in the south end of the South Pasture, abutting on his land on the south, was bought of Daniel Ringe et al., May 4, 1733 (67: 113). He also bought of Samuel Ayers a 9 acre lot, which abutted on the Essex road, as it is now called, March 8, 1738 (88: 142) but sold to Joseph Manning, June 27, 1740 (88: 132). This is included in the Willard H. Kinsman farm, as has already been noted in the study of that locality. He made an exchange with Manning and secured an acre lot near "Proctor's brook, so called," which intersects Ward's meadow, June 27, 1740 (88: 142) and with his son, Benjamin, bought an interest in the west side of Woods or South Pasture, of Joseph and Nathan Brown, Oct. 12, 1742 (84: 78). Joseph Fellows, now called Senior, sold to Benjamin, his son, a piece of woodland, 5 or 6 acres, "not far from my dwelling house," etc., Feb. 20, 1750 (97: 35). By his will, he provided for the distribution of his goodly farm. To his wife, Mary, he assigned the use of a third; to Benjamin, "all I have quit to him before, also a piece of fresh meadow at the west end of homestead, about 5 acres including, Ash Island; to his son, Joseph Jr. $\frac{1}{4}$ of the residue. He had previously sold him 1 acre in the homestead and another acre, bounded on the northeast by land in the possession of Nathan Brown, the line running through a pond to other land of Joseph Jr., March, 1756 (101: 279).

To his grandson, Nathan, he gave a fourth and the great chamber in the east side of the dwelling and a new building adjoining the east corner of said house; to Jacob and Sarah, some portions and the rest and residue to his son, Daniel, "as he is in measure bereft of his reason" (proved Oct. 4, 1762. Pro. Rec. 340: 26). The inventory mentioned house, barn and 115 acres of land (340: 67).

In the division of the estate, Joseph Jr. received the 2 acres and 36 poles previously deeded to him, and 19 acres 20 poles in the northwest part of the farm on Mile River. Nathan's portion was 14 acres 95 poles in the homestead, abutting on Fellows's Lane apparently, and "the way leading to the house," Nov. 15, 1762 (Pro. Rec. 344: 460). The widow's thirds were apportioned after her death to Daniel, 12 acres, the line running east by Mile River to a stake near the old bridge; to Nathan, about 9 acres, bounded south by the river, west by Daniel's land, April 1, 1776 (Pro. Rec. 351: 320, 321).

William,³ son of Joseph,² and brother of Joseph,³ as was noted,¹ received $\frac{1}{3}$ of the dwelling of his father, 22 acres in the Low 30 acre lot, and by agreement, his mother's dowry. The widow, Ruth, bought 4 acres of John Low Jr. She built a house, barn and other buildings on her estate, mentioned in Joseph's deed to William, in 1714 (69: 151) and William in all probability, made his home with her. This new dwelling, is probably the ancient dwelling, part of which is yet owned and occupied by the Fellows heirs, and the main building, removed and remodelled, is owned by the heirs of Daniel W. Appleton. She bequeathed to Joseph Jr. 5 shillings, to her daughters each a sum and to William, the house, barn, stock, etc. (proved May 13, 1729 Pro. Rec. 316: 347). Samuel Waite et al. conveyed to William Fellows that part of the estate of Joseph set off to our mother, Ruth, for her thirds, "excepting title in 1 acre of land laid off to her, adjoining the river, above ye old sluice bridge, bounded by our brother, Joseph's land," Dec. 2, 1733 (69: 151). William Fellows conveyed to Joseph Jr., his brother, 13 acres on Mile River, 26 acres bounded northwest on the Saltonstall lot, and 5 acres laid out for Joseph's common right, Dec. 20, 1733 (67:113). He bequeathed his whole estate to his wife, Deborah. (Proved April 8, 1754. Pro. Rec. 332:186). The estate contained house, barn and 34 acres adjoining (Inventory filed, April 15, 1754 Pro. Rec. 332:191). The widow, Deborah, conveyed her interest in $\frac{2}{3}$ of William's estate to Joseph, John Brown Jr. and his wife, Mary, Samuel Waite and his wife, Ruth, Thomas Low and his wife, Abigail, and Sary Harnden, in consideration of a deed of conveyance of $\frac{1}{3}$ of real estate of William, April 3, 1754 (100:203). Samuel Waite and Ruth conveyed $\frac{2}{3}$ of 22 acres and $\frac{2}{3}$ of $\frac{2}{3}$ of the buildings to Benjamin Fellows, Nov. 12, 1755 (115:96). The widow, Deborah, conveyed her remaining interest to him, April 1, 1756 (104:5), Joseph Fellows Jr., Thomas Low and Abigail, their interest, $\frac{2}{3}$ of $\frac{2}{3}$ of 23 acres, May 14, 1756 (123:279), Mary, widow of John Brown, her interest in the "upland of the homestead that belonged to my brother, William Fellows, deceased," Jan. 18, 1760 (115:59), Joseph and Nathan Brown her sons, their interest, Nov. 24, 1764.

The sons of Joseph,³ we have noted, were Benjamin, Joseph, Jacob and Daniel, to each of whom he bequeathed a portion of his real estate.

Joseph Whipple's Lot and others.

No. 37 on Diagram.

Benjamin Fellows,⁴ son of Joseph,³ had acquired some landed property before his father's death. On July 1, 1728, Joseph Whipple, executed a deed to Thomas Wade,

"in South 8 on the south side of highway laid out from y^e saw mill to Braggs hill about seven acres bounded west on Thomas Manning south land laid out to William Fellows east land laid out to Thomas and Jonathan Wade north from a stake by corner of sd Thomas and Jonathan Wade standing on the south side of highway aforesaid on a strait line to the corner of Mr. Mannings land . . . reserving to myself so much of the land bounded as shall be at any time hereafter laid out for a way to William Fellows" July 1, 1728 (58:194).

Timothy Wade sold to Benjamin Fellows, two lots, one now said to contain 11 acres, bounded south by William Fellows, north, the Hamlet road, east by Dr. Joseph Manning and west by John Manning, the other containing 8 acres, bounded south and east by Joseph Fellows, west by Joseph Manning and north by the Hamlet road, "reserving out of the first piece a way 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ rod wide, from ye gate next ye road leading from y^e saw mill to Chebacco, to William Fellows land," Nov. 24, 1740 (89:119). The intervening lot, then owned by Dr. Manning, was also acquired by him. On these lots, Benjamin built his dwelling, which still stands on Lakeman's Lane, though the old chimney has been removed and the outer appearance changed by Mr. William J. Cameron, the present owner. The old road from the present Lakeman's Lane turned in east of the house originally. It was used apparently in 1728 but in 1740, it was well defined and a gate was hung across it, as was common with many ways. As has been stated,¹ he purchased the interests of most of the heirs of his uncle William's farm.

He bought from his brother, Joseph Jr., 3 acres, near a dwelling house in the possession of Abner Tarbox, March 27, 1756 (104: 75). His name cannot be found in the records of the Registries, and I am at a loss to know where he was located. Probably he was a tenant in one of the Fellows houses. He sold to Joseph, 8 acres upland and meadow, bounded by Mile River and the highway, July 12, 1757 (105: 206) and bought from him, his right in 17 acres, excepting a highway 2 rods wide through it from land he bought of his father, bounded by the river, Low's island and John Manning, July 20, 1757 (135: 204). Joseph Jr. and Susanna sold him 3½ acres of upland, Nov. 18, 1763 (135: 205). His inheritance from his father has already been noted.² He bought of Nathan, his nephew, 2 acres 26 rods, "beginning at the great gate which hangs across the road leading from Benjamin's to Isaac's," March 15, 1765 (135: 205). As guardian of his lunatic brother, Daniel, he had sold 4½ acres, beginning at the great gate by the road, southeast about 76 rods, to the lane that leads to the spring on the north side of the highway to Nathan, 1765 (135: 249). In like fashion he sold 3 acres of Daniel's land on Mile River, to John Jones (133: 61), which Jones sold to him the same day, May 12, 1772, (135: 206) and 4 acres near the great spring abutting on the river, to Barnabas Dodge March 28, 1777 (135: 136) which Dodge sold to him on April 4, (135: 136). By purchase from the heirs of William, he seems to have secured much of the real estate, but slight title in the dwelling.

He died in Nov., 1794, and devised his estate; to his widow, Rebecca, no real estate; to his son, Ephraim, the landing place which came to him from his father, "and that which fell to me from my brother, Daniel;" to his son, John, 2 acres of the homestead; all the remainder to John and Ephraim, equally, but Ephraim to have the dwelling, (proved Dec. 21, 1794 Pro. Rec. 363: 434, 5). The inventory included house, barn and other buildings with about 44 acres on the east side of the way, about 24 acres, called the Cow Pasture, Old field and Low's Island, about 16 acres called the further meadow and upland, about 4 acres of upland adjoining Nathan and Isaac (363: 449).

In the division, John Fellows received 20½ acres on Mile brook, called the further meadow, 3½ acres which came from Daniel, 13½ acres called Shoemake Island, upland (on the east side of the way from Lakeman's Lane to Daniel W. Appleton's) and 12 acres of pasture, including William's orchard so called. Ephraim received the dwelling and 30¾ acres about it ("exclusive of the proprietor's way, which we consider and allow to be 1½ rods wide from John's land to said Ephraim's garden, from thence one rod wide to the highway") and 16½ acres bounded by Mile River, Manning's land and the proprietors way (Pro. Rec. 363: 536).

Joseph Fellows,⁴ son of Joseph,³ a tailor, known as Joseph Jr., received from his father, by gift or purchase, 2½ acres, bounded southeast and northeast on John Brown, west and south on the homestead, "always reserving a cart path through the premises," Dec. 12, 1734 (72: 258). His father conveyed him an acre adjoining and another acre near the sheep pasture, March, 1756 (101: 279).

He built his house on this spot, a small, low dwelling, still standing and owned in recent years by Thomas Roberts and Samuel M. Haskell. Deborah Fellows, widow of his uncle William, conveyed to him a third of William's homestead, April 1, 1756 (103: 71) and he bought 8 acres already mentioned of his brother Benjamin, July 12, 1757 (105: 206). By his will (proved May 10, 1764. Pro. Rec. 341: 387) he devised to his widow, Susanna, the use of a third; gifts to his son, William and to daughters, Sarah Potter, and Deborah Goodhue; to Susanna, one half of the west end of the dwelling while single, half of the looms, half of the slays, and the same to Abigail; to his son, Isaac, the remainder, including all the real estate. The estate comprised house, barn and cow house, 4 acres adjoining, and 26 acres adjoining Benjamin Fellows, (filed Oct. 8, 1764. Pro. Rec. 341: 412).

Isaac Fellows,⁵ son of Joseph,⁴ sold 9 $\frac{3}{4}$ acres, part of the 26 acres, Cow Pasture, to Nathan Fellows Jr., Feb. 23, 1816 (210: 108). Nathan Fellows sold to Ebenezer Cogswell, Sept. 15, 1827 (246: 108) who sold to Daniel Appleton, Feb. 2, 1844 (342: 152) whose heirs still own. It is bounded by the highway, is crossed by the old cart-way and is undoubtedly part of the original Saltonstall 40 acre lot. Isaac sold the balance of the Cow Pasture, 16 acres 4 poles to John Brown, Oct. 28, 1807 (184: 1) and it has passed by inheritance through successive generations to Mr. John H. Brown its present owner. This also was undoubtedly part of the Saltonstall lot. Isaac sold the homestead with 8 acres to his son, William, a cordwainer, Nov. 20, 1821 (229: 197). William Fellows,⁶ son of Isaac,⁵ sold to Capt. Joseph Gardiner of Boston, Oct. 27, 1832 (268: 14). Capt. Gardiner bought 3 acres adjoining of Ebenezer Cogswell, part of the old Nathan Brown farm, Jan. 4, 1737 (296: 294). Capt. Gardiner sold the house and 11 acres to Thomas Roberts, of Gloucester, shoemaker, Aug. 26, 1837 (302: 91.) Thomas and John Roberts bought of Tristram Appleton, 10 acres, part of the old Nathan Brown farm, including the cellar of the ancient dwelling, April 10, 1861 (620: 297). John Roberts and Sally sold to Samuel M. Haskell, June 11, 1890 (1283: 514). It was sold under foreclosure of mortgage to John H. Brown, April 9, 1901 (1637: 277) who conveyed to Alphonso M. Knowlton and Frank C. Richardson, April 10, 1901 (1637: 279).

Daniel Fellows,⁴ son of Joseph,³ a man of unsound mind, received from his father, as has been stated,¹ the residue of his estate. Guardianship of Daniel was granted to his brother, Benjamin, Oct., 19, 1762 (Pro Rec. 340: 65). His home was in the homestead. After his death, division of his estate was made. The house, barn and 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ acres adjoining were assigned to Nathan, his nephew, 3 $\frac{3}{4}$ acres near the river to his brother, Jacob, the same to his sister, Sarah Dodge, and 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ acres to the heirs of Joseph, (filed May 4, 1779. 353: 453, 4).

Returning to the heirs of Benjamin,⁴ the eldest son of Joseph,³ John Fellows,⁵ son of Benjamin,⁴ received half of the farm at his father's death. The lots have already been specified.¹ No mention was made of the dwelling formerly William's, in Benjamin's will, but he had acquired an interest in it by purchase from the other heirs. John was in possession at his father's death and had acquired title, though no record of purchase remains. He conveyed the west half of the dwelling, with a small lot and a small piece opposite, 5 rods by 3, to Nathan Fellows Jr., June 9, 1807 (201: 71) and another lot, 12 rods by 5, to the same, Dec. 15, 1815 (214: 167). To Joseph, cordwainer, he conveyed the east half of the house and about 10 acres, 9 acres on the opposite side of the road with a chaise house and 35 acres of pasture and tillage, Dec. 31, 1823 (234: 105). Deferring consideration of the farm of Ephraim for a little, the estates of Nathan and Joseph may now be traced to completion.

Nathan Fellows,⁵ son of Nathan,⁴ Joseph,³ by the will of his grandfather, received $\frac{1}{4}$ of his farm, containing 115 acres, and part of the dwelling.² A 14 acre lot in the homestall was set off to him and a strip of land 10 ft. wide at the north and east end of the house, and in the division of the widow's dower 9 acres more were assigned him. His uncle, Benjamin, guardian of his father, sold him $4\frac{1}{2}$ acres on the opposite side of Fellows Lane, two acres of which he retained.³ His aunt, Sarah Dodge, sold him the $3\frac{3}{4}$ acres, allotted her in the division of the estate, March 8, 1783 (140: 177).

Nathan Fellows sold the farm, the house and 35 acres and 2 acres on the opposite side of the road to Nathan Fellows 3d, Oct. 17, 1835 (286: 219). Nathan Fellows 3d, who had now taken a middle initial W., sold the same to Simon Brown, April 3d, 1845 (353: 71), and it was sold by him to Simon Kinsman, April 3d, 1845 (352: 201). He bought an acre of Elisha Brown, part of the original estate, Nov. 3, 1847 (428: 33) and sold the whole farm to Ezekiel Merrill, May 4, 1850 (428: 33). He sold to Alonzo B. Fellows,⁷ son of Joseph,⁶ Oct. 22, 1857 (560: 276) who sold to James H. Proctor, the present owner, January 30, 1899 (1568: 464).

Nathan Fellows Jr., received from John Fellows, the west half of his dwelling and several lots.⁴ He bought of Isaac Fellows, $9\frac{3}{4}$ acres, part of the cow pasture on Fellows Lane, Feb. 23, 1816 (210: 108). He sold his whole estate to Ebenezer Cogswell, Sept. 15, 1827 (246: 108) who sold to Simon Kinsman the half house and an acre opposite, April 1, 1830 (257: 10.) Mr. Kinsman sold back to Mr. Cogswell, Aug. 9, 1830 (257: 213) who sold then to Joseph B. Fellows, Sept. 6, 1830 (257: 214). But he was then deeply involved in financial difficulties. Suit had already been brought against him by Ammi Brown and by an execution, possession had been given Brown of the east half of the house and 15 acres 20 rods adjoining and the 13 acre pasture lot on the other side of the highway, July 12, 1830

(Ex. No. 6: 35), and on the same day, Grover Dodge, having secured judgment against Nathan and Joseph Fellows attained possession of a $2\frac{1}{2}$ acre lot and a small piece containing 48 sq. rods near the house (Ex. No. 6: 33, 34). Judgment was made against Joseph, Nathan and Ephraim Fellows and $8\frac{3}{4}$ acres were set off to him, Sept. 28, 1830 (Exec. No. 6: 33, 34). Mary Fellows, the widow of John Fellows, gained judgment against Joseph and $13\frac{1}{4}$ acres were set off to her and 9 acres were set off to Judith Manning, both lots abutting on the river, July 12, 1830 (Ex. No. 6: 36, 37). The west half of the house and the lots he had bought from Nathan were all that was left to Joseph. Ammi Brown sold his holdings, the east half of the dwelling and lands to Daniel Appleton Jr. of Beverly, Jan. 16, 1832 (263: 63). He married Mehitable K. Cleaves of Beverly, April 10, 1832 and they made their home on the newly bought farm. Mr. Appleton cut the old dwelling in halves, moved his part, which was the main dwelling, a few rods away and enlarged and remodelled it. Parker Dodge et al. heirs of Grover Dodge sold his lots to Appleton, Feb. 21, 1837 (333: 265). He bought the 10 acre lot opposite of Ebenezer Cogswell, who had purchased it from Nathan Fellows Jr. in 1827, Feb. 2, 1844 (342: 152).

The widow, Mary Fellows, devised her land to her nephews, Levi and George Willett. To Levi, she gave a 10 acre lot, and 4 acres to George. Levi sold to Alonzo B. Fellows, June 3, 1852 (461: 197) and when Mr. Fellows sold his farm to James H. Proctor, he sold this lot as well, Jan. 30, 1899 (1568: 464). George Willett sold his 4 acres to Rev. Daniel Fitz, Pastor of the South Church, April 24, 1849. Dr. Fitz sold this to John Brown, also a piece of pasture land adjoining, called Fellows Hill, containing 6 acres, "being the same which Lucy Brown, administratrix of James Brown conveyed to me, May 16, 1849, excepting and reserving $\frac{1}{2}$ an acre thereof, with a right of way which I have sold to the Town of Ipswich," June 5, 1851 (1568: 467). John H. Brown et al. heirs of John Brown sold this to Mr. Proctor, Jan. 28, 1899 (1568: 469). The Town established a gravel pit, which was used for many years. It was sold by the Town to Mr. Proctor, May 27, 1901 (1664: 367).

Sarah J. Fellows, Henry H. Wall and Frances, Elijah Emerson and Mary, of Cambridge, sold their interest in a 11 acre lot, between John H. Brown's "old field," and the river, part of the estate of their father, Joseph, conveyed to him by John, Dec. 31, 1823 (234: 106) to their brother Alonzo B. Fellows, Jan. 30, 1899 (1568: 462) who sold to James H. Proctor, the same day, Jan. 30, 1899 (1568: 464). Daniel W. Appleton inherited his father's estate and sold the 13 acre pasture, bought by his father of Ammi Brown to Mr. Proctor, Jan. 30, 1899 (1568: 466). On this lot, Mr. Proctor built his stately mansion, and the bare pasture has been transformed into beautiful lawns and gardens. A little more than 75 acres were secured by Mr. Proctor in these purchases. A part of this was included in the original John Andrews farm, sold to William Fellows, part in the Saltonstall 40 acre pasture and part, perhaps, in the John Lowe land. Mr. Proctor also purchased 34 acres on the other side of Mile River, in the Town of Hamilton.

MR. JAMES H. PROCTOR'S HOUSE.

His estate includes the farm of Joseph Fellows' and the Saltonstall Forty Acres.

See Pages 40, 41, 47, 48.

Ephraim Fellows,⁵ son of Benjaimn,⁴ as was stated,¹ received his father's homestead at his death and half the farm, in 1796. He bought of Hannah Swasey, the 9 acre birch pasture, originally owned by the inn-keeper, Increase How, and inherited by his descendants, on the north side of Lakeman's Lane, March 31, 1797 (173: 88). He divided his estate by will between his widow Eunice and his children.

To his widow he gave the northeast end of the dwelling and land adjoining, and 2½ acres in the birch lot, also the orchard west of the house, and wood land in Low's Island.

To Eunice, land in Low's Island.

To Oliver, the east field, 7½ acres.

To Lucy Brown, the low ground, 12½ acres.

To Ephraim, the cow pasture, 5½ acres, adjoining the Manning farm.

To George, 9 acres in the birch pasture.

To Elizabeth, the southwest half of the dwelling and land.

To Susanna Dennis, the river meadow at Low's Island.

will proved, April 3, 1810 (Pro. Rec, 379: 174) division filed April 2, 1825 (Pro. Rec. 404: 593).

Elizabeth Fellows,⁶ married John P. Lakeman. Execution was granted Oliver Underhill and possession was given him of all that she inherited from her father, Feb. 14, 1863 (Exec. No. 12: 15) and Aug. 13, 1863 (Exec. No. 12:36). The widow's third was owned then by Aaron F. Brown, who sold her portion and also the east field, assigned to Oliver, to Oliver Appleton, April 17, 1849 (410: 253). Appleton apparently sold the half house to Mr. Underhill. Catherine P. Underhill sold the house and land about it to Aaron Lord, June 15, 1878 (1000: 102). He sold to Jacob Scanks, June 17, 1878 (1000: 103), who sold to Daniel W. Appleton, Feb. 2, 1882 (1075: 216). Mr. Appleton sold the buildings and 5 acres of land to William J. Cameron, Oct. 28, 1885 (1161: 236). It was built, as has been said², by Benjamin Fellows, about 1740. The old chimney has been torn out and a general look of newness has dispelled all signs of its venerable age.

Oliver Appleton sold the East Field to Willard B. Kinsman, May, 1856 (531: 83) and his heirs sold to William J. Cameron. The orchard lot, sold by Aaron F. Brown to Oliver Appleton, was sold by him to Alonzo B. Fellows, May 7, 1856 (531: 82). He sold to Silas Henry Goodwin, Nov. 15, 1870 (811: 52) who built the house on the lot. He sold the house and lot to his brother-in-law, William J. Cameron.

George Fellows,⁶ sold his part of the birch pasture to William Manning, Jan. 8, 1833, (270: 38) and the widow's 2 acres were secured at a later date. Manning owned the adjoining lot, the Smith lot, and his heirs sold his whole estate to George Fellows, Sept. 7, 1860 (612: 246). It is now included in the estate of Charles A. Campbell.³

The low ground, bequeathed to Lucy Brown, was sold by her administrator to Daniel Appleton, April 30, 1852 (506: 298), who also bought a small half acre lot at the bridge of Aaron F. Brown, Aug. 10, 1853 (506: 299). Ephraim,⁶ sold the cow-pasture to Oliver Underhill, Dec. 13, 1826 (244: 1) who sold to John Manning, April 2, 1827 (350: 108). It is still included in the Ebenezer Fall farm.

Lucy Brown, the administratrix of James Brown, sold the 7 acres in Low's Island, given to Eunice Fellows, to Rev. Daniel Fitz, March 28, 1849 (492: 133) and Susanna Dennis sold her 2 acres to the same, March 11, 1854 (492: 134). His son, Daniel F. Fitz, sold both lots, deeded to him, July 5, 1861, to Daniel W. Appleton, Aug. 26, 1870 (807: 32).

This long series of wills, inventories and conveyances reveals many interesting secrets of the life of this little community. It was wonderfully self-sufficient. These farmers cultivated only a few acres. Their farm stock was limited and their "utensils of husbandry," as they are styled in one ancient inventory, were few and simple. Despite the fact that all the farm labor was done by hand, they had opportunity and necessity, no doubt, to turn to other employments, to complete the round of their activities. So we find few men, who are styled yeomen or farmers and many who tilled their lands, but added to their yeomanry the trades of the house carpenter, glazier, brickmaker and blacksmith, of the cordwainer, weaver and tailor, and by these trades they were known.

Hence the community had little need of help from without. When a new house was required, the noble oaks and pines were felled on their own wood lots, the great beams were fashioned with the axe, and the neighboring sawmill of Major Samuel Appleton on Mile River, converted the great logs into boards and smaller timber, shingles and clapboards. The brickmaker supplied the bricks, the blacksmith, nails, hinges and latches, and the carpenter and glazier did the rest.

The individual household was likewise an economic unit. Its food supplies were almost entirely derived from the Indian corn and rye, the beef, pork and poultry, the milk and eggs, butter and cheese, raised on the farm, while from their barley, malted at the Rogers malt house, they made their home brewed beer. Every family had its flock of sheep and a field was always sown with flax. Then the tireless and ingenious women of the household with deft touch spun and wove and bleached, provided table and bed linen and made the beautiful bed quilts, which are prized still for their splendid handiwork, cut and fashioned garments, knit stockings and mittens. Happily William Brown, the professional weaver, could help in the production of the heavier fabrics and the neighborhood tailor could fashion the more elaborate overcoats and fine dress coats, which the wealthier men needed. The cordwainers made the shoes. The wood lots at Chebacco and the great peat meadow, close at hand, provided fuel for the huge fireplaces. Home-made candles and smoky "betty lamps," or smokier pitch pine strips gave a feeble light.

All of these old farmhouses were comfortably furnished and some inventories give evidence of luxury. There were neighborhood aristocrats, James Burnham, with his two negro slaves, his houses and lands; James Brown, the town shopkeeper who also had his Candlewood farm and his black slaves, Kant and Bett; and the cordwainer, John Brown, whose Luie and Phillis made the housework lighter. Clad in his velvet coat and short clothes, with wig and silver buckles and buttons, the Candlewood gentleman made a brave appearance. Some traces of the oldest houses remain in the cellars of two of the present dwellings at least, where the ancient oak summers still support the hearths of the fire places. The bevelled edges indicate well finished dwellings, resembling the old Whipple house, now owned by the Historical Society

In the great social necessities of life the old neighborhood proved adequate to its own needs as well. A study of the genealogies appended makes it plain that in the large proportion of marriages, both bride and groom were from this group of houses. Playmates and schoolmates, these Browns and Fellowses and Kinsmans and the Appletons, a little farther removed, finally became partners for life. Frequently they spent their lives in the same dwelling in which they were born, and never went far enough afield to lose sight of the smoke from the chimnies or the smell of the peat reek of the old neighborhood. This passion for home has descended to the present generation and in thirteen of the comfortable dwellings of today, either husband or wife was born and bred on Candlewood soil.

Children came into these old homes in glad profusion, and it rarely happened that the first born son did not bear his father's name. Some names were loved so well that they passed from generation to generation, and in one case, John Brown of the Hamlet in Revolutionary times was enrolled as John Brown 7th. In the very beginning of our town, there were three John Browns, distinguished as Senior, the farmer and the glazier, and in a land lawsuit, the John Brown in possession based his defence in part, upon the fact that the writ did not specify which John Brown he was, as there were several of the name in the town.

Numerous as their children were, the parents were never at a loss for names. Praise God, Hate Evil and other Puritan names of that ilk, were never in vogue with them. The Bible furnished an inexhaustible series of noble and significant names and beginning with Adam and righteous Abel, the names of the patriarchs and prophets, the soldiers and sages of the Hebrew Word, the evangelists and apostles of later times, and of the holy women of Bible story, were given to their offspring.

The families themselves were patriarchal. Ten and twelve children were not unusual and sometimes the numbers swelled to heroic proportions. Nathan Fellows by his first marriage had twelve children, none of whom survived the age of seven. Marrying again and choosing apparently a woman of greater physical power, he had the pleasure of seeing thirteen children grow to manhood and womanhood. Stephen Kinsman had an even dozen, Moses had ten, and William Kinsman counted thirteen children around his daily board. One daughter, married in the best room and removed to another neighborhood, but returned fifty years later, with sons and daughters to celebrate her golden wedding in the old parlor. William and Elizabeth Brown rejoiced in thirteen children, Lieut. Nehemiah had eleven, John and Hannah Brown gathered thirteen about the great fire places in the farm house on Fellows Lane. Stephen Brown had eleven and James Brown's house was made merry and noisy by twelve. No wonder Sabbath day congregations were large in those good old days, when church going was the rule and whole families were found in the family pew, though the meeting house was cold and cheerless. The Candlewood school, now abandoned under modern methods of centralization, enrolled sixty pupils in the childhood of some who are still living.

The ability to bear the burden which was put upon the mothers of these old families, passes our comprehension. The mere clothing of her household, from husband to the babe, never absent from the cradle, when few fabrics were bought and everything was made by hand, the providing of the daily food with the primitive conveniences of the fire place, the butter and cheese making, the manufacture of the household linen, the endless anxieties, were too much for flesh and blood, as we think it. Sometimes dreadful epidemics caused terror in every home. In the family of Mark and Hepzibah Howe, in another parish of the town, a throat distemper, as it was called, caused the death of their daughter, Lucy, on Nov. 5, 1736, Mary followed on Nov. 15th, Hannah and Aaron on Nov. 18th, Abijah on the 21st, Mark on the 24th, Moses on the 28th, and Love on the 28th, eight deaths in twenty-three days. The great white plague was always claiming its victims. Scarlet fever was regarded as unavoidable and of no great significance. A lady, who died some fourteen years ago, taught school in her early womanhood and she went to her work as usual, after watching all night with a child suffering with this fever.

The house mother's care for her own was always increased by her readiness to minister to her neighbor's family in every critical hour. All modern rules for mothers and babes were habitually violated. Modern remedies and modern nursing were alike unknown. Yet they lived and reached a ripe old age. William Kinsman died in his old homestead in 1866 aged ninety, his father and mother both had reached the age of ninety-one, his grand-father had lived to be ninety-three and his sister was ninety-six when she died. Capt. Elisha Brown died in 1808 leaving his widow with six children under age, including a babe of ten months. That marvellous woman brought up her family and lived fifty-seven years a widow, dying in 1865 at the great age of one hundred and one years and two months.

Under such circumstances, it might be imagined that the lot of the children was as hard as that of their mothers, and that they must have suffered much from neglect. It is a fact that they were not dressed according to Paris fashions. They had less school privilege than the law demands for children today. But those children were taught diligently in the Bible and the catechism and the great hymns of the church. They learned to read and write, and sew and knit. The crowning glory of the girl's education was the sampler, cleverly wrought on the homespun canvass. The alphabet, in capitals and small letters, was generally followed by some genealogical record or by a mournful verse. One sampler, preserved in the collection of the Historical Society, bears the lugubrious sentiment:

"When I am dead and in my grave
And all my bones are rotten,
When this you see remember me
That I mayn't be forgotten."

Happily the little maid who wrought that sampler was accustomed to these painful moralizings and all her playmates shared her dismal experience. Nevertheless her education prepared her well on the whole for her prospective cares and responsibilities. No doubt the joys of Thanksgiving, the excitements of the frequent weddings and the common home pleasures offset the dullness and straitness of child life in very satisfactory fashion.

The ancient neighborhood had its days of darkness and fear. John Brown Senior's inventory in 1677 contains the item,
"axes, sithes, sawes and other utensells of husbandry with some Armor £3-12s. -0."

The dread of Indian assault was always with them and when night settled down upon those scattered farm houses and the wolves howled in the forests, many a brave heart trembled at some unusual sound. When King Philip's war at last broke out, Ephraim Fellows was a trooper with Captain Paige and then with our Ipswich soldier, Captain John Whipple; Isaac Fellows was in Captain Willard's Co. Joseph Fellows and John Brown were also enrolled. James Burnham was a trooper in Major Appleton's Co. in the Narragansett campaign. Quarter master Robert Kinsman was a sufferer in the Gov. Andros episode and John Ross went to Quebec with Phipps. The witchcraft persecution carried consternation to every household and intense interest and sympathy were roused by the arrest of their old neighbors, John Proctor and his wife, in the Chebacco parish and the petition of Rev. John Wise and thirty-one men of his parish, all of whom were friends of the men of Candlewood, for their release. When the news of the march of the British regulars on April 19th arrived, many of the young men hurried to Lexington, in Capt. Robert Perkins's company of horse, or the several companies of minute men. The three or four days of their absence were a trying time to the neighborhood. Some of them served in the war and William Kinsman was in the battle of Bunker Hill. The allurements of the gold fever in '49 attracted a number of the young men to California. They never returned and no one knew the story of their lives.

While the love of home has been the conspicuous trait of the neighborhood life, in all these generations, there have been many migrations elsewhere. Capt. Jonathan Fellows long ago removed to Gloucester, and from him has descended a conspicuous line of merchants and wealthy and prominent citizens in Boston and New York. Fellows Athenaeum in Roxbury, now used by the Boston Public Library, was built and endowed by Caleb Fellows of this family line. From John Choate has sprung that illustrious Rufus Choate, whose fame is as wide as the world, and Joseph

H. Choate, the famous lawyer and Ambassador to England. Judge Edward Brown of the Appellate Court of Illinois and Bishop Kinsman of Delaware rejoice in their Candlewood forbears. Multitudes of worthy and lovable men and women have gone far and wide, and through these sons and daughters, the fathers and the mothers who lived their simple and hard lives so well, are handing on their stalwart virtues, their love of toil, their broad and sympathetic good neighborliness to the generations that are to come.

EDITORIAL NOTE.—In the year 1876, the Kinsman Family Record was published, entitled "Genealogical Record of the descendants of Robert Kinsman of Ipswich, Mass., From 1634 to 1875. Compiled for Frederick Kinsman by Lucy W. Stickney." I have copied all the Ipswich material and made careful comparison of this work with the original record. A few mistakes have been noted and corrected. The Ipswich families have been completed to the present year, and a careful study of locations has been made. I have made no attempt at tracing the lines of those who have emigrated from Ipswich, but have made constant reference to the printed Genealogy in the foot-notes for this portion of the work. I am greatly indebted to this admirable family history for this very material assistance.—T. F. W.

ROBERT KINSMAN OF IPSWICH, MASS.

1. ROBERT KINSMAN,¹ the immigrant, a glazier by trade, received a grant of an acre of land on the south side of the way now known as Green St., near the corner of County St. He probably built his house here in the year 1635, though the record of the grant was not made until 1637. He died Jan. 28, 1664 and his will proved Mar. 28, 1665 (Pro. Rec. 1:213) gave his dwelling to Tabitha, his only unmarried daughter. His wife had probably died before this date as no mention of her is made in the will. His children were:

2 ROBERT,² born 1629. See No. 2.

3 MARY,² married 1st, Daniel Ringe; 2nd, Usual or Uzall Wardell.

4 SARAH,² married Samuel Younglove, Aug. 1, 1660.

5 HANNAH,² married William Danford, Mar. 20, 1670; died Oct. 18, 1678.

6 MARTHA,² married Jacob Foster, Jan. 12, 1658.

7 TABITHA.²

The new homes of the daughters were near the homestead. Mary, the eldest, lived on Turkey Shore Road, on the lot now owned by Mr. Arthur W. Dow. Sarah's husband, Thomas Younglove Jr., bought the house lot of Thomas Wells on County St., within the house lot of Mrs. John Heard in the rear of the South Church, Mar. 26, 1659, a few months before their marriage, and retained the ownership until 1696. Hannah's husband, William Danford, was not a resident of Ipswich apparently. Jacob Foster, who married Martha, lived within a few rods of the Kinsman house lot, at the time of his marriage and their wedded life was spent in the immediate neighborhood. Robert alone made a little farther remove.

2. ROBERT KINSMAN,² born in 1629, followed his father's trade. He married Mary Boreman, daughter of Thomas, whose dwelling was in East St. As he purchased his Candlewood farm in 1652, his marriage occurred probably about that time. The Quartermaster died on February 19, 1712 and was buried in the old High Street Burying Ground, where his grave-stone still stands. Their children were:

8 MARY,³ born Dec. 21, 1657.

9 SARAH,³ born March 19, 1659; married Jacob Perkins.

10 THOMAS,³ born April 15, 1662. See No. 10.

11 JOANNA,³ born April 25, 1665; married Nathaniel Rust Jr., Feb. 22, 1684.

- 12 MARGARET,³ born July 24, 1668.
- 13 EUNICE,³ born Jan. 24, 1670; married Nathaniel Burnham.
- 14 JOSEPH,³ born Dec. 20, 1673. See No. 14.
- 15 ROBERT,³ born May 21, 1677. See No. 15.
- 16 PELATIAH,³ born Nov. 10, 1680. See No. 16.

10. THOMAS KINSMAN,³ born in 1662, married Elizabeth Burnham, July 12, 1687, and lived on the farm now owned and occupied by Mr. Fred. G. Cross, less than a mile from his birthplace. He died July 15, 1696, and his widow married Isaac Ringe of Ipswich (pub. July 27, 1700). Their children were:

- 17 STEPHEN,⁴ born about 1688. See No. 17.
- 18 ELIZABETH,⁴ born about 1690; married Jacob Perkins, son of Jacob and Sarah (Kinsman) Perkins (pub. Mar. 6, 1713).
- 19 THOMAS,⁴ born April 3, 1693.
- 20 MARY,⁴ born Oct. 14, 1695; married Thomas Waite Jr. (pub. Dec. 14, 1717).

Thomas forsook the land for the sea. He was styled "mariner" in his deed of conveyance of his share in the homestead to his brother in 1714. His heirs quitclaimed to Stephen, Dec. 19, 1729 (56: 277).

14. JOSEPH KINSMAN³ was born Dec. 20, 1673 in the Candlewood home. He married first Susanna Dutch of Ipswich. Her gravestone in the old High St. Ground bears the inscription. "Here lyes Buried the Body of Mrs. Susanna Kinsman, wife to Lieut. Joseph Kinsman, who departed this life, Nov^r 9th Ann^o Dom^y 1734." He married second, Sarah Peabody¹ of Boxford, April 27, 1736. It has been noted already² that his father conveyed his dwelling to him with the adjacent land, March 21, 1698, about the time of his first marriage. His children, all by the first marriage, were.

- 21 SUSANNA,⁴ born Feb. 16, 1700; married 1st, Increase How (pub. Aug. 10, 1723); married 2d, John Smith, Jan. 28, 1762.
- 22 JOSEPH,⁴ born Sept. 15, 1701; died Nov. 18, 1724.
- 23 EUNICE,⁴ born June 23, 1705; married Moses Wells (pub. Nov. 20, 1724).
- 24 SARAH,⁴ born June 23, 1705; married Nathaniel Wells (pub. July 7, 1723).
- 25 ELIZABETH,⁴ born Nov. 11, 1707; married William Browne Jr. (pub. Jan. 1, 1726).
- 26 JOHN,⁴ born Nov. 21, 1709. See No. 26.
- 27 HANNAH,⁴ born Nov. 21, 1709; married Robert Wallis Jr. (pub. Sept. 20, 1735).
- 28 MARTHA,⁴ born July 13, 1712; married Thomas Dennis (pub. Mar. 25, 1732).

29 NATHANIEL,⁴ baptized July 10, 1714; married 1st, Anna Robinson, 1741; married 2nd, Dorcas Parsons, 1787; lived in Gloucester.¹

30 PELATIAH,⁴ baptized July 12, 1715. See No. 30.

31 BENJAMIN,⁴ baptized April 26, 1719. See No. 31.

Increase How, housewright, the husband of Susanna, bought the corner lot, now owned and occupied by Dr. William E. Tucker, "with a good mansion house," of Joseph Whipple, Dec. 28, 1724. He became an inn-keeper and his hostelry enjoyed wide renown. By the will of her husband, the wife was allowed the use of the east half of the inn in 1754, but she married Capt. John Smith, Jan. 28, 1762. He bought the Burley mansion on Green St. in 1760 and there his wife, of long experience in the fine art of tavern-keeping, resumed her vocation. This old inn still stands, with promise of many years of usefulness.

The twin daughters, Eunice and Sarah, married brothers, the sons of Nathaniel Wells, a farmer in the Argilla neighborhood. Moses Wells and Eunice lived for many years in the old house which was known in its last days as the Molly Martin house on East St. Capt. Nathaniel Wells and Sarah spent their lives on the Argilla farm of his ancestors, where thirteen children were born to them. Elizabeth, Hannah and Martha, married Ipswich men and became the mothers of large families. Of the sons, Joseph died in early manhood, Nathaniel removed to Gloucester, where all his children were born. Benjamin Kinsman inherited half the parental homestead, but sold to his brother, Pelatiah, and bought the Jonathan Fellows farm, now owned by Benjamin R. Horton, on the Candlewood road, a half mile from his birthplace, in 1742, two years after his marriage, and made his home there until 1747 when he sold to Capt. John Boardman. In 1760 he removed to Cornwallis, Nova Scotia. John and Pelatiah were content to dwell in their ancestral town.²

15 ROBERT KINSMAN,³ born May 21, 1677, married Lydia More or Moore of Boston, April 3, 1700 and for a second wife, Rebecca Burley, daughter of Cornet Andrew Burley, June 28, 1705. His deed of sale to his brother Joseph (40: 17) Feb. 18, 1720-21, shows that he made his home in the Fellows homestead on the corner of Candlewood Road and Fellows Road. A deed dated Oct. 28, 1721 (73: 25) gives his residence as Norwich, Conn. He died there June 7, 1761, his widow Rebecca, surviving until Nov. 11, 1775.³ The children of Robert and Rebecca, all born in Ipswich, were:

32 REBECCA,⁴ born Aug. 15, 1706; died Dec. 17, 1719. Gravestone in High St. Burying Ground.

² See The Kinsman Family for the families of the daughters and other interesting matter.

³ The will of Robert Kinsman is given in The Kinsman Family, p. 59, and his family is also traced.

- 33 MARY,⁴ born Jan. 20, 1707-8.
- 34 JOANNA,⁴ born July 11, 1710.
- 35 ROBERT,⁴ baptized May 3, 1713.
- 36 MARGARET,⁴ baptized May 25, 1718.
- 37 JEREMY,⁴ baptized Feb. 28, 1719.

16. PELATIAH KINSMAN,³ born Nov. 10, 1680, chose the life of a sailor and was sailing master of the ship "Hopewell" in 1706. He married Sarah Combey, July 1, 1708, in Boston, where he made his home. His will was proved in 1727.¹

17. STEPHEN KINSMAN,⁴ born about 1688, with his brother Thomas received from their grandfather Quartermaster Robert, the title of their father's farm. He bought his brother's interest and eventually acquired a considerable landed estate,² though by trade he was a weaver. He married first, Lucy Kimball, daughter of Caleb and Lucy Kimball of High St. (pub. Nov. 24, 1711) who died Feb. 22, 1715-16, at the age of 23 years; second, Lydia Kimball, daughter of Richard and Lydia Kimball (pub. Nov. 19, 1716). He died in the home of his birth, Dec. 8, 1756. His children by the first marriage were:

- 38 STEPHEN,⁵ born March 15, 1713; died in infancy.
- 39 THOMAS,⁵ born Feb. 13, 1715; married Mary Tilton (pub. April 25, 1745). He made his home in Hamilton, where he died April 7, 1779.

By the second marriage:

- 40 STEPHEN,⁵ baptized March 30, 1718. See No. 40.
- 41 DANIEL,⁵ baptized Oct. 32, 1720. See No. 41.
- 42 JEREMIAH,⁵ baptized May 3, 1724. See No. 42.
- 43 LYDIA,⁵ baptized Aug. 10, 1729; married Ephraim Adams, April 6, 1749.

26. JOHN KINSMAN,⁴ born Nov. 21, 1709, by the will of his father, in 1741, received the land with the house and barn he then occupied on the site of Mr. Chas. G. Brown's dwelling. He married, first, Hannah Burnham, daughter of James and Sarah (Rogers) Burnham, Jan. 31, 1733, who died May 31, 1753. It has been stated³ that he bought the interest of the other heirs in the Burnham estate and acquired a large tract of fine farm land and dwellings. Captain John, as he was called, married second, Elizabeth (Fellows) Perkins, the widow of Joseph Perkins (pub. Dec. 9, 1753). He probably built the large mansion, on Heart Break Road, recently owned by Aretas D. Wallace. His children, all by his first marriage, were:

- 44 HANNAH,⁵ baptized June 1, 1735; died April 20, 1737.
- 45 JOHN,⁵ baptized Aug. 21, 1737. See No. 45.

- 46 JAMES,¹ baptized May 13, 1739. See No. 46.
- 47 HANNAH,⁵ baptized June 27, 1741; married James Perkins, Oct. 28, 1762.
- 48 JOSEPH,⁵ baptized May 22, 1743; died Nov. 6, 1762.
- 49 SARAH,⁵ baptized Oct. 20, 1745; married William Appleton (pub. April 21, 1764).
- 50 SAMUEL,⁵ baptized July 19, 1747. See No. 50.
- 51 JONATHAN,⁵ baptized Jan. 7, 1749. See No. 51.
- 52 MARTHA,⁵ baptized Jan. 19, 1752; married Samuel Gilman Jr. of Exeter, Sept. 16, 1779.

James Perkins and William Appleton were substantial citizens of Ipswich. Capt. Samuel Gilman was a resident of Exeter. Three sons, John, James and Samuel lived out their days in Ipswich.

30. PELATIAH KINSMAN,⁴ baptized July 12, 1715, as has been said,¹ inherited a half interest in the homestead of his father and grandfather and bought his brother Benjamin's half. He married Jane Farley, daughter of Michael Farley, and for the first years of their married life, they lived undoubtedly in the homestead. But on Feb. 1, 1753, he bought the Col. Wainwright farm in the Argilla neighborhood, two miles perhaps from the old home, removed there and disposed of the Candlewood home in 1754.² Five of their great family of thirteen children were born in the old house. Mrs. Kinsman died April 2, 1791, aged 64, the husband died Oct. 4, 1796. Their children were:

- 53 MICHAEL,⁵ baptized April 6, 1746. See No. 53.
 - 54 NATHANIEL,⁵ baptized March 20, 1747. See No. 54.
 - 55 JANE,⁵ baptized March 11, 1749; married Lieut. Mark Haskell (pub. March 3, 1798.)
 - 56 SUSANNA,⁵ baptized July 7, 1751; married David Dennis, of New-castle, July 1, 1779.
 - 57 EUNICE,⁵ baptized Sept. 17, 1752; died unmarried, Sept. 17, 1832.
 - 58 MOSES,⁵ baptized July 7, 1754. See No. 58.
 - 59 AARON,⁵ baptized July 7, 1754. See No. 59.
 - 60 ISRAEL,⁵ baptized Aug. 15, 1756; mariner unmarried.
 - 61 LUCY,⁵ baptized March 26, 1758; married Richard D. Jewett, Dec. 25, 1791.
 - 62 PELATIAH,⁵ baptized May 18, 1760; died in infancy.
 - 63 HANNAH,⁵ baptized Aug. 25, 1764; died Oct. 9, 1786.
 - 64 PELATIAH,⁵ baptized Nov. 2, 1766; died Oct. 4, 1776.
 - 65 MERCY,⁵ baptized Nov. 2, 1766; died unmarried Sept. 22, 1836.
- So far as known, none of this great family ever removed from Ipswich.

31. BENJAMIN KINSMAN,⁴ baptized April 26, 1719, married Elizabeth Perkins (pub. Dec. 27, 1740). Their children born in Ipswich were:³

³ The Kinsman Family, p. 70 gives marriages.

- 66 ELIZABETH,⁵ born Oct. 20, 1741.
- 67 BENJAMIN,⁵ born Nov. 3, 1743.
- 68 NATHANIEL,⁵ born Aug. 13, 1745.
- 69 ROBERT,⁵ born May 27, 1747.
- 70 EBENEZER,⁵ born June 2, 1750; died June 17, 1750.
- 71 EBENEZER,⁵ born Aug. 10, 1751.
- 72 SUSANNA,⁵ born June 17, 1753.

The Kinsman Family, p. 70, states that he removed to Cornwallis, Nova Scotia, in 1760, where were born:

- 73 JOSEPH,⁵ born Dec. 16, 1760.
- 74 MARY,⁵ born Aug. 13, 1763.

40. STEPHEN KINSMAN,⁵ born March 30, 1718; married Elizabeth Russell, April 10, 1739. His father's will, proved in 1756, bestowed on him, "that part of the dwelling (i. e., his grandfather's house¹) he now lives in with the old barn and shop, with all my looms, and weaving tackling etc." "The parlor end" of the dwelling was given to Lydia, his widow. Stephen sold his farm to Samuel Patch in 1767.¹ During their residence in the old farm house twelve sons and daughters were born:

- 75 STEPHEN,⁶ baptized March 23, 1739; married Elizabeth Caryl, 1762.
- 76 NATHAN,⁶ baptized Oct. 4, 1741; married 1st, Mercy Wheeler; married 2nd, Elizabeth Shattuck, 1772.
- 77 AARON,⁶ baptized Aug. 21, 1743; married 1st, Rose Burnham, Dec. 5, 1765 and son Aaron⁷ was baptized Oct. 12, 1766 in Ipswich; married 2nd, Mary Hall, of Medford, 1775.
- 77a
- 78 ISAAC,⁶ baptized Dec. 15, 1745.
- 79 ELIZABETH,⁶ baptized April 10, 1748.
- 80 LYDIA,⁶ baptized June 24, 1750; married Francis Knight of Manchester, Jan. 21, 1768.
- 81 EBENEZER,⁶ baptized May 24, 1752; died in infancy.
- 82 EUNICE,⁶ baptized Dec. 22, 1754.
- 83 EBENEZER,⁶ baptized Feb. 19, 1758; probably Baptist clergyman.
- 84 EPHRAIM,⁶ baptized Jan. 11, 1761; married Mary Hall.
- 85 SARAH,⁶ baptized Jan. 16, 1763.
- 86 ABIGAIL,⁶ baptized Jan. 16, 1763.

In extreme contrast with the children of Pelatiah who clung without exception to their native soil, not a single child of the family of Stephen so far as known remained in Ipswich.² Stephen became a prominent citizen of Hopkinton, Nathan lived for years in Concord, N. H., but spent the latter portion of his life in Landaff. Aaron removed to Concord, N. H. about 1770, was Captain in Col. Stark's regiment at Bunker Hill and lived later in Hanover. Ephraim removed to Springfield, N. H. and later to Williamstown, Vt. Ebenezer is identified by the author of "The Kinsman Family,"¹ with the Baptist clergyman of the name, who was pastor in Limerick, Me., 1796-1807.

41 DANIEL KINSMAN,⁵ baptized Oct. 23, 1720; married Mary Perkins, Jan. 23, 1740 and made his home in Ipswich, it is believed. He died March 11, 1746 and his widow married Abraham Carter of Gloucester (pub. June 30, 1750). Their children were:

87 DANIEL,⁶ baptized Sept. 20, 1741; died July 28, 1742.

88 DANIEL,⁶ baptized May 13, 1744; married Abigail Morse, April 7, 1768. He married in Hopkinton, lived for many years in Hubbardston, but spent his last days in Shrewsbury.

89 LUCY,⁶ baptized Aug. 24, 1746; married Ebenezer Trask of Gloucester (pub. April 6, 1768).

42. JEREMIAH KINSMAN,⁵ baptized May 3, 1724; received from his father, by his will, all the land he owned in Walker's Swamp,² "with the dwelling house and buildings thereon," 1756. He had married Sarah Harris (pub. Jan. 21, 1743) and the goodly house, which still stands was probably built for their abode. A family tradition affirms that it was built in 1752. It was repaired and largely rebuilt by the late William H. Kinsman. The good wife died Sept. 19, 1805 at the age of 79 years. The husband survived until March 3, 1818. Their children were:

90 SARAH,⁶ married Capt. John Andrews, Dec. 18, 1766, lived and died in North Yarmouth, Me.

91 DOROTHY,⁶ baptized (adult), May 4, 1764; married Joseph Adams of Gloucester Sept. 19, 1774.

92 JEREMIAH,⁶ born Oct. 6, 1748; baptized May 4, 1764. See No. 92.

93 WILLIAM,⁶ born Aug. 27, 1752; baptized May 4, 1764. See No. 93.

94 MEHETABLE,⁶ born about 1757; baptized May 4, 1764; married

John Burnham, Nov. 23, 1780 and removed to Enfield, N. H.

The daughters of this group of children migrated and Jeremiah; but William clung to the farm.

45. JOHN KINSMAN,⁵ was baptized Aug. 21, 1737. We went for his wife to the Argilla neighborhood, where the other group of the Kinsman name was growing up, and married Abigail Wells, daughter of Ensign Nathaniel and Sarah Kinsman on Feb. 9, 1758. In 1759, he bought a 3½ acre pasture lot of his father and built a dwelling, on the site now occupied by the house of Mr. Charles G. Brown in Candlewood, a few rods from the ancient dwelling place of Quarter master Robert. He sold the house and lot to Moses Kinsman in 1784. He had married, second, Margaret Appleton, June 3, 1773. Their children by the first marriage were:

95 JOHN,⁶ born Nov. 7, 1762.

96 JAMES,⁶ born July 22, 1764.

¹Page 76.

²Page 36.

46. JAMES KINSMAN,⁵ baptized May 13, 1739, married Mary Boardman Nov. 6, 1760. Three weeks before, Oct. 18, 1760, his father had conveyed to him three fourths of a dwelling and land, a part of his large estate on the Essex road and the young couple established themselves under shadow of the young bridegroom's home.¹ The husband died in 1762 and the widow sold part of the land to Capt. Kinsman.

97 Their daughter, MARY,⁶ born Dec. 18, 1761, married James Remmick, Sept. 10, 1782, in Dover, N. H., where her mother lived, having married Samuel Bragg (pub. Aug. 17, 1765) who removed to Dover and sold his Ipswich farm in 1784. Mary Remmick had received a legacy from her grandfather, Capt. John Kinsman. She and her husband, then of Barrington, N. H., sold this interest to Asa Andrews in 1819.

50. SAMUEL KINSMAN,⁵ baptized July 19, 1747, inherited the homestead of Captain John. He married Martha Smith, Nov. 30, 1769. In 1784, he bought the farm near his father's house now owned by Mr. Carl Caverly and made his home there.² Their children were:

98 MARTHA,⁶ baptized June 23, 1771; married 1st, Stephen Boardman, June 2, 1791; married 2nd, Elias Haskell of Gloucester, Sept. 21, 1812.

99 BETSEY,⁶ baptized July 7, 1776; married John Wells Jr., Dec. 15, 1796.

100 SAMUEL,⁶ baptized Aug. 7, 1785; married Hannah Pearson, Nov. 5, 1809, who died Sept. 5, 1859, aged 75 yrs. 6 mos. He died April 8, 1860.

Mr. Kinsman died Dec. 29, 1806 aged 59 years and his widow Dec. 10, 1820, aged 70.

51. JONATHAN KINSMAN,⁵ baptized Jan. 7, 1749 was a student at Brown University and is the first of the long line who is known to have had a college education.³ He married first, his life long friend, Hannah Burnham, daughter of their neighbor, Isaac and Hannah Burnham. He became a prominent citizen of Parsonsfield, Me., where his wife died Sept. 4, 1795. He married second, Susanna Bemont, in 1796. He removed subsequently to Athens, Me., where he died, April 27, 1825. Two of their nine children were born in Ipswich:

101 HANNAH BURNHAM,⁶ baptized Feb. 27, 1774.

102 SALOME,⁶ baptized Sept. 10, 1775.

Their daughter, Mary,⁶ born in Saco, Me., Oct. 10, 1784⁴ became the wife of John Burnham Brown, the Candlewood farmer whose land holdings have already been traced,⁵ on April 2, 1818.

53. MICHAEL KINSMAN,⁶ baptized April 6, 1746, married first, Sarah Treadwell (pub. Nov. 19, 1768) and second Mary Knowlton, Dec. 15, 1783. He died Nov. 25, 1795. In the last year of his life, we find that he bought the house and lot, now owned and occupied by the widow of J. Farley Kinsman, April 21, 1795. The children by the first marriage were:¹

- 103 BETSEY,⁶ married Aaron Blaney Jr.; resided in Bristol, Me.
- 104 PELATIAH,⁶ born Jan. 11, 1785; died April 18, 1807.
- 105 MARY,⁶ born June 16, 1787; married Henry Little Jr. of New-castle, Me.

This whole family spent their days within a mile or two of their birth-place. Nathaniel Lought and occupied the farm which is now owned by Joseph Marshall. Aaron never removed from the farm of his ancestors and never married. In his young manhood he was a member of the Ipswich Troop of horse, which met General Lafayette and escorted him into Ipswich, Aug. 31, 1824. A heavy rain marred the pleasure of the occasion and Lafayette desired the officer in charge to dismiss the troop as quickly as possible. The sword and horse pistol carried by Mr. Kinsman on this occasion are preserved in the collection of the Ipswich Historical Society.

Jane married Moses, the son of Moses and Lucy, and lived her married life on the Moses Kinsman farm in Candlewood. Charlotte married Elisha Brown and found a home in the Elisha Brown dwelling on the Candlewood road. Hannah and Clarissa never married.

92. JEREMIAH KINSMAN⁶ was born Oct. 6, 1748 and went to live in the new house, built by his father, when he was four years old. He married Martha Andrews, Nov. 16, 1769, who died April 11, 1810; and married second, in New Ipswich, N. H., Lydia Campbell, May 7, 1812 who died Sept. 24, 1757 at the great age of 98 years 8 months. He served in the Revolution and was credited with fifteen months and twenty-six days. After the war, he removed to Fitchburg. The Kinsman genealogy, page 95, gives his children, to whom should be added, the first born Jeremiah, baptized, Sept. 30, 1770, and died in infancy. THE DESCENDANTS OF WILLIAM FELLOWS OF IPSWICH, MASS.

EDITORIAL NOTE.—Great assistance in the investigation of this line has been rendered by Miss Harriet Davis Fellows of Cornwall-on-Hudson, who furnished the data regarding the descendants of Capt. Jonathan Fellows of Gloucester. Mr. Horatio Davis of Boston has also contributed family notes. Mr. Joseph Davis has made a careful study of the Fellows line, from which he is descended, and is confident that the children of Cornelius Fellows and Sarah Williams, No. 53, were the first to write the name Fellowes. GENEALOGICAL RECORD OF THE DESCENDANTS

WILLIAM FELLOWS OF IPSWICH, MASS.

1. WILLIAM FELLOWS is known to us, first, as one of the Town cow-herds. In the earliest contract with these officials mentioned in our Town Records, under the date of Sept., 1639, agreement was made with William Fellows to keep the herd of cows on the south side the river, from the 20th of April to the 20th of November. He was bound by his contract, "to drive them out to feed before the sunne be half an hour high and not to bring them home before half an hour before sunset." He was also required to drive the cattle, "coming over the River back over the River at night," and to take charge of them "as soon as they are put over the River in the morning." He was liable for any harm coming to the herd and was to receive 12 pence for each cow before he took them, a shilling and six pence fourteen day safter mid-summer and the rest at the end of the terms in corn or money, a total of £15. In 1640, he was associated with Mark Quilter and Symon Tompson as the cowkeepers on the north side of the river.

Twenty years later, he bought the John Andrews farm¹ and took up his residence in Candlewood. In 1664, when Richard Saltonstall conveyed the title in several lots to his son, Nathaniel of Haverhill, on the occasion of his marriage with Elizabeth, daughter of Rev. John Ward, he included in his gift a farm of 150 acres at "Chebacco," "now in the occupation of William and Isaac Fellows." This farm is now owned by the heirs of Asa P. Stone in Argilla. William Fellows was a "tenant to Richard Saltonstall," Sept., 1659. Mr. Fellows and his son were also lease holders of 15 acres of meadow near the land of Dep. Gov. Symonds. In 1666, with John Proctor Sen., he bought a four rod lot with a house an the west corner of Green St. and the Meeting House Green. The double ownership continued during his life but on Dec. 21, 1676 his executors bought the Proctor interest of Proctor's heirs.

His widow survived him and at his death five children were living:

- 2 ISAAC,² born about 1637. See No. 2.
- 3 EPHRAIM.² See No. 3.
- 4 SAMUEL.² See No. 4.
- 5 JOSEPH.² See No. 5.
- 6 SARAH,² born July 26, 1657; married John Rust, a widow in 1722.

- ✓ 7 ABIGAIL,² married Samuel Ayres,¹ April 16, 1677.
 ✓ 8 MARY,²
 ✓ 9 ELIZABETH,² } added by a family genealogist.

2 ISAAC FELLOWS² served in Captain Willard's Company in King Philip's war, and was credited to the Town, July 24, 1676.² In 1678, he was one of the surveyors of highways. He was associated with his father in the lease of the Saltonstall farm in the Argilla neighborhood and other land. He bought of Henry Bennett a house on Wigwam Hill in 1680, and may have removed thither as in 1705, his conveyance of his farm to his son, Jonathan, mentions that it was then occupied by William Durgey.

He married Joanna Borm (contraction for Boardman), Jan. 29, 1672. Corporal Isaac died April 6, 1721 "upwards of 84," and his widow died March 22, 1732. Their children were:

96. CALEB FELLOWS,⁶ born July 9, 1771, married Mrs. Sarah Carver of Philadelphia and settled in Roxbury in 1816. His career was extraordinary and romantic. Sailing from Boston as mate of the ship, Fair American, for some unknown reason, he was set adrift in an open boat in mid-ocean. He was picked up by a ship bound to the East Indies, where he commanded various vessels engaged in river commerce and gained a fortune. Under the name of Captain Williams, he married a native woman, but no children were born to them.

He died on Nov. 8, 1852 and bequeathed $40,000 to erect a building similar to the Philadelphia Athenaeum, within half a mile of Rev. Mr. Putnam's meeting house in Roxbury. The residue was to be safely invested and the income to be devoted to the purchase of books and periodicals. The fund had increased to $54,000 in 1872, when the building, known as Fellows Athenaeum, was begun. It was formally dedicated early in July and opened for public use in July 16, 1873. It is now a branch of the Boston Public Library.¹

OF THE DESCENDANTS OF JOHN BROWN
— OF — IPWSICH, MASS,

EDITORIAL NOTE.

This is not a complete genealogy. The tracing of all lines of descent in every generation would require an amount of research, and an expenditure of time and money, which makes it a task practically impossible for me and wholly beyond the scope of my original plan. My primary purpose has been to trace the Ipswich descendants and this plan has been adhered to in the main down to the year 1800. In constructing this portion of the work, I have made an independent personal study of all the Ipswich vital records. But Mr. Sidney Perley has already covered this ground in his monograph published in The Essex Antiquarian, vol. xii, No. 4. While I am not in complete agreement with his work, I have been glad to make frequent reference to it for families, which have migrated from Ipswich. His reputation for pains taking and accurate work is well known, and I have been glad to avail myself of his investigations, particularly in the Hamilton families of this line.

From the year 1800 or thereabout I have endeavored to make a fairly complete study of the male line of descent, following each family as far as possible. I have made special effort to connect the Ipswich families with their locations, and this is indicated in the footnotes, and in the Index. This will give vividness to the narrative and will be appreciated especially, I hope, by those who are familiar with Candlewood.—T. F. W.

JOHN BROWN OF IPSWICH, MASS.

1. JOHN BROWN SENIOR, the earliest settler in the Candlewood region bearing the family name, is first mentioned in the Town Records in 1640. The Deposition of Thomas Burnum and Martha Thorne¹ affirmed that they knew that "Old Mr. John Brown live in a House in Ipswich Town near the house of the Rev. Mr. William Hubbard's" above seventy years ago, i. e., about 1650. This has been identified already with a location on Heartbreak Road.² They affirmed further that before 1660, Mr. Brown, "built a house att the Farme and lived in said house he built att the farme till after the year of our Lord, One Thousand Six Hundred and Sixty four." This is identified as the farm now owned by John Henry Brown, on Fellows's Lane.

In the year 1670, John Brown sold John Andrews a mare. A law suit resulted in the following year and various depositions were made by the interested parties. John Brown Sen., affirmed that he sold the mare to John Andrews in August, 1670.

"I, Mary Brown, was present and heard my husband, John Brown Sen. sell the mare." Martha Brown, daughter of John Brown Sen. made deposition regarding her father's sale. John Brown also gave witness.

Court Papers, Vol. XVI. p. 142.

John Brown Sen. died on Sept. 13, 1677. The inventory of his estate is of especial interest, as it reveals the furnishing of each room in the ancient farm house and the complete equipment of the farm. The dwelling seems to have contained only two rooms and the chamber above.

John Browne in Court held at Ipswich the 25 of September 1677 upon oath delivered this to be a true Inventory of his father's estate to the best of his knowledge.

as attest Robert Lord, Clerk.

Court Records, Nov. 6, 1677.

"John Browne of Ipswich dyeing intestate power of administration Granted unto John Browne his eldest son by the Court, John Browne eldest son of John Brown deceased pduced an Inventory of the estate of his deceased father amounting to about 605^{lb} to w^{ch} he made oath, granted administration and disposed of the estate as followeth, first y^t besydes the 50lb apiece pay'd or designed to be given by the father to his two daughters, Jacob and Thorne, he shall within one year pay to each of them ten pound to his brother Nathaniell who hath already received upon his marriage 200lb we see not cause to allow more. The rest of the estate, of houses lands, cattells, goods etc we order to the said John Browne pvided the houses and lands stand bound to pay to his mother sixteene pounds to her content and a roome in the house with necessary furniture dureing her life and also pay such Legacies as she shall bequeath at her death to her children not exceeding the value of 21lbs."

On April 2, 1679, John Brown petitioned to be relieved from these terms of settlement. His brother Nathaniel, aged about 25 years testified, "not long before my father John Brown's death he spoke of the woman which is now my brother John's wife. My father said he was not willing he should marry with her. He said he would give to his son John all his living as he had already given to Sarah Martha and myself."

Court Papers, Vol. XXXI, pp. 17,18,19.

"Upon the considderation of the petition of the sd. John Browne and the testimony of Andrew Burdley, Nathaniel Browne and Mary Lambert the Court sees cause to take him off from paying the sd. sisters 10lb apiece and the 21lb to his mother for her disposal at her death."

Court Record, April 1, 1679.

These documents show that the wife's name was Mary and that the children were:

- 2 JOHN,² born about 1639. See No. 2.
- 3 MARTHA,² married Barnard Thorne between 1670 and 1679.
- 4 SARAH,² married Thomas Jacobs, Dec. 21, 1671 (Parish Record).
- 5 NATHANIEL,² born about 1652. See No. 5.

2. JOHN BROWN,² was born about 1639. Another John Brown called "the glazier" and "the drummer," of about the same age, a resident in Ipswich, has been confused with the John Brown, son of John, whom we are now considering. It is necessary to establish the identity of each of them at the outset.

The Town Records contain the birth entries:

Elizabeth, daughter of John, born April 15, 1664.

John, son of John, born Sept. 29, 1666.

Jonathan, son of John, born Nov. 4, 1668.

Sarah, daughter of John born Dec. 2, 1670.

Hannah, daughter of John, the glazier, born Nov. 13, 1676.

John Brown, the glazier, had wife Mary, in 1668. On April 22, 1668, John Brown, glazier, his wife, Mary, releasing right of dower, sold two divisional lots in Plum Island to Francis Wainwright (23:70). On March 20, 1674-5, he sold his house on High St., in Ipswich, to Thomas Lull and Robert Paine, his wife, Mary, signing release (Ips. Deeds, 3: 335).

John, the glazier, was a notorious drunkard. The Town authorities ordered him not to frequent any of the ordinaries "as he neglects his vocations and spends much time and expense" (1672) and the Ipswich Court ordered, "No person whatsoever shall sell or give unto John Brown the glazier, any strong drink etc." This notice was to be posted at the meeting house and ordinaries, 1679. (Court Papers, Vol. XXXI: 19.) The Grand Jury presentment calls him John Brown, the drummer (XXXI: 18.) At the same Court, John Brown, son of John, was released from paying extra money to his sisters and mother. The term, glazier, is used to distinguish the tippler from the farmer.

A neighborhood scandal on High Street arose in 1682. John Brown, aged 44, and Mary his wife, testified; also Elizabeth Brown and Mary Brown aged 19. (Court Papers, Vol. XXXVII: 89.) The Grand Jury made presentment against Mary Brown and Elizabeth, the glazier's daughters, for arranging their hair too showily and wearing silk scarfs, April 14, 1682. (Court Papers, Vol. XXXVII: 116.)

In 1690, he was before the Court again for his evil habits and on March 29, 1692, John Brown, the glazier, was presented for being a common drunkard, and for throwing a fire brand at his wife, which struck her on the thigh. (Court Papers, Vol. LII: 112.)

These citations establish the fact that Elizabeth born 1664, the first of the children named¹ was the daughter of John, the glazier and Mary, that Hannah, born in 1676, was the daughter of the glazier, that Mary was his wife in 1682 and that all the children named above were of this family. The deposition of Nathaniel Brown already quoted,² made on April 2, 1679, affirmed that his father made objection not long before his death to his brother John's marriage with the woman, "which is now my brother John's wife." The Town Record contains the entry:

"John Brown... was married ... 1677." (his father died Sept. 13, 1677); also the birth entry, "John Brown, son of John at farme, July 1678."

On Sept. 17, 1684, John Browne, farmer, wife Hannah, sold 9 acres in Chebacco to Francis Wainwright, "free from all incumbrance whatsoever, done suffered and committed by the aforesaid John Brown's heirs or assigns or by John Browne his father deceased." (9: 228). The word 'farmer,' as we have already observed distinguished the thoroughly respectable resident of Candlewood from the notorious toper. Mary, the daughter of John and Hannah, was born July 3d, 1685. (Town Record). He bought the Bishop farm Jan. 1, 1684.³ On April 18, 1707, John Brown Sen, farmer, conveyed to his son William, two acres of this farm, "Elizabeth my wife freely consenting to sd gift and freely surrenders and yields up her right of thirds or dower." (28: 19).

John Brown Sen. now house carpenter, conveyed to his son William, one third of the Bishop farm, on which he dwelt with no mention of wife, May 26, 1714 (27: 28) and to his sons, John and Nathaniel, various lots, including the common right which belonged to the Bishop dwelling, May 26, 1714 (27: 29). Nathaniel Brown died intestate, July 18, 1719; and on June 2, 1721, John Brown Jr., James Brown, William Brown, Sarah Cogswell, widow, and Samuel Choate and Mary his wife, surviving heirs of Nathaniel, agree in a written instrument that the estate of their brother shall revert to their father (313: 308). John Brown conveyed to his son, James, two thirds of the Bishop farm, except what he had given William out of one of their thirds, no wife mentioned, July 9, 1721 (39: 54). The Town Record states that Mr. John Brown died on April 9, 1727 aged 84, and Hannah, relict of farmer John Brown, died Nov. 19, 1727. A weather-worn headstone of red sandstone marks the place of their burial in the old High Street burying ground. Recent investigators have declared it illegible or have disagreed as to the inscription. I rubbed it with soft chalk, dusted it off carefully and the inscription was perfectly clear.

of his Age

Also Hannah

This agrees perfectly with the reading of Mr. Hammatt who copied all the epitaphs many years ago. There is a slight discrepancy between the age of Mr. Brown and the date of his wife's death as given by the Record and the inscription. Preference is naturally given to the inscription, as many inaccuracies are found in the public records. The inference must be that he had three wives, Hannah, Elizabeth and Hannah. Their children were:

- 6 JOHN,³ born July, 1678. See No. 6.
- 7 WILLIAM.³ See No. 7.
- 8 JAMES.³ See No. 8.
- 9 MARY,³ born July 3, 1685; died Oct. 25, 1686.
- 10 SARAH,³ married John Cogswell of Chebacco (pub. Sept. 25, 1708) his widow in 1721.
- 11 MARY, married Samuel Choate, son of the nearest neighbor (pub. March 31, 1716).
- 12 NATHANIEL,³ died July 18, 1719 in his 29th year. (Gravestone).
- 13 ELIZABETH,³ died May 7, 1716, in her 22nd year. (Gravestone)

5. NATHANIEL BROWN,² born about 1652, was a soap boiler by trade and had his "sope-house" near the dam on South Main st.¹ He lived near by at the time, but subsequently seems to have occupied a house on what is now Washington St. He was a tithing man and a farmer in 1681. In Jan., 1706, he sold to his son, Nathaniel, a weaver, a house, barn and 16 acres in his homestead in the Hamlet (19: 192). He married Judith Perkins, Dec. 16, 1673 and died in 1717. His will was proved, June 17, 1717. His wife survived him and made her home in Wenham for many years. Their children were:

- 14 JOHN,³ born about 1674. He lived in Wenham and removed to Preston, Conn.¹ (44: 218).
- 15 NATHANIEL,³ born about 1676. In 1706, a weaver by trade, he bought his father's homestead in the Hamlet. He also removed to Wenham before 1717 (44: 218).
- 16 ELIZABETH,³ married William Hasey of Rumbly Marsh (Chelsea), April 5, 1702.
- 17 MARY,³ married John Hubbard (pub. 22-2, 1710).
- 18 HANNAH,³ married Edward Cogswell of Chebacco (pub. Aug. 21, 1708). Edward Cogswell sold to Nathaniel Brown "my father's house etc in Chebacco," May 3, 1709 (21: 73).
- 19 JACOB.³ See No. 19.
- 20 JAMES,³ born June 1, 1685. See No. 20.
- 20a BENJAMIN.³

Judith Brown, the widow of Nathaniel, conveyed to her sons, Nathaniel and Benjamin, the right to the houses where they then dwelt, given her by her husband's will, Oct. 10, 1716, and to her son James, all the lands given him by his father, March 9, 1741 (91: 168).

6. JOHN BROWN,³ born July 1678, was called John Jr., in 1742 and Sergeant. Both yeoman and cordwainer, he lived on the farm in Fellows's Lane but enlarged it by the purchase of the John Ross farm adjoining² in 1737. He married Mary Fellows, his near neighbor, before 1712. He died on May 6, 1759 and his will (proved May 28, 1759), provided for his widow and children and for the children of his son John³, deceased. He had conveyed to his son, called John 3d, a house and 2 acres, Jan., 1745, near the house now owned by William J. Cameron, at the fork of the Essex road and Lakeman's Lane.⁴ To his daughter, Mary (Lufkin) he gave his negro child, Luie, and his negro woman, Phillis, after his wife's decease. Their children were:

- 20b JOHN.⁴ See No. 20b.
- 21 MARY,⁴ married Moses Lufkin of Ipswich, April 10, 1733.
- 22 JOSEPH,⁴ removed to Topsfield and Boxford.⁵
- 23 NATHAN.⁴ See No. 23.
- 24 DANIEL.⁴
- 25 SARAH.⁴

7. WILLIAM BROWN,³ was a weaver and had built his house on a part of his father's farm on the Candlewood road before April, 1707.⁶ His land holdings have already been noted.⁷ He married Dorothy Giddings, April 17, 1703. His will dated Aug. 3, 1752 was proved April 2, 1753, and his estate was appraised at £701-11s. 6d.¹ Their children were:

- 26 WILLIAM,⁴ See No. 26.
- 27 THOMAS,⁴ See The Essex Antiquarian, Vol. XII, No. 4, p. 161.
- 28 ELISHA,⁴ See No. 28.
- 29 DOROTHY,⁴ baptized 8-2 mo. 1711; married Caleb Burnam, Feb. 10, 1731; died July 28, 1784.
- 30 BENJAMIN,⁴ baptized April 12, 1713. See No. 30.
- 31 NEHEMIAH,⁴ baptized 5-12 mo. 1715. See No. 31.
- 32 STEPHEN,⁴ baptized 1-7 mo. 1718. See No. 32.
- 33 NATHANIEL,⁴ baptized July 17, 1726; not mentioned in his father's will, probably died young.

8. JAMES BROWN,³ received from his father two thirds of his farm on the Candlewood road with the dwelling.² He was a shop keeper and his home was probably on North Main St., where his business interests were located.³ He married Sarah Cogswell (pub. July 13, 1723.) His will, dated April 3, 1740 was proved June 1, 1741 and his large estate was appraised at £6530-11s.⁴ Their children were:

- 34 JAMES,⁴ baptized March 21, 1724-5; not living in 1760.
- 35 JONATHAN,⁴ baptized June 5, 1726; died July 19, 1726.
- 36 JONATHAN,⁴ baptized June 18, 1727. See No. 36.
- 37 FRANCIS,⁴ baptized Aug. 4, 1728; died Aug. 16, 1728.
- 38 FRANCIS,⁴ living in 1740.
- 39 LUCY,⁴ baptized Sept. 7, 1729; not living in 1760, probably died March 13, 1745.
- 40 EUNICE,⁴ baptized July 18, 1731; married Timothy Thornton of Boston (pub. Mar. 28, 1761) who married, second, widow Lydia Lord, July 14, 1785.
- 41 ELIZABETH,⁴ born Feb. 2, 1732; married Robert Perkins, July 19, 1753.
- 42 SARAH,⁴ baptized Nov. 24, 1734.

19. JACOB BROWN,³ called Lieut., Yeoman and cordwainer, lived in the Hamlet parish. He married Sarah Burnham of Chebacco (pub. Jan. 10, 1707-8) who died April 9, 1729 aged 50. He married second, widow Mary Dane of the Hamlet (pub. Nov. 30, 1735), and third, Elizabeth Brown of Ipswich (pub. Nov. 14, 1761). He died Feb. 26, 1769, and his estate was appraised at £1387-17s. 7d. His wife, Elizabeth, survived him and died at the age of eighty-eight, June 1, 1774.⁵ Their children were:

- 43 JACOB,⁴ lived in the Hamlet Parish until about 1758, when he removed to Preston, Conn. No son survived him.⁶

20. JAMES BROWN,³ born June 1, 1685, called a trumpeter in 1713 and 1718, yeoman in 1714, inherited his father's dwelling. He married Mehitable Pengry, June 7, 1707, who died Aug. 29, 1719, in her thirty-third year. James Brown Jr. died at the Hamlet, May 23, 1735. Their child was:

- 52 JAMES,⁴ baptized April 3, 1715.

20b JOHN BROWN,⁴ called John 3d in the conveyance by his father,² lived in the house at the fork of Essex Road and Lakeman's Lane. A clump of lilac bushes marks the site. By trade, he was a carpenter. He married Mary Fitts? Jan. 2, 1724-5. His will and inventory were filed June 9, 1746 and the estate was divided by a committee, May 26, 1759 (Pro. Rec. 336: 246). Their children were:

- 53 RUTH,⁵ baptized June 30, 1728; probably, not living in 1759.
- 54 SAMUEL,⁵ inherited $\frac{2}{3}$ of estate, which he conveyed to Thomas Boardman.²
- 55 ABEL,⁵ baptized Mar. 5, 1737.
- 56 MARY,⁵ baptized April 13, 1740; married Ammi Andrews of Chelmsford before 1759.
- 57 HEPHZIBAH,⁵ baptized Aug. 30, 1741; married Nathaniel Brown, Feb. 1, 1768. See No. 88.
- 58 JOHN,⁵ baptized July 21, 1745; died early.

Guardianship of Abel Brown, a minor of 14 years and of Mary and Hephzibah, under 14 years, all children of John Brown 3d was granted to Mary Brown, widow, Dec. 18, 1752 (Pro. Rec. 331: 94.) Guardianship of Hephzibah was granted Ammi Andrews, April 27, 1761 (Pro. Rec. 338: 123.) Abel received no share in the estate and probably was not living in 1759.

23. NATHAN BROWN,⁴ bapt. 30-1, 1712, cordwainer and farmer, acquired the farm of his father on Fellows's Lane and lived there all his days.³ He married Elizabeth Knowlton of the Hamlet (pub. Aug. 19, 1737) and

He married first Ester Parkman of Wenham (pub. July 7, 1743) and second Anna Whipple of the Hamlet parish (pub. May 9, 1761.) They removed to Moultonborough, N. H. in 1774, where Mrs. Brown died June 30, 1775, and her husband, July 20, 1775, aged 54 years.

died April 7, 1794. His widow died Nov. 27, 1798. He distributed his estate by will (proved June 2, 1794). Their children were:

- 59 JAMES,⁵ baptized March, 1739; died before 1794.
- 60 ELIZABETH,⁵ baptized May 4, 1740; died before 1794.
- 61 NATHAN,⁵ died Feb. 16, 1747.
- 62 JEREMIAH,⁵ baptized Nov. 9, 1746. See No. 62.
- 63 HANNAH,⁵ baptized Jan. 1, 1748; married Thomas Boardman before 1774; widow in 1794.
- 64 SUSANNA,⁵ baptized Nov. 25, 1750; unmarried in 1794.
- 65 NATHAN,⁵ baptized Nov. 19, 1752. See No. 65.
- 66 JOHN,⁵ baptized March 28, 1756. See No. 66.
- 67 ABRAHAM,⁵ baptized Dec. 9, 1759. See No. 67.

26. WILLIAM BROWN JR.,⁴ received from his father a small piece of land on which his blacksmith shop stood, 1753.¹ He married Elizabeth Kinsman (No. 25, p. 56, pub. Jan. 1, 1726) and built his home near the dwelling of the late Manasseh Brown Jr., on the corner of Fellows Lane about 1732.² He was styled, Gentleman, in his latter years as his father had been before him. Mrs. Brown died Feb. 16, 1795 and her husband on Dec. 31, 1799. Their children were:

- 68 ELIZABETH,⁵ baptized Nov. 5, 1727; pub. to Samuel Langdon of Portsmouth, N. H., Oct. 25, 1746.
- 69 LUCY,⁵ baptized July 6, 1729; married Samuel Potter Jr., Jan. 14, 1748. Their home was on the Hobson lot so called on the Essex road.³
- 70 WILLIAM,⁵ baptized Aug. 8, 1731. See No. 70.
- 71 SUSANNA,⁵ baptized March 3, 1733; married Nehemiah Choate, Mar. 27, 1755.
- 72 PELATIAH,⁵ baptized May 2, 1736; removed to Wenham, where he became a prominent citizen.⁴
- 73 PRISCILLA,⁵ baptized April 1, 1739; married Oliver Carter Jr., of Leominster, Nov. 25, 1762.
- 74 MEHITABLE,⁵ baptized Aug. 31, 1740; married Job Giddings, Dec. 15, 1757.

The Committee was authorized to fill any vacancies that may occur in its membership, and enlarge it, if occasion requires.

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT FOR THE YEAR ENDING DEC. 1, 1908.

Even-going prosperity has characterized the past year. The interest of the members continues, visitors to the House remain at a high figure, and the treasury is in a healthy condition. Our venerable House is gaining wider and wider fame, and the happy restoration we accomplished has been a guide and inspiration to others, in similar enterprizes. The Paul Revere house has been restored and opened to the public, and those who were directing the work found valuable suggestions in a visit to our old mansion.

Spending a day or two in Deerfield this fall, I enjoyed the privilege of a thorough inspection of a delightful summer home, which a wealthy Boston family had just completed. Instead of building, they had repaired and restored a venerable dwelling of the eighteenth century and the lady of the house told me of the great pleasure she had found in visiting this house, early this summer. No doubt she carried away some hints that served her well in the artistic and satisfying work she accomplished. From Edgartown on Martha's Vineyard, there came floating to me the enthusiastic praise which a Justice of the Superior Court bestowed on it to an old friend.

The financial exhibit is gratifying in every particular. The receipts from membership fees have been $384, $26 larger than last year's total and $6 larger than the year before. As the total membership increases steadily the revenue from this source should show corresponding growth. But a considerable fraction of the members fail to pay the fee every year, either from forgetfulness or because payment is inconvenient. At least one reminder is given in the course of the year, but a considerable number remain in arrears. If collection could be made from the whole membership the annual revenue would be materially increased. It is a gratifying fact, however, that every year brings us a snug sum from the payment of dues of previous years.

The most elaborate and most expensive of our Publications, No. XV, entitled "The Old Bay Road from Saltonstall's Brook and Samuel Appleton's Farm with a genealogy of the Ipswich descendants of Samuel Appleton," has been published and distributed. The entire expense of this publication was $420.61 but a generous subscription, amounting to $109, was made by the members of the Society, whose summer homes were photographed and used as illustrations.

The total receipts from the sale of our Publications this year have been $24.75. The financial return from Whipple House has been exceptionally good. The door fees netted $145.05. In 1905, the receipts from this source were $134.20, in 1906, $156.75, in 1907, $110.95. Evidently the financial panic diminished our receipts last year and the improvement in business has been followed by the increase noted. One pleasant house-party was entertained in the early summer. The Faneuil Hall Chapter, D. A. R. enjoyed the excellent dinner which our Social Committee spread, saw the Town, made an excursion down river and left us $41 the richer. It happened that the annual supper of 1907 was given after the accounts of the year were closed. It proved the most profitable of all and brought us $76.75. But the supper of 1908, made the excellent return of $64.68. The total receipts were $874.06. In 1905, $717.25, in 1906, $810.97, in 1907, $534.35 were reported. Had the supper of 1907 occurred a few days earlier, the account of 1907 would have risen to $611.10 and the last year's return would have been $798.06.

The mortgage on the House has been reduced $200 and now amounts to $2000. It is carried easily as appears from the annual reduction, but its complete payment in the near future is greatly to be desired. While the financial condition of the Society is stable and prosperous, the payment of the interest and the gradual reduction of the principal of the mortgage make large demands upon the annual revenue. Were this removed, the Society would be able to make larger outlay for its publications, which are of permanent value. No more valuable and enduring work can be accomplished than this. A sinking fund might also be begun, which should be used ultimately for a fire-proof and commodious building, which should serve for safe keeping of valuables and for a variety of useful purposes

Two ways of attaining this end may be suggested to our members, many of whom are amply able to afford this increase of funds. One is by a single payment of fifty dollars which would enroll one in the list of Life Members and relieve from the payment of annual dues. It was understood that a number stood ready to make this single payment, and the Life Membership was created to meet this demand. As a matter of fact, three only of our members have taken any action.

The other method suggested is that of provision in wills for legacies. Such bequests might be made conditioned by the continuance of the Society, with provision for ultimate use if the Historical Society should cease to be. But the permanence of the Society is as well assured as that of any similar organization, and the development of a larger plant and broader work would enhance its certainty of future usefulness. I commend it to the thoughtful consideration of the members that the Historical Society, as a permanent memorial itself of the Past, and as the active agent in securing other memorials of the good and great citizens and of the admirable history of our Town, and in inspiring an appreciative and highminded type of citizenship, claims with perfect reason, a substantial endowment and generous provision for large constructive work.

Membership in the Ipswich Historical Society involves the payment of an annual due of $2, or a single payment of $50, which secures Life Membership. Members are entitled to a copy of the regular publications of the Society, in pamphlet form, without expense, free admission to the House with friends, and the privilege of voting in the business meetings.

There are no restrictions as to place of residence. Any person, who is interested in the Society and desires to promote its welfare, is eligible to membership. We desire to enlarge the non-resident membership list until it shall include as many as possible of those, who trace their descent to our Town.

Names may be sent at any time to the President, but the election of members usually occurs only at the annual meeting in December.

The material for this work has been derived, by original research, chiefly from the Town Records; the Records of the old Ipswich Quarter Sessions Court and other Court Records, the Massachusetts Bay Records, the Massachusetts Archives, and contemporaneous published works, so far as possible.

It is illustrated with facsimiles of ancient documents and photographs.

PART TWO

is a study of the original land grants for house lots on all the ancient streets and lanes, and the successive owners to the present generation, with diagrams, maps, and photographs of many ancient dwellings.

The dates of the erection of houses are noted in many instances, and all transfers are accompanied with citations of the Book and Leaf of the ancient Ipswich Deeds (5 volumes), and the Records of the Essex County Registry of Deeds and Registry of Probate. Some eighteen hundred citations are made from the original sources, and these constitute the sole authority for this record of locations, ownerships, and the probable age and identity of dwellings.

Besides this, there are seven appendices to the volume, giving important historical material under the following heads: A summary of the names of the first settlers from 1633 to 1649; Some Early Inventories; The Letters of Rev. Nathaniel Ward; The Letters of Giles Firmin; The Letters of Samuel Symonds; The Valedictory and Monitory Writing left by Sarah Goodhue; The Diary of Rev. John Wise, Chaplain in the Expedition to Quebec. There is also a copious Index.

The book will be of particular interest and importance to those who are of Ipswich ancestry, and especially, those related to the Ipswich families of
